Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Winning an automobile is a happy surprise, gratifying alike to youth or age. It's happened more than once in Prince Rupert and, now a scenic highway unfolds as you drive out of town, the keener should be the realization. Perhaps an elderly owner would prefer the cash value of a spanking new car. In that case, he or she need only make the suggestion. A substantial bank account is always so convenient.

The people of Winnipeg and the Red River valley are free to return home, providing they can find anything of that description. Many houses will be unfit to inhabit. Any house half full of water and drenched with rain for weeks, will take a long time to dry, even if the foundations are firm and there is no lack of bright, warm weather. Yes, there's a sorry and costly experience ahead for thousands and they will need all available help.

Had fate not seen to it that the Duke of Windsor was born to inherit a throne, he might have become a rattling good newspaperman. He's telling the story of his life and reading it is well worth anyone's time and money. Windsor has humor, insight, and a vast fund of racy knowledge. He never guesses, because he always knows. He makes it clear he had made up his mind never to contract a loveless marriage. And no one can doubt how little he ever felt any desire to be a king.

Halting a flood, to stay that way, is often found next thing to impossible. This was discovered many years ago in cities built along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Billions have been spent trying to hold in check the inundations. But, solving a discouraging problem, means going back, to start with, to root reasons. It means a careful study of some aspects of agriculture, forestry, soil treatment, and causes shown to be harmful that indirectly, yet surely bring on flood conditions. These are points for Manitoba to think about at this stage of affairs.

Water at Salt Lakes being warmer than anywhere else within easy distance, it's the logical place to learn swimming, providing you still have that duty on your engagement list. Becoming a swimmer, the next important obligation is to stay as careful as ever. Above all, don't "show off." No one is interested. No one is impressed. Always, there is more danger than entertainment.

The carrying capacity of trucks having greatly increased, so has the size and weight of loads. This, in turn reacts on the highways. Even back east, where roads, established long ago, firmly built and carefully maintained might be reckoned damage-proof are beginning to suffer. Engineers are condemning the growing practice of loading beyond rated notice, for it foreshadows more grief and costs. There will be far more traffic along the Skeena River some day. There is still time to avoid trouble.

● Cash For Old Gold

Olaf Hanson arrived in the city Thursday night from Terrace, driving in with M. W. Gormely, district forester, who had been on a trip to the interior on official business.

A. O. Franks, pioneer Prince Rupert printer is in hospital as New Westminster and latest word from there indicates that his general condition is by no means reassuring. Mr. Franks, one of the city's best known old timers, having been here as early as 1909, spent the winter in the city in the employ of the Daily News but was obliged to return south for health reasons.

CWL Card Party Has Good Turnout

Twelve tables were in play Thursday night at the Catholic Women's League card party, convened by President Mrs. Ed. Coughlan. Mrs. E. Tselth was cashier.

Bridge winners were Miss E. Cavalier and A. W. Allaire. High crib scorers were Mrs. M. Sanders and Leo DeBlais, while Mrs. Tweed and Miss Sylvia Johnson, playing as gentlemen, were high at whist.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Leo Dorrion, Mrs. G. R. Brett and Mrs. E. Tselth.

Extension Of PGE Justified

Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests, at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association Thursday night, not only justified the extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Prince George at this time but added: "The only mistake is that it was not done years ago." Mr. Kenney also expressed favor for the extension of the P.G.E. into the Peace River and predicted that the day would come when either the Canadian Pacific or the Canadian National Railways would be glad to have the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Construction Of Cow Bay Road

Construction of the Cow Bay road during the fishing and tourist season by city sewer construction work was the subject of complaint by B. J. Bacon Thursday night at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association. Mr. Bacon complained generally of lack of service for waterfront taxpayers, particularly in the matter of maintenance of roads.

T. N. Youngs, who is interested in the contract for sewer construction work, said that an alternate route to the waterfront was being put in off First Avenue while the sewer work was on.

Bowling Presentation Banquet Is Highly Successful Affair

Forty handsome trophies were presented to winners of the Mixed Bowling League during the past season last night in the presence of two hundred persons who sat down at a league banquet in the Canadian Legion ballroom. It was a delightful social affair which everyone enjoyed to the full. Dancing to the tunesome strains of Andy McNaughton's piano music followed the banquet and the merriment kept on until the early hours of the morning.

Garnet Hull, president of the Mixed Bowling, acted as chairman and master of ceremonies. In opening remarks, Mr. Hull remarked with satisfaction on the large turnout of players who were grouped team by team down the long line of tables. It only hoped that, when it came time for the annual meeting, there would be a similarly large gathering so that ideas might be exchanged which would make for a larger and even happier league.

Major trophy of the evening was the handsome trophy presented by Al Manson for league championship—a lofty gold columnar masterpiece of the goldsmith's art, surmounted and flanked by bowling figures and mounted on a two-tone hardwood base of maple and oak on which are affixed numerous miniature shields for the engraving of the names of the winning teams year by year. Amid enthusiastic applause, Mr. Manson made formal presentation of the trophy to Mr. Hull. Mr. Hull then proceeded to make presentation of the various awards:

League Championship—Manson's Jewelers, received by Mrs. Webster Pierce. Team members—Mrs. Webster Pierce, Bob Vuckovich, Jack Paul, Ian Dunbar, Margaret Flynn, Mrs. Sonny Dickens and Mrs. Ian Dunbar, each of whom received a miniature trophy.
