Pig Population Is Helping Land

HEADLIGHT, Hampshire, Boar and B—Major L. L. T. Whitaker's formula for reclaiming marginal land is—pigs.

He has turned 120 acres, gorse-covered area on his farm into fine agricultural ground—with the help of a pig population of 300.

First, the ground is cleared and rids—a rough cabbage and for cattle feed—is planted. Pigs are then turned loose in the field where they eat the weeds and prune the rids.

By this means the ground is cleared and fertilized, at the same time producing cattle feed for winter. Next step is the planting of potatoes, corn, vegetables or grass.

Auto Workers Ask More Pay

Pittsburg 9—Philip Murray's powerful CIO United States Steelworkers yesterday demanded higher wages from the United States steel industry.

No dollars and cents wage increase goal has been set but Murray said the exact figure will be established by the Union's wage policy committee at Pittsburg meetings October 6 and 7.

Murray, who heads both the United Steel Workers of America and the Congress of Industrial Organization, of the national players replied: "I am bout for the 1,000,000 member union.

More than 25 million acres were seeded to spring wheat in Canada this year.
