ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP--Alaska had a breadline 600 miles long Thursday.

It was set up when an early morning fire destroyed the only bakery in Nome and an emergency request was made by radio to Anchorage for 600 loaves. Alaska Airlines held up the morning flight while a local bakery hurriedly packed 300 loaves for Nome.

It is a matter of great regret . . .

that the final offer of the Pulp and Paper Companies of British Columbia has been rejected in the Union's Referendum, although it is understood that some of the Mills voted to accept it.

In those mills where the forthcoming Government supervised strike vote finds for strike action, it must be expected that a strike will ensue. Preparations for plant close-down are already being made by Managements.

This year's wage negotiations were broken off by the Unions. They requested a Conciliation Board. The Board recommended a 4c general increase in a majority award which was accepted by the companies but rejected by the Unions. Since then, in the interests of continuing good management-employee relations, the companies have made the following final offer:

- 1. An across-the-board increase of 5c per hour.
- 2. An additional 3c per hour to Grade A and A plus mechanics.
- 3. The increases to be retroactive to July 1, 1953.

The 5c increase will bring the base rates to $1.55 an hour—the highest in the Pulp and Paper Industry of Canada, as well as being the highest base rate in any primary industry in British Columbia.

Should a strike come in the Pulp and Paper Industry of B.C. affecting 4,500 employees, it would be the first industry-wide strike since Group Bargaining began in 1937. The industry and its employees have long served as an example of enlightened industrial relations in which a spirit of compromise and understanding has successfully avoided the disastrous waste involved in lost wages, lost production and lost markets, during the strike action.
