Safe For Capital

IF EVER there was a time when capital had less reason to feel apprehensive concerning security of funds so far as Canada is concerned surely it is now. Monday the nation spoke and what was said was both loud and emphatic. Earlier this month, the voice of British Columbia made it clear how the Pacific province, favorite field of investment, was feeling. But it is not at all surprising. The record shows Canada gives outside capital protection as a sort of national policy.

NO POLITICAL TRIO

THERE MUST BE something contagious about precept and example. Premier St. Laurent travelled over Canada and, wherever he went, said without heat, gesture or excitement "the government will be returned with an increased majority." He said it just once and passed along to the next stopping place. And he said it with such an air! Who could doubt—who could question—who could even dream of such an absurd possibility as Canada without a Liberal head? And yet the people have been suggesting that the Prime Minister knew only the cloistered seclusion of the law office and was a stranger to the clamor and rudeness of the hustings. Well, he must have had a good teacher.

WEATHER AND TUNA

EVEN the fishing industry depends upon the favor of the Almighty. Last year it was found that the albacore did not inhabit waters colder than 57. This year the Canadian fishery patrol cruiser Laurier, prospecting for tuna, has found no water above 55 degrees. Sunshine is needed to warm the Pacific and westerly winds to blow the Japanese current closer to the Queen Charlotte Island shores and bring the tuna along.

With the halibut season nearing its end, the fishermen are looking for something more to catch like the tuna which came last year and rounded out the season to make it good instead of mediocre.

PITY THE DOCTOR!

THE TREND OF THE TIMES is to shorter working days and weeks, to more leisure—doctors may well ask why they should be an exception to the general rule.

They see retail stores shortening their hours, barber shops closed one day each week, government offices showing the effects of a general tendency. They see a steady curtailment of working hours. A worker who demands overtime pay if he works an hour a week beyond his prescribed 38 or 40 hours expects his doctor to respond to a call, at any hour, day or night, complains bitterly if he is kept waiting and would protest if charged double for a night visit.

Ray Reflects . . . and Reminisces

Elections in Skeema have not infrequently had a disquieting effect through the fact of the successful candidate and the party in power being on opposite sides, not that it made any particular difference, yet there were those who professed to think so. But there was nothing like that in 1949. If the "eyes" did not have it all they skirted pretty close.

Mackenzie King says he is delighted. Of course he is. No matter which way he looks, every prospect pleases and he can't see a man, anywhere looking vile. Mr. King would not stoop to use such a word, anyway.

Last Monday dawned cloudy, unsettled and chill. It had been like that, if not worse, for weeks. Tuesday, with practically all the ballots religiously counted, the air was softer, the sky turned a delicate blue and the air had a warmth and clarity delight-

TRADE LICENSES ARE CANCELLED

City council moved Monday night to cancel trade licenses of two taxi drivers following their recent convictions in courts of supplying liquor to Indians. The action was aimed at "cleaning up" a type of business which has been marked by numerous infractions of liquor regulations.

The move was made on recommendation of the city licensing committee on grounds that they have been convicted of an infraction of Section 216 (a) of the Indian Act (supplying). A conviction against Andy Blomberg in magistrate's court at Port Edward was recently upheld in County Court here on appeal. Barney Turbit was recently convicted in police court here.

Letters to the police and licensing committee from Sgt. L. A. N. Potterton, head of the city police, pointed out that the chauffeurs' permits of both men have been cancelled by the police. Council's action indicates a tightening up of its authority and added support to the police in their campaign to eradicate the sale of liquor to Indians.

Alderman George B. Cascy raised objection to the move on grounds that it was not consistent with previous policy of the council. No trade license cancellations had followed such convictions in the past, he declared.

Mayor Nora Arnold denied that council was discriminating against the two men. The policy which was being instituted was one which would be pursued impartially in future, she declared.

Paddy Gorman, local old timer, who entered hospital for a few days last week, is able to be up and about again.

Official count of ballots, at which time the absentee vote will be counted, has been set for July 7. Last poll to report was Hunt's Inlet where two votes were for McRae and 14 for Brett.
