BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Blackwood Convention Helps Keep
Players Out of Unmakeable Slams, Too

Here is a final and important point in this series of columns on the Blackwood slam convention. If you use the convention properly it will not only help you to get to many slams that are makeable. It will also keep you out of slams you can't make.

In today's deal, concentrate on Mr. Dale's hand for a moment and forget about the others. He opened the bidding with one spot and heard his partner raise him to three. Now, with first round control of two suits, second round control of the other two, a six card trump holding and a jump raise from partner, wouldn't you think your chances for a successful slam were overwhelming?

In pre-scientific days a player with any red blood at all would jump to six spades on the South hand. And as you see the West player would be able to cash two aces for the immediate defeat of the contract.

Yes, it doesn't mean much to be dashing and courageous if you constantly (and needlessly) take minus scores on hands like this. So often the "colorful" bidder ends up in the red.

How could you stay out of a slam on this deal? Well, the Culbertson four-five no trump convention wouldn't help. Neither Mr. Dale nor Mr. Masters had the requirements for the Culbertson four no trump (two aces and a king of a bid suit).

The Gerber system wouldn't help either. A four club asking bid by Mr. Dale would have developed the information that Mr. Masters had one ace. But which ace? That was all-important.

Those players who disdainfully avoid any ace showing convention would automatically bid six. The chances would be too good that partner had the ace of spades.

BELGRADE (Reuters)—

Marshal Tito may shortly make a bid to produce a Yugoslav "people's car." Under study at the motor car factory in Maribor are plans to produce a small automobile of about 22 horsepower, capable of standing up to this country's rough roads.

The bidding:

1 S	Pass	3 S	Pass
4 C	Pass	4 S	Pass

Using the Blackwood, Mr. Dale knew (not just guessed) that the enemy had two winning aces. After he himself made the cue bid of four clubs, showing first round control of that suit, his following four no trump bid asked specifically: "Partner, how many aces do you have OUTSIDE of the club suit?"

When he learned the answer was none, it was perfectly clear that the ace of spades and the ace of diamonds were in the hands of the opponents.
