Ray Reflects . . . . . . and Reminisces

It's true enough plenty of Canadians are going to the United States to see what they can do about earning a living. And it's also worth noting that the number of Americans crossing the border, northbound, on precisely the same business, is by no means insignificant.

Sense of values vary. The city, for example, will pay as much as five thousand for the administration building on First Avenue. But War Assets give a chilly smile, and quote a figure nine times that much. Meanwhile, housing urgency is none the less and every day it seems, more strangers are sizing up the city.

Nothing is ever lost by politeness—except your seat on the bus.

American coal miners—mainly the younger men with war service—are telling John L. Lewis a few things. They can barely support their families when on strike. They have, indeed, known next to empty larders and no pay checks. All this hurts, especially when they contemplate their heavy-browed leader, with his $50,000 annual salary, richly upholstered limousines and swanky hotels. They resent being pushed around.

You can tell when things return to normal. The young man making his way in the world will be wiring home for money. (Victoria Times).

How did this city come to be called Prince Rupert? Sometimes the question goes unanswered.

Well, Prince Rupert flourished in the seventeenth century. He was a soldier and fought in England's civil war that saw King Charles lose his head. When the throne was restored, the Hudson's Bay Co. came into existence and the gentlemen adventurers figured they could not do better than have the prince for their first chairman.
Slang could not have been unknown three centuries ago, but Rupert never said "O. K." It must have been something else.

When a woman told Somerset Maugham that she couldn't decide whether or not she was in love with a certain man, he said, "Madame, there is only one true test of love—could you use his toothbrush?"

Investigation into the Noronic disaster does not strengthen the belief that everything aboard ship that ghastly night was in accord with rules and regulations. The outbreak of fire as fought. There was great brava-ry, and lives were saved. But the inquiry somehow suggests there was a lack of organization and effective action in the moment of emergency.
