NATIVE WOMAN IS BURIED AT INTERIOR HOME

KITWANGA—Villagers from along the upper Skeena River paid final tribute to the late Mrs. Hazel Stacey at funeral services held here following the arrival of the remains from Prince Rupert where she died two weeks ago.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. Hayhurst with Mrs. Hayhurst playing the organ during the singing of the hymns. For three days prior to the burial, community gatherings were held in tribute to the deceased. Criticism of the manner in which she died in the Prince Rupert city jail was levelled at the authorities by speakers.

Chief Harold Sinclair suggested to a gathering that native parents should keep their children away from the city "in the interests of self protection."

Accompanying the remains from Prince Rupert were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tait, parents of the deceased, and Chief and Mrs. Robert G. Harris. The casket was taken by truck by Chief Fred Johnson from the station to the village. Chief Philip Ryan, Harold Sinclair, Solomon Bryant and Harold Daniels acted as pallbearers.

Then an assembly was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tait, where refreshments were served and an address given by Harold Sinclair.

Villagers from Kitsegukla, Kitwano, Cedarvale and Hazelton attended the funeral service. Speeches of welcome featured the proceedings which preceded the funeral service. Among the speakers were Chief Fred Johnson and Chief Stanley Williams.

During the church service, Chief Robert G. Harris addressed the congregation on the evils of liquor among the native population. Liquor, he declared, had been responsible for many so-called accidental deaths.

Floral tributes from the Upper Skeena, coastal villages and the Naas River settlements attested to the esteem in which Mrs. Stacey was held among the native people.

MANCHURIA MISSIONING

Joys and trials of their years of missionary work in Northern Manchuria were graphically described by Rev. and Mrs. Lorimer G. Baker of Vancouver in an evangelical meeting at Regular Baptist Church here last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker were pioneer missionaries in the field which Mr. Baker said had the lowest Christian occupation of any country in the world. Despite the opposition of the Japanese, the activities of bandits who were everywhere, the competition of the opium and the gambling dens and constant dangers, Mr. Baker described it as a highly fruitful field for missionary work. His only desire was to get back as quickly as possible to the work of winning Manchuria for Christ.

Descriptions of the country of Manchuria, the area of which was as large as that of British Columbia, the great Russian-built city of Harbin, the huge and fertile plain, the rainfall of 200 inches per year made interesting telling for the audience.

Mrs. Baker told stories of simple faith among the women and children of a primitive and often poverty-stricken people and recalled incidents of redemption work in the prisons.

The service was led by G. R. S. Blackaby, local Regular Baptist mentor.

GABARDINE AND NYLON—The latest in women's fashions—a classic suit and coat of a worsted type gabardine made by blending nylon staple fibre with wool. Addition of 20 per cent nylon staple to woolen yarns imparts crease-resistance and greater strength to the finished fabric, it is claimed. Apparel shown is considered superior in quality and costs less than garments of pure worsted. Nylon staple was introduced in Canada for the first time this year.

New Hazelton Sawles Have Anniversary

NEW HAZELTON—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sawle of New Hazelton were thirty-nine years married on Saturday. Their wedding took place in Ontario and they came west during the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. After residing in Prince Rupert for about a year they moved to New Hazelton which has been their home town ever since. Mr. Sawle is proprietor of the well known weekly, the Omineca Herald, and to himself and wife numerous friends have been extending sincere congratulations and best wishes.

JOSEPH SANKEY MARRIED HERE

Mrs. Elsie Sankey and Joseph Sankey, both of Port Simpson, were married late Saturday afternoon in First United Church by Rev. R. A. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. E. Kelly of Port Simpson were the attendants of the couple. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sankey. After the wedding ceremony, there was a wedding supper at the Commodore Cafe. Mr. and Mrs. Sankey sailed Sunday night on the Camosun for a trip to Vancouver after which they will return to Prince Rupert to reside.

Belief In God Is Logical Conclusion

"In the days when Christ was teaching, it was not necessary for Him to convince people of the existence of God, they already believed," said Rev. R. A. Wilson during his sermon at First United Church Sunday morning. "But Paul commenced travelling and teaching outside the borders of his native land and he found many people that had to be shown that there was one God." Mr. Wilson went on to urge how important it was for modern people to have a firm belief in God based on logical conclusions derived from observation and study. The junior choir, under the direction of F. Huber, acting in the absence of J. S. Wilson, was in attendance. Mrs. L. Dakin supplied the organ accompaniment.

"Juliet, my darling, I am aflame! I am burning with love for you!"
"Come, come now, Romeo. Don't make a fuel of yourself!"

This Dessert Has Everything

IRRESISTIBLE eye appeal... matchlessly bright, tangy flavor... just-right consistency — Jell-O offers all the things you want most in desserts. And it's unbelievably easy to make.

Add the fact that Jell-O is about the most economical dessert you can serve, and you'll agree — "Jell-O has everything".

Only Jell-O with its exclusive "locked-in" Jell-O flavor gives the most satisfying results. Look for the big red "JELL-O" letters on the box.

TROPICAL FRUIT MEDLEY
1 package Lemon Jell-O
1 cup (each) hot water and orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup (each) diced canned pineapple, seeded sweet grapes, sliced maraschino cherries

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Add orange juice and sugar. Chill. When slightly thickened, add fruits. Chill in individual moulds.
