

QUEBEC VOTE ON WEDNESDAY

QUEBEC—The provincial election campaign in Quebec is over and voting will take place tomorrow. The voters will choose from among 312 candidates for 92 electoral divisions.

The fate of Premier Maurice Duplessis' Nationale government will be in the hands of about two million voters from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time (6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time).

The campaign, winding up to-night, has been one of the liveliest in a year that has already seen three provincial elections.

The main issues have been the Union Nationale's administrative record over the last four years, anti-communist measures, interpretation of provincial rights and opposition to the Dominion tax agreement.

SEMI-ANNUAL PHONE BOOK

Prince Rupert's city telephone directory will be revised every six months, instead of every year, if council adopts a utilities committee recommendation presented by Alderman Robert McKay last night. The suggestion was tabled along with a report on the proposed new telephone system.

Alderman McKay said that, because of changes in population, there were now 240 telephone numbers not listed in the 1948 directory. He suggested that the directory be revised in March and September in future years.

Acting Mayor Black agreed. "I understand that there is about 15 per cent change in telephone owners and it is getting greater," he said.

Daniel Boswell of the British Columbia Public Utilities Commission with headquarters in Prince George, is in the city on official business, having arrived at the end of the week by car, visiting various interior points on the way here. He expects to return to Prince George this week.

Would Hold Living Cost

Home Makers Organize Here—
To Hear M.P. and M.L.A.'s

To consider the problem of the cost of living, a meeting open to the general public was held last evening in Valhalla Hall. Another meeting will be held next week with the Member of Parliament and members of the legislature in attendance.

Last night's proceedings were at first of a further organizational nature, several detailed matters being taken up and decided on, such as the forming of a committee, and the giving of a name to the group initiating the movement devoted to endeavoring to reduce expenses. It will be known as the Home Makers' League. Among those on the committee to work for the promotion of League activities are Elsie Fyber, Lillian Doane, Kathleen Phillips and N. Matson.

There was a fair sized attendance, chiefly women, with Mrs. Ross Richardson presiding and Mrs. A. G. Bartlett acting as treasurer. The meeting, which began at 8:30, adjourned shortly before 10.

There was an informal discussion, the opinions heard, or any suggestions offered, all centering around the ever increasing cost of everyday outlays essential in the maintenance of a home.

PROHIBITIVE FARM COSTS

G. P. Lyons, invited to the floor, spoke of how costs kept climbing and of how it seemed there was no way yet of avoiding this unhappy condition. He related an incident dealing with a recent visit to Terrace. He had gone to see about buying some new potatoes for his business in Prince Rupert but found prices prohibitive. He cited the cost of farm labor in the interior country which, he understood, was $1 an hour.

Once, youngsters had been working on a 50 cents basis but other young people had made it so unpleasant for them that they could not continue at that rate. Lyons had good words to say for the Home Makers' League and pledged his co-operation. What was wanted was more and fuller co-operation, a live interest, and the presence of more men, as well as women at meetings.

In a review of some features of the general marketing situation, Mrs. Bartlett mentioned several commodities, the cost of which kept going up. She touched on the home and the rearing of a family. That every child be well nourished was vital. The children of today were the men and women of tomorrow.

W. D. Griffiths spoke briefly, recommending the mandating of the committee that was to be formed. Mention was made that at the next meeting, Monday, it was expected there would be present the sitting Federal member, H. G. Archibald M. P. and Wm. Brett, M.L.A. It was also said there was a possibility of W. D. Smith, member for Atlin, being there.

Lost Left Leg For Second Time

AUBURN, Maine—Levi Morin, 49, employed in a shoe plant, accidentally lost his left leg in 1936. Since then he wore an artificial leg. This month he had a second accident. The left leg—this time wooden—was cut off once more on Grand Trunk Railway tracks.

CONTROLLING OF CANCER

OTTAWA—A means of controlling cancer may be discovered before the exact cause of the disease is known, said Lord Horder, vice-chairman of the British Empire Cancer Campaign, who visited here. One type of the scourge, he said, cancer of the prostate gland, has been successfully combated with a drug taken by the mouth. Known methods of treatment should be pursued to their limits.

'Down with Profits!'

That's what he always said. Do away with profits and you'll improve the lot of the working man. And he could prove it.

At least, he convinced all his friends he was right!

He was working for an iron foundry at the time. When he heard the firm's profits were $57,000 that year, he quit in disgust. No one was going to make a monkey out of him.

One of his friends, who ran a small machine shop, gave him a job. It didn't pay as much as the foundry, but that didn't matter so long as he knew his friend wasn't making fabulous profits out of the work he did.

Six months later, their best customer didn't renew a contract. The price, the customer said, was too high. Why didn't they get some modern equipment and meet their competitors' prices?

But they couldn't do that. They hadn't built up the reserves to meet such needs. They'd kept the profits too low. One by one other customers dropped out.

The iron foundry gave him his old job back. He was surprised to find that his wages had been increased since he left despite the profits the foundry had been making, which were higher than ever.

For the record, it's the successful businesses which make the profits, pay the highest wages and have created the highest standard of living in the world today.
