

French coal... for Ruhr Steel
HUMAN COAL-STEEL POOL PLAN "TO REMOVE ONE CAUSE OF WAR"—Six European nations are negotiating a plan to pool coal and steel production under a central authority whose decisions would be binding on all six. The countries are France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The plan is hailed as the first concrete proposal to bind each nation in an alliance which, they say, would remove one of the causes of war. The plan fostered by Foreign Minister Schuman of France has not attracted Britain's Labor government, but Opposition Leader Winston Churchill and Liberal Leader Clement Davies demand the government take part in negotiations.

Prince Rupert Not Open To Main Attack - McNaughton

General A. G. L. McNaughton, of the international defence board, now visiting in Vancouver and Seattle, made reference to Prince Rupert in the course of an interview.

Speaking of defences and the Pacific Northwest, General McNaughton remarked that it would not be wise to speak of anything that would give comfort to an enemy. But with reference to Prince Rupert, it was his belief that the base would not be open to attack. An enemy force would be out-flanked too easily.

Mike Fenton, Well Known Trapper and Guide, Victim of Heart Attack
Forest Patrolman Albert Cramb observed a small boat drifting on Ootsa Lake on Sunday morning early, with a dog sitting on the thwart.

Is Dead In Ootsa Lake

Launching his patrol boat immediately he found the body of Fenton floating within arms reach of the boat. Constable W. H. Richmond was notified immediately and proceeded to the scene accompanied by Barney Mulvany. Investigation showed that the deceased had left the Slim Henry ranch for home shortly after 11 p.m. His watch had stopped at 12:15 and investigation by the Constable indicated that he had been standing up rolling a cigarette. Apparently stricken with a heart attack he had fallen overboard, and was dead before he struck the water. The crepe sole of his shoe had picked up a trolling hook and only a few feet of line had paid out.

Michael Foley Fenton was well known as a guide and trapper and had worked for Frank Swannell and other geodetic and mineralogical surveys for many years in the Coast Range, packing through Tweedsmuir Park, the summits of Kemano Pass and the Copper river. Since 1928 he has been in the seasonal employ of the Forestry Department, and had just received his first superannuation cheque.

The body was placed in the warehouse of the Circle Guides to await the arrival of a coroner.

"Mike's" sincerest mourners were his dog "Funch" and young "McGee" Knox, who had been his constant companions.

Body of elderly Michael Fenton, a retired forestry employee, was found floating in Ootsa Lake Sunday, British Columbia police here were notified today. It is believed by police that he drowned the previous day. Next of kin have been notified and an inquest is set for this week.

OTTAWA — To promote business for Canadian shipyards, the government plans to ban the import of ships from the United States.

Transport Minister Chevrier disclosed yesterday to the House of Commons shipping committee that that is the purpose of a 2½-line clause in a bulky series of amendments to the Canada Shipping Act, which have already passed the Senate.

The clause gives the minister power to bar from Canadian registry any ship built outside Canada. He said it is not planned to use it against shipping built in the United Kingdom.

A draft of the plan is being passed among senators as the first step before placing the proposal before the Senate appropriations committee.

Empty Bread Shelves Are Seen In Five Cities on West Coast

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Empty bread shelves confronted housewives in five west coast cities again today with no sign of settlement in a strike by 3,100 A.F.L. bakers, now in its third day.

An industry spokesman here, where 1800 bakers are out, said "the strike can go on for months if the union insists on a 35 hour week."

The affected bakeries produce about 90 per cent of the bread sold in Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Everett, Washington and Bremerton, Washington. The Seattle area's 70 strikebound plants are suing local No. 9 of the bakers' union for $20,000 a day damages.

Skeena Level Falling Fast

The turbulent Skeena River at Salvas, 56 miles east of here, dropped eight inches since yesterday, it was announced this morning.

At all other points east of Prince Rupert to Burns Lake, 320 miles away, water has receded from two to six inches. But, between Vanderhoof, 360 miles east of here, to points west of Prince George, the Nechako River has risen from two to four inches.

Water levels below railway tracks at Shames and Ambury were seven and eight feet respectively. These points are 80 and 90 miles east of Prince Rupert.

The five mile stretch of highway between Kwinitsa and Salvas remained covered with about 16 inches of water, the danger is past.

Are Broke But Happy

Final Incidents in Burning of Nora Jane—Sinks at Sea

Five crew members of the ill-fated Nora Jane which went down flaming in Hecate Straits Monday afternoon, left for Vancouver yesterday by plane. The skipper, Capt. G. McKenzie, is in hospital suffering from bruises to the left calf, elbow and hip.

Following their arrival in port, they stepped onto another Powell River Co. vessel, the J. S. Foley and recuperated from their ordeal. Then, some of them barefooted, were whisked away to Fraser and Payne's store and outfitted.

With hardly a cent in their pockets, although attired in spanking new clothes, they felt like "respectable vagrants."

They will be happy to see their families upon their arrival in the southern city.

One of them Monday night wired his wife before "she could read the papers about the blast."

Capt. Arvid Sandals, who effected the rescue of the six members of the Nora Jane's crew after they had been forced to leap into Hecate Straits from their blazing vessel, has returned to the fishing grounds. He was about seven miles off, he said, when he noticed the Nora Jane as smoke and obviously in trouble. He hastened to the scene and had just reached stern of the flame-stricken vessel when Capt. McKenzie and his crew started leaping into the sea. All but one had life jackets. The sixth was clinging to a hatch cover. The rescue was speedily effected by hauling the survivors one by one aboard the Sandy S. Then the rescue ship proceeded towards port to be met off Tugwell Island by the police boat P.M.L. 15 to which they were transferred and brought on into Prince Rupert.

Beam trawlers in the vicinity have since reported having seen the Nora Jane finally sink late Monday night. Last vestige was a charred lifeboat which was picked up by one of the beam dragners, the Smith Sound.

Fraser Flood Seems Beaten

VANCOUVER — Victory has been won over Fraser River flood waters at Harrison Mills. After an all-night battle a weak spot in the dike there has been plugged. The dike protects the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Lougheed highway and many acres of rich land.

C.P.R. trains are still running although slowly because of water lapping at the rails.

The Mission gauge rose from 24.07 feet to 24.12 feet overnight but dropped to 20.11 this morning.

The flood picture generally continues encouraging with indications that the crest has passed.

Their teachers are public health specialists attached to a malaria control team sent to India under a joint program of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) and the World Health Organization. Members of the team use spare time to show children in villages getting malaria protection how to protect teeth with materials at hand.
