Mr. Clyne stated that there had been a feeling of gratification throughout the province at the Lordship's accession to the bench. He stated that he followed some of the footsteps of his father, who was a lawyer in Vancouver, London and Prince Rupert. "This gives me a sense of hope that my name may continue," he declared.

Mr. Clyne replied that he intended to come to Prince Rupert to conduct his first case. It was here, he recalled, that he had started to practice in the practice of law. He had taken his law degree at the University of Toronto. He turned the conversation upon Mr. Clyne's father, who was a well-known lawyer in Vancouver, London and Prince Rupert. He was a member of the law firm of Williams, Manson, Gonzales and Clyne.

Mr. Clyne found a document in his father's files, three criminal cases, three divorces and seven divorce proceedings. He was waiting for his father's Lordship had been welcomed, and he was with the criminal list, as follows:

Philadelphia Wins Pennant

Sensational Finish to National League World Series on Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA — It will be Phillies and Yankees in the World Series commencing this Wednesday in Philadelphia.

The hectic National League race came to an end yesterday in a sensational extra inning game when the Phillies won 4 to 1 over the Brooklyn Dodgers who put up a great fight to the very end.

Dick Sisler broke up the game in the tenth inning with a home run with two men on. It was the first pennant the Phillies had won in twenty-two years.

The Yankees are favored to win the series.

Had Brooklyn won, a best of three play-off series would have been necessary. The Dodgers ran the sagging Phils down to the wire before losing.

Robin Roberts, twirling his twenty-first victory, out-hurled Don Newcombe over the route. Brooklyn nearly won in the ninth except for Ritchie Ashburn's outfield peg that cut down a runner at the home plate.

Mother and Father Two Youths Lose Lives In Boat Upset on Lake

PRINCE GEORGE, (CP)—Four members of a fishing party were drowned and a fifth was swept ashore Sunday after a 12-foot boat capsized on Clucul Lake.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. O. Knutsvik, their eighteen year old son, Harry, and Arthur Bishop, 18, all of Prince George.

Mrs. G. V. Johnson of Clucul Lake, 30 miles from here, was the lone survivor. She clung to the overturned boat and was washed ashore 1½ hours after the accident. The boat capsized when one of the youths attempted to re-start the motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Knutsvik leave seven younger children, the oldest being sixteen. Mr. Knutsvik was a Canadian National Railways telegraph operator here.

Parity between Canadian and United States dollars would mean a rate of $2.80 Canadian dollars to the pound sterling. Before the Canadian government unpegged the rate Saturday night it was $3.08.

In London the Canadian dollar was quoted at 93 and 95 cents in terms of United States currency in the opening foreign exchange dealings. This meant the United States dollar was worth more than $1.05 and $1.07 in terms of Canadian money.

The Canadian dollar was quoted between 93½ and 94½ in terms of United States currency at the opening of foreign exchange dealings in New York. Most traders waited to see at what level the dollar would settle.

Shares in companies which have heavy sales in the United States declined in the opening trading at the Toronto stock exchange. This was due to the fact that companies getting paid in American funds will get less if the Canadian dollar goes up in its relation to the American dollar. The market opened amid considerable uncertainty.

In London the market in Canadian newsprint shares dropped off, and Hudson's Bay fluctuated widely.

FINDING OWN LEVEL
After eleven years, the Canadian dollar was returned to the free market Saturday to find its own level in world currency. The dollar had been pegged at 9.1 of the American dollar to conserve United States dollars in this country. No official here or elsewhere would hazard a guess as to what the dollar might do. It might go higher than the United States dollar or find a position below.

Finance Minister Abbott also said that the amount of United States dollars a person can take out of the country will be increased to any reasonable amount beyond the current limit of $150 per person yearly.

Control will be maintained over the movement of foreign exchange out of Canada.

Mr. Abbott also announced the $3.50 reduction on the bonus paid newly-mined gold production, introduced a year ago, would be restored effective October 1.

Police Pact Here Studied

City of Prince Rupert will be hearing later about what are considered by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of the police requirements of this municipality following the visit here last week of Inspector J. D. Lee of Ottawa who is making a survey of all municipal policing agreements in this province following the taking over of the B.C. Police by the R.C.M.P. Meanwhile, according to Inspector Lee, policing will be carried on much along the same lines as before with adjustment to R.C.M.P. requirements and standards coming in due course.

Inspector Lee is visiting all cities in the province which come under mounted policing now. In addition to the financial arrangements, he inspects police quarters and office conditions.

While here Inspector Lee met the policing committee of the city council.

He arrived last Wednesday by air from Vancouver and proceeded to Prince George on Friday night's train.

GRIM RELIC OF PAST—

Human Skeleton Disinterred By Workmen Digging on Waterfront

A skeleton has been found in the vicinity of Fairview Bay in the course of digging of earth which is being brought by the provincial public works department for improvement of the grounds near the public health centre. There is no modern significance in the grim discovery, however.

A workman found the bones in the course of digging with a spade. Jawbone was damaged before it was realized that it was human remains which had been encountered. Then the disintegrating bones were carefully gathered up and brought to the health unit.

The discovery was made at about ten feet depth.

Theory is that the bones were those of an Indian—possibly a woman—and that they had been interred there many years ago, probably long before white people ever landed on Kalen Island.

B.C. Liberals

Advisory Council and Executive to Meet Early in November

An advisory council meeting of the British Columbia Liberal Association will be held early in November, according to a public announcement made by Harry G. T. Perry, president of the B.C. Liberal Association, following a recent meeting of the officers of the association in Victoria.

Mr. Perry, who is now in Prince Rupert, stated these meetings are required to be held before the end of the year according to the constitution of the B.C. Liberal Association. A definite date will be decided upon after Premier Johnson returns to B.C. and is recovered from his recent accident in Quebec.

The advisory council is in reality a sub-committee of the larger executive and meets as occasion warrants while the executive comprising around 180 members meets once during each calendar year.

Jack McRae, M.L.A., is the northern vice-president and will attend the meetings. Olaf Hanson is on the advisory council.
