MIKE CRANLEY PASSES AWAY

Michael Cranley, 74, who spent forty years of his life in the service of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Co., first at Phoenix in the Boundary country and then at Anyox on the north coast, passed away at noon today in Prince Rupert General Hospital. He was one of the colorful figures in early day mining of British Columbia.

Born in Ontario, he came west as a young man and joined Granby Co. service at Phoenix, moving from there to Anyox when the company closed down the once famous camp and opened the other. After closing of Anyox he went to Alice Arm and remained there until the last war when he came to Prince Rupert to take employment in one of the camps.

He was a foreman in charge of gangs on outside mine workings both at Phoenix and Anyox. In his day, Cranley had also taken a hand at prospecting.

There are two sisters—one married and one single—in Ontario. His wife died in Phoenix years ago.

The years are bound to bring changes...

Do you know what your insurance needs will be in 1953? Marriage, a birth or death in the family might change the present picture completely. So, plan ahead, but make your plans flexible.

A Crown Life convertible Policy gives you that flexibility. At the end of five years, you have the privilege of converting your original policy into any one of five different plans at a new rate which is guaranteed in your original policy. There are no lump sum arrears of premium to pay.

Get in touch with a Crown Life representative. He will be glad to explain how a Crown Life convertible Policy can be used to give you the flexible protection you require.
