Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Oregonians were reveling in Prince Rupert Monday, when the sky was blue and when, had they waited a while, a gorgeous sunset could have been produced. Oregon and British Columbia are old friends. Once, it almost seemed that not only Oregon, but Washington, were destined to become part of what later became Canada. A century and a half ago the west coast was a great gamble.

Disposal of city refuse matter again engages attention, something that has occurred from time to time over a period of at least thirty-five or forty years. The subject is not to be regarded lightly, or discussed in a playful, bantering way, even if "Wee Mac," Scottish poet and former member of the Daily News staff, invented the "Sniff Yacht." Prince Rupert has a captivating library of maritime rhymes and romances and it's one of them.

The Red River Valley has long been known as one of the most productive regions in the west. The silt, indirectly the result of floods, is said to completely explain the richness of the soil. But some floods are far too costly.

Having bought a package of something or other have you ever noticed the length of time involved in the opening of the package? It must be admitted there has been ingenuity. Yet, so numerous are the gadgets, little guides and artistic directions that one feels like an explorer trying to discover what's been exchanged for the money.

Sixty years washing shirts in an old beer barrel instead of a tub and blessed with a dozen children, Mrs. Ann Matthews of London, tells her story to the BBC. She grew up the hard way, ironing shirts at one and three-pence a dozen—better money than her husband made shoeing horses. She rejoices in 29 grandchildren, and in her own words says: "I wouldn't be without them or a few shirts to iron for the world."

Monday saw the first large scale party of tourists from the U.S., Alaska bound, leisurely viewing Prince Rupert. They are travelling aboard the luxurious Prince George. For some, the north coast is nothing new. But it is for the majority. Like their predecessors they will also be live advertisers. They see a lot—yet actually, it's only the fringe.

Local Woman Sees Gracie

A Prince Rupert woman, on a recent visit to Vancouver, had the pleasure of meeting Gracie Fields, the eminent English music hall songstress.

Mrs. Walter Longwill had a special entre to the dressing room of the famous Lancashire Lass because a niece of Mr. Longwill is the wife of Miss Fields' brother.

Access was readily obtained by Mrs. Longwill owing to this connection as police stood without the dressing room door to prevent crowds from rushing forward in their enthusiasm.

Mrs. Longwill found Miss Fields quite as natural and unaffected as the roles she plays in some of her songs. She was obviously interested in the relationship in this part of the country.

I.O.D.E. Chapter's "Imaginary Tea"

An "imaginary tea" is the latest wrinkle in local entertainment. The meeting of Duchess of Edinburgh chapter, I.O.D.E., decided to stage it June 17.

An interesting report of the provincial annual convention in Vancouver was given by the delegate, Mrs. D. Stewart.

Mrs. M. Wightman, Mrs. N. F. MacDonald and Mrs. A. McCuaig were appointed to a committee to arrange the fall bazaar.

"Communists come to Shangri-la," an interesting article by Matthew Halton, was by Empire study convener, Mrs. E. Barton.

Mrs. Barton won the monthly raffle.

Regent Mrs. M. Wightman presided at the meeting. Twelve members were present.

A Penetrating Sealer and Paint Mix

Tim-Ber-Lox is a clear liquid made from the finest, toughest resins and water-repellent oils and is used as a thinner for oil based paints or as a clear primer before painting or varnishing.

You will be proud of your paint job when you use TIM-BER-LOX because:

1 Tim-Ber-Lox helps prevent paint from "Peeling and Blistering" by affording protection against moisture.

3 The use of Tim-Ber-Lox with paint actually saves YOU money because each quart of Tim-Ber-Lox you use replaces a quart of paint.

2 Tim-Ber-Lox, mixed with paint, reduces "brush drag" to a minimum, thereby giving increased coverage and a superior, longer lasting paint job.

4 Paint mixed with Tim-Ber-Lox flows on more evenly, more smoothly, allowing an inexperienced painter to do a smooth professional looking paint job.

OUTSIDE PAINTING

In order to secure a good paint job it is first necessary to secure a good ground or prime coat. It is in this prime coat that the addition of Tim-Ber-Lox to paint is highly recommended. Paint with Tim-Ber-Lox added, has superior penetrating and sealing qualities which provide a reinforced foundation against moisture and helps prevent the peeling and blistering of succeeding coats of paint.

PLYWOOD

A single application of Tim-Ber-Lox will prevent separating, will greatly reduce warping, buckling, surface checking and will eliminate "Grain Raise," leaving the surface smooth and uniform for subsequent coats of varnish or paint. It costs no more to use Tim-Ber-Lox -- as Tim-Ber-Lox replaces the prime coat of paint or acts as a varnish undercoat where plywood is later to be varnished.

HARDWOOD FLOORS

Tim-Ber-Lox gives a beautiful, soft, natural floor that is water, dirt and stain resisting. Tim-Ber-Lox floors are sealed beneath the surface and therefore easier to keep clean, and retain the wax much longer.

MILLWORK

Tim-Ber-Lox treatment of all millwork -- sash, doors, window frames, etc., will help prevent moisture "pick up" which is the reason for paint peeling and blistering, will also greatly reduce warping, shrinking and checking. Millwork can be treated just as economically with Tim-Ber-Lox as it can be with ordinary paint.
