SOCKEYE SEASON OPENING JUNE 19-HALIBUT LANDINGS OVER TEN MILLION POUNDS

Sockeye salmon gillnet season on the Skeena and Naas rivers will open at 6 p.m. Sunday, June 19, according to word received at the Dominion Fisheries office here Friday afternoon. Opening of the areas will spark the cannery season on the Skeena. Just how profitable the season will be remains to be seen, although cannery operators and fishermen alike are hoping that last year's bumper season will be repeated. The June 19 opening date is the earliest in recent memory. In past years it has opened in the last week-end in the month. The 1948 season on the two rivers Spring salmon fishing in the district has been poor throughout the last week, continuing a trend that has held since fishing started about the middle of May. Trolling off Stephens, Dundas and the Queen Charlotte Islands has yielded poor results while gillnetting on the Skeena has been equally skimpy. About 50 boats have been gillnetting spring salmon on the Skeena. None have been operating on
