Mr. Muzzy Muffs Chance To Make 4-Spade Contract

Mr. Heinsite could hardly be blamed for not coming in at the five level, vulnerable, with a bid of five diamonds over Mr. Muzzy's four-spade preempt. The fact that he could have made five diamonds detracts nothing from his decision to pass.

What a mess ne would have been in, for example, if Mr. Champion's and Mr. Dale's hands had been reversed. And in that case, what a mess Mr. Muzzy would have been in at four spades.

As the cards were, the fourspade contract was makeable but as usual Mr. Muzzy muffed it. Mr. Heinsite led the king of diamonds and, without thought, Mr. Muzzy ruffed.

He led a heart and finessed the queen. Mr. Dale won with the king and pushed clubs through Mr. Muzzy's king. Three club tricks and a heart defeated the contract. "Do you think there is some special bonus for playing the hand as dangerously as possible?" asked Mr. Champion. "I can't make it," argued Mr. with the king of hearts, what Muzzy. "The king of hearts, the can he return? If he returns a ace of clubs, every card was club, you lose only one trick in

"Not if you play it right," said let you ruff in dummy while Mr. Champion. "All you had to you discard another club from do was to discard a heart on your hand. Then you could the first trick instead of ruff-throw your last club on dummy's ing. That way you can be sure good jack of hearts." Dale will never get in to lead through your king of clubs. Heinsite's best shift at trick two is a heart and you should go up with the ace and lead back the queen. If Dale covers, you ruff. go to dummy with a trump and throw away two club losers on the good hearts. If Dale doesn't cover, throw a club. You're bound to take 11 tricks." "That's double-dummy," replied Mr. Muzzy desperately. What if Heinsite has the king
