Churchill Speaks Again

he delivered a speech in which he drew attention rather frankly to the danger of Soviet Russia to world peace. The dogged old British war hero was accused of war-mongering and stirring up trouble generally. It was with a notably different attitude of sympathetic receptiveness with which Churchill's speech at Boston last night, none the less candid in regard to Russia, was heard. Events of the intervening time have more than vindicated about it of the hopeful and even, what is unusual in Churchill, something Micawberlike-something student or a scientist, admitting that he was neither, but it was to be noted the great respect and admiration which was so obviously expressed by his audience of scientific masters and students.

The death occurred in hospital here Thursday afternoon of Miss Blanche Curtin, a well-known Prince Rupert woman, who had resided in the city since 1910. In her middle fifties at the time of her death, Miss Curtin had been ill for several months prior to her passing.

Born at Lucan, near London, Ontario. Miss Curtin came to Prince Rupert at the age of 14 During the years here, she was employed as a secretary, a large part of the time for the law firm of Fulton and Patmore.

Several weeks ago she went south for medical treatment, returning to the city a fortnight ago. She entered hospital here yesterday morning.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. J. Lorne MacLaren, of Prince Rupert, Mrs. Hilda Roerig and Mrs. Douglas Stork, both of Chicago. Mrs. Roerig is at present in the city.

Miss Curtin's death will be mourned by many friends. The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Catholic
