United Nations Approves Atomic Control Interest Centres at Washington Where Truman Has Congress to Help Program

President's Margin is Being Tested by Delayed Returns

NEW YORK (CP)—Scattered returns from the elections still trickled in from outlying parts of the United States today but interest in Washington where President Truman's margin will set up shop again for the next session. The President is due back tomorrow from his home at Independence, Missouri, where townsfolk gave him a fitting victory celebration last night. He will clear up some important business and will leave at the first of the week for a rest in Florida.

The Democratic party platform, to which Truman is now pledged, would make these changes:

1. Repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law.
2. Expand social security coverage benefits at least fifty percent.
3. Enact a national health program embracing compulsory health insurance.
4. Pass the controversial rights program which had aroused the anger of the southern group.
5. Farm price supports and other agricultural legislation.

Truman said: "I have Congress now and I feel sure we are going to make some progress in the next four years."

Returns, 95 percent complete, report somewhat less than the predicted fifty million votes. From 122,349 of the country's 135,864 voting units, Truman holds a commanding 22,288,519 against Dewey's 20,402,056 on the popular vote. Wallace polled 1,030,781 and Thurmond 864,303.

NOT DISCUSSING GENERAL RATES

Hearing in Vancouver is Only on Question of Differential

VANCOUVER (CP)—Examination of the Canadian freight rate structure will form a part of the hearing now before the Board of Transport Commissioners here.

Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, head of a three-man commission hearing the application of British Columbia for a removal of the application of the mountain differential, said the application could "quite properly" be heard at a separate hearing.

Vancouver Island Boards of Trade supported mainland claims that British Columbia industries were paying higher freight rates than eastern producers. They said the mountain differential in rate structure was a retarding influence on development of Vancouver Island.

Her son 1½ years, and daughter, four months, were brought to her later by her sister-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Kliesch are pictured here with their two children upon their arrival in London. PARIS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly today approved over bitter Russian protest the western plan for world atomic control. The vote was 40 to 6 with four abstentions. Russian bloc countries alone voted against the western plan. Earlier the Assembly had turned down Russia's counter-proposal and amendments made by India.

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky rejected the western proposals for control of atomic energy. He told the General Assembly that there was no basis for agreement between the east and west on atomic control. The plan called for an atomic energy commission, consultation among the five great powers (United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and China) plus Canada in an effort to find a solution of the atomic problem.

After Russia had rejected the western proposal for control of atomic energy, General A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada told the General Assembly that Canada will urge an early "high level" meeting of the six countries primarily concerned with atomic energy control. McNaughton firmly denied that international negotiations had reached a dead end.
