Wrens Busy These Days

New Uniforms Received—C.P.O. Outfitters Transferred To New Brunswick

WRENS—The Wrens were back to routine last Wednesday after a brief interval from lectures while receiving their uniforms.

The two classes for the evening were Navigation and Pilotage work, under the direction of Lieut. Langham, and signalling, which included Morse Code by flashing and semaphore work, Lieut. W. Smith instructing. After classes the Wrens met in their mess to hear Sub. Lieut. Christine Worsley discuss her recent trip to Ottawa.

Sub. Lieut. Worsley explained that the main purpose of the conference was to provide an officer's refresher course and to bring all Wren commanding officers up to date with the organization. The training schedule for all Wren Reserves was discussed.

The trip was not all work, however, and a good time was had by the Wren officers who were shown the sights of Ottawa and attended many informal get-togethers.

TO CONFERENCE Lieut. N. D. Langham departed Thursday for Vancouver to attend a Naval Conference at HMCS Discovery.

Sub. Lieut. (W) C. Worsley returned from Wren Officers' conference at Ottawa.

Ernest Bitterman was enrolled into the Canadian Naval Reserve as an Able Seaman. He is employed by the CNR as a fireman.

An average of 73% was obtained in examinations for Petty Officer Storesman by Leading Seaman George Waddell.

Chief Petty Officer H. Cuttress, in charge of the Naval Radio Stations in Prince Rupert, is being relieved by Chief Petty Officer Cleghorn. Chief Cuttress will leave for New Brunswick in February.

IN KING'S MEMORY Wrens and seamen stood at attention on parade Wednesday night during inspection by the ship's captain, Lt. Cdr. J. D. McRae. A two-minute silence period was observed in memory of the late King George VI, following which a prayer was said by Chaplain Basil Procter.

SEA CADETS The Area Sea Cadet Officer, Lieut. Tye, will inspect the Sea Cadets on February 28 and will notice a great change in this corps. On Lt. Cdr. Tye's first visit to Prince Rupert he presented the local corps with their charter from the Navy League of Canada and from this charter has emerged a smart, enthusiastic corps.

"Discipline" was the theme of a lecture given to the cadets by Lieut. Langham followed by two interesting instructional films.

CUSTOMS The three rows of tape in the collars are always popularly supposed to commemorate Nelson's victories of the Nile, Copenhagen and Trafalgar. Cold fact points otherwise as, when in 1883 the first uniform regulations for the lower deck came in, the committee sitting on the subject recommended the adoption of two rows. One of the members of the committee has since stated that the question of commemorating Nelson's victories was never mentioned. The admiralty for no stated reason, however, decided on three rows, and the men who have the honor to wear this uniform may well look upon them as a memory of Lord Nelson.

Fair Amount From Soroptimist Show Although the proceedings were dampened by the event of the King's death, there was a turnout of about 600 persons at the Totem Theatre Wednesday night when the picture "Copacabana" was presented with the overs to go to the Soroptimist Club for its community service work. About 600 persons were present and the club, as a result, was netted a fair amount.
