CREDIT UNION

locations be placed in the Guarantee or Reserve fund for bad loans.

The report of the directors cited the instituting of a "genuine checking service" as its most important step during the year. Members can now draw on their deposit accounts anywhere in the country by writing a check against those accounts. Drafts are collectible through the Royal Bank of Canada.

Life insurance service is also being offered by the Union under which, by payment of $100 per year on a ten-year endowment basis, there is protection of $2000 in case of death or a full $1000 surrender value in cash at the end of ten years. Members' borrowing liabilities are also protected.

Listed as "no small achievement" was the financial position of the Union which, during the year, had been changed from one of borrowing itself to meet members' servicing needs to one of lending $170,000 to the Co-op Federation, thus helping the Co-op in its financing on fish settlements and store accounts.

ELECTIONS

The meeting elected to the board of directors Julius Johnson and David Deane for three year terms and Hans Hagen for a two-year term. Continuing members of the board are Oscar Pettersen and Verne Fossum, two years, and Nels Rund and Andrew Dybhavn, one year.

John Carpenter was re-elected to the credit committee for a three-year term, continuing members of the committee being S. Haugan and Jack Strand, two years, and John Fredheim and Martin Berg, one year.

Rudolph Olsen was re-elected by acclamation to the supervisory committee, his term being three years. Continuing members are Miss Bea Rudderham, two years, and Ivor Johansen, one year.

Following the general meeting, board of directors and committee members met and named officers as follows:

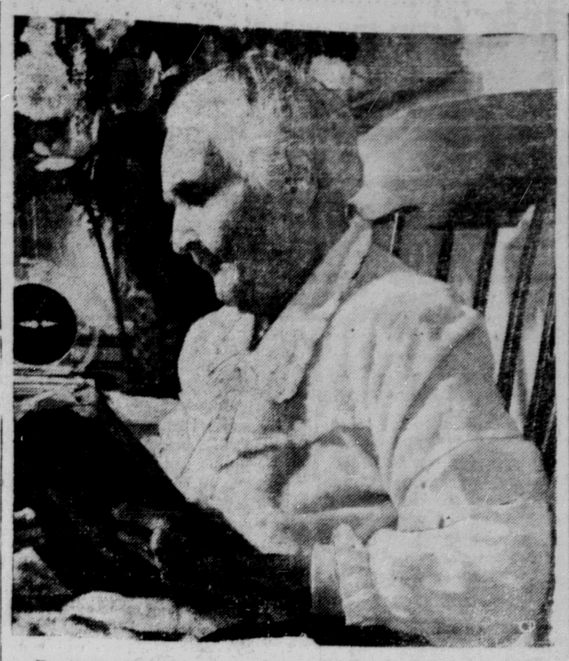

President, Nels Ruud.
Vice-President, Oscar Pettersen.
Chairman of Credit Committee, John Fredheim.
Chairman of Supervisors, Rudolph Olsen.
George Viereck is secretary-treasurer of the Union.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker at last night's meeting was Gordon Butcher of the Credit Union of Canada Health Services Society who urged members to take a vocal interest at these annual meetings in the affairs of the organization so that the officers they elected might be better guided on their wishes in regard to general policy. Borrowers were just as important as investors, Mr. Butcher declared. The necessity of making fundamentally sound loans was emphasized by the speaker.

Mr. Butcher went on to discuss the activities of the health services society which was now specializing in medical service now that the provincial government had taken over the field of hospital insurance. Other insurance fields were also being entered. In the course of questions, Mr. Butcher disclosed that medical service did not include alcoholoism, drug addiction, cosmetic effects and tuberculosis.

Nels Rudd, chairman of the board of directors, presided over the meeting which concluded with the serving of refreshments and the showing of moving pictures.

GLASSES UNNECESSARY—Mrs. Nancy Gill is shown here reading her Bible at her London, Ont., home on the eve of her 100th birthday, February 15. Unusually healthy for her age, she has never needed glasses for reading. Widow of a Scottish immigrant, Mrs. Gill likes to sit in her bed and read and sew "to keep out of people's way." (CP Photo)
