

STEWART ST. GEORGE of Montreal stands beside a showman at Montreal's Dorval and 12 hours later is serenaded by a band on a balmy night in Mexico. Trans-Canada Lines stewardess G. Germaine pinned a corsage on Mrs. St. George's lapel before she took TCA's inaugural flight to Mexico City.

Missionary Misses Jungle Leper Colony

TORONTO (CP) — Missionary nurse Helen Keller has had her first look at the outside world in more than two years. Her reaction! She wants to get back to the African jungle and the leper colony she administers there.

Miss Keller, a Toronto missionary with the Sudan United Mission, is enthusiastic about her life in Africa where she is the only white in a community of 5,000.

"I can't explain it," she said. "It just seems to appeal to me. I'm really anxious to get back to my charges and start working again."

She established her leper colony at Beladja in French Equatorial Africa in 1952 with 25 patients. Soon the number had swollen to 400, all her present staff can handle. Of 1,000,000 Africans in her district, she said 3,000 are in desperate need of treatment for leprosy.

"If people were aware of the tremendous need I am sure they would be willing to help."

When Miss Keller began her first task of building a dispensary she took on the roles of architect, building boss and "everything else needed" without any previous experience. Her native staff even made the bricks for the building and cut down trees for lumber. The result of their labors was a neat red-brick building completed in four months.

Encouraged by her experience, Miss Keller has plans for a nurses' residence, school, chapel, workshop and a six-room brick house when she returns to Africa.

On leave in Canada she has raised funds for the nurses' residence, a small truck, a microscope and $1,000 worth of drugs and medicines. The Sudan United Mission, she explained, is an international non-denominational society supported by various individuals and churches and interested in spreading Christianity in Central Africa.

"Leprosy," said Miss Keller, "is not a fatal disease as most people think. It cripples for life but it does not kill."

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Champion thought his hand was just a shade short of an opening two-bid but when he bid one heart and heard a two-over-one from his partner he "knew" there must be a play for slam in the hand. There was. But since Mr. Muzzy was going to play the hand, it would have been wiser to stop at game.

Mr. Dale led the 10 of clubs. Looking the hand over, it appeared to Mr. Muzzy that he had tricks to burn... so he burned some of them.

"Wouldn't lead from a king, would you?" he asked laughingly as he played the five of clubs from the board.

Mr. Abel won with the king of clubs and Mr. Muzzy then spread his hand on the table, claiming the rest of the tricks.

"I think we'd better play it out," said Mr. Dale.

"Me too," said Mr. Abel as he led a heart.

This took the only entry out of the closed hand so that Mr. Muzzy was never able to run his diamonds and down he went.

Mr. Champion, with considerable justification, hit the ceiling. "Why not take the first trick with the ace of clubs and run off 12 tricks?" he demanded.

"Are you aware of the fact," replied Mr. Muzzy stiffly, "that if Dale had led from the king of clubs I would have made seven?"

"I am aware of the fact that you loused up a hand where you could have made 500 points."

Hospital WA Plans Sales

Plans for rummage and home baking sales were made when members of the Prince Rupert Hospital Women's Auxiliary met last night in the Civic Centre.

President Mrs. L. M. Greene conducted the meeting at which it was decided to hold a bake sale February 13, instead of the usual Valentine tea, and to stage a rummage sale in April.

It was reported that the invalid walker purchased by the auxiliary at a cost of $109.60, has now arrived and is much appreciated by patients and doctors.

Mrs. M. B. Lemon reported on the hospital library service and expenditure of $112 for magazine subscription renewals was authorized.

It was also reported that baby clothes made by members and displayed in the hospital, were selling well, and members were urged to continue the work.

It was planned to hold a "bring and buy" sale at the next meeting, with each member bringing a mystery gift.

New members accepted were Mrs. Don Martin and Mrs. Anthony Ralling.

Shopping in Moscow Complicated Project Crowds Line Up For Merchandise

By BILL BOSS
Shopping in Moscow is a major operation.

There is no rationing here and is made on a first-come first-served basis. Prices are the same in the neighborhood stores and the shops on Gorki Moscow's main shopping centre, although there may be a greater selection on Gorki Street earlier in the day.

Shopping crowds are tremendous both downtown and in the suburbs. One of the current editorial campaigns is to make customers and clerks more courteous.

Queues move slowly. Three individual operations are required for every purchase. You join the first line to see what you want, choose it, struggle for the attention of a clerk and get a cash slip.

Then you go to a cashier's cage, take your turn at paying and get a receipt. Finally you claim your purchase. It took me 45 minutes to buy a ream of paper.

Apart from large items such as pianos, television sets or refrigerators, everything is cash and carry. There are no bread or milk deliveries.

There is a drive on to modernize and increase production of consumer goods, give them more eye appeal. Stylishness, elegance or color still have to be introduced.

There is a sober uniformity to merchandise, both in quality and looks. Colors are subdued or dark. Cut is conservative and standard. Men's suits and coats are durable but dull. Women's frocks are mainly printed cottons or one-color woolen fabrics.

Saturday Sermon

REV. F. ANTROBUS, Pastor First Baptist Church
FAITH THAT WORKS
(James 2:14-26 and 4:1-17)

James, the half-brother of the Lord Jesus, wrote the book of James with its emphasis on "good works"; in fact, his epistle is full of practical advice on a variety of subjects. Considerable stress is placed on the importance of our works, on what we do, in connection with our faith; however there is no real contradiction between the teachings of James and Paul.

James and Paul were both Jews. James was born in Jerusalem and travelled throughout the Roman Empire to preach to the Gentiles. Paul was a Greek and travelled throughout the Roman Empire to preach to the Gentiles. James was a Jew and Paul was a Greek. James was a Jew and Paul was a Greek.

And how is faith to work in everyday life? The Christian is not to be everlastingly insisting upon his rights, but to consider others. The Lord Jesus is the perfect example of this kind of conduct. He humbled Himself, went about doing good, and sought to do the will of God. The Christian will speak no ill, but control his tongue, for Christ is the only and true judge.

In fact, James is so practical that it hurts! When he makes a point, you can feel it! He has a plan for every human being, and we must seek His will in every detail of it. Unfortunately, a lot of Christians are not much interested in the Lord's will for them. They prefer their own plans. The Christian must give priority to the will of his Father, for only in this way does he prove the reality of his faith in God.

Yes, the faith that saves, is the faith that produces good works. We accept salvation as a free gift of God's grace, and then in confidence of sins forgiven joyfully work for the Saviour who loves us. What are the "works" in your life? Is your life pleasing to God? Jesus said, "By their fruits ye shall know them." He also said, "Not everyone that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doeth the will of My Father who is in heaven."

You can't go ALL-OUT! If you feel ALL-IN! These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then headache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take DODD'S Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—deeper better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.
