ROSSLAND—Funeral service was conducted from St. George's Anglican Church for Mrs. Elizabeth Hadfield, who died at Mater Misericordiae Hospital. Mrs. Hadfield was the mother of Mrs. George B. Casey, Prince Rupert.

Rev. W. F. Busche conducted the service which included the congregational hymns, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" and "Abide With Me." The 23rd Psalm was also said. The Nunc Dimittis concluded the service. Miss Daisy Warr was pianist.

Pallbearers included two grandsons, George and Clarence Darrow Casey, Trail; Kenneth Martin, sr., J. A. McLeod, William Tracey and F. G. Arnshaw.

Interment was in the family plot at Mountain View cemetery. There were many lovely floral tributes.

N.H.A. DESIGN-OF-THE-MONTH

The modern concept of the "ideal" house plan, at least to families of average income, is one which affords spacious living accommodation within a minimum-sized and moderately-priced house. Typical of post-war houses designed to meet both of these requirements is this attractive bungalow in which every foot of available floor space has been utilized to the utmost advantage.

The house has been designed primarily for a wide inside lot and boasts a good-sized living room, a separate dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. Direct access to most rooms is afforded by the entrance hall which contains a coat closet.

Measuring 11'8"x18', the living room features a fireplace and enables good furniture arrangement. The large living room window—which the Ottawa owner of the house illustrated has changed into a bay window—greatly enhances the appearance of the house.

The bedrooms are situated on one side of the house with the bathroom conveniently located between them. There are four closets in addition to the coat closet of the entrance hall.

Stucco has been used as the exterior finish for the house illustrated with wood siding applied horizontally on the gable ends. However, any other type of finish could be used although the exterior dimensions would have to be increased approximately one foot for brick veneer or solid masonry.

For estimating purposes, exterior measurements of the house are 37 feet, eight inches, by 27 feet, and the area is 995 square feet.

The Field has Widened—A new flower or vegetable added to the garden each season will increase interest and satisfaction. In this way one becomes familiar with the steady improvement plant breeders and experimenters are continually making. Old favorites among the flowers and vegetables have been wonderfully improved in color or quality and what is of great importance to Canada there are far harder sorts today than were in existence a few years ago. As a result of this new hardness it is now possible to grow such tender things as garden corn, melons, tomatoes, cucumbers, etc., in areas where the old strains would not have had a chance. And the same applies to many formerly tender flowers.

When Soil is Right—Technical people have various scientific tests for determining when the soil is ready for working and planting, but the old gardener simply takes a walk over it. If the soil is muddy and sticks to his boots then he finds other jobs indoors. But if the soil is damp but doesn't squeeze tightly together into a ball it is just right to cultivate. And this rule holds good whether the winter snows have just gone or after a heavy summer shower.

Secret of Transplanting—Whether it is a tiny plant or a 10 foot tree, in transplanting the same basic rules apply. The main thing is to guard against the roots getting dried out. Keep them moist and do not expose to the air. All plants should be set in the earth a little deeper each time they are moved. Soil, which should be as rich and fine as possible, is pressed firmly about the roots. Water well after transplanting, and in the case of big shrubs or trees keep the soil moist for a few weeks. With small things like bedding plants a little shade for the first few days will help, and it is best to do the transplanting in the evening or on a cloudy day.

Cutting Garden—A corner of the vegetable garden or some place at the back of the lawn is often set aside to grow flowers especially for indoor bouquets. When a large supply of blooms is wanted frequent cutting leaves the regular borders a bit shy. Most flowers suitable for cutting purposes will thrive on the same sort of cultivation that the vegetables get. Certain flowers, indeed, like gladioli, sweet peas and others of which the foliage is not very attractive, are best grown with the vegetables.

Covering up—In place of fences or walls one can use growing screens and even the fence or wall will look more attractive if partially hidden in this way. There are all sorts of planting material available for this purpose. It will be listed in any good catalogue. The perennial types are well known. Many people do not realize that one can get quite good and quick results from annuals too. Dahlias, ornamental sun flowers, cosmos, spider plants are only some of the many things that will reach three or four feet in height in a few weeks. And there are quick-growing vines, too, like scarlet runner beans, sweet peas, hops and morning glories.
