Indian Problems Outlined Ly The Canadian Press VICTORIA-Problems

of two British Columbia minority groups were put before provincial legislature Monday afternoon.

Frank Calder (CCF-Atlin), only Indian member of a Canadian Legislature and spokesman for 28,000 B.C. Indians, suggested jurisdiction of Indian affairs be placed entirely under the province. Jurisdiction now is divided between the Federal and provincial governments.

Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) said Doukhobors should be granted full Canadian citizenship. They now are denied the right to vote.

Mr. Calder said nearly all natives in B.C. are non-treaty Indians; that is, white pioneers did not sign treatries with them.

"We still consider every inch knew the Labries, but denied all of B.C. as Indian reservation. He said B.C. had done mor for Indians than any other province although there is still much to be done. "We are practically free compared to Indians east of the Rockies."

Hills Asks Portion Of Liquor Profits

VICTORIA .- A demand that the provincial government allocate a portion of liquor profits to the city of Prince Rupert to help defray costs of policing the city was voiced in the Legislature last night by George Hills.

Making his maiden speech in the House, the CCF member for Prince Rupert quoted the annual report of the Liquor Control Board showing a net profit on the operations of the Prince Rupert liquor store of $510,796.68. "With this kind of profit," said

Mr. Hills, "the government can well afford to assist the municipalities with their policing prob-lem, a problem which arises in large part from liquor sales." He noted that all British Columbia municipalities policed by the RCMP had recently faced an increase in cost per man, and The fiery volcano at the that those with their own police forces were forced to pay larger base of the Alaska Peninsalaries in order to attract and keep the right type of officer. BRINGS SMILES
