Canadian City's Vice Inquiry May Be Resumed

OTTAWA (CP)—Resumption of Montreal vice inquiry depends on a decision to be given today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The inquiry, started two years ago and delayed frequently by legal proceedings, will be resumed if the court refuses an application for leave to appeal from a judgment of the Quebec Court of Appeals. If the court allows the application, the inquiry will be delayed indefinitely.

Five justices of the nine-member Supreme Court yesterday heard arguments on the application for leave to appeal.

Alphonse Patenaude, counsel for some of the respondents in the inquiry, argued the Quebec court had erred in squashing the injunction that prohibited continuation of the investigation into enforcement of Montreal's anti-vice laws.

The inquiry was organized on a petition by 73 Montreal citizens. The petition that set up the inquiry named 30 past and present Montreal officials, including police director Albert Langlois, as respondents.

The inquiry was halted for a time by an injunction taken out on the ground that Mr. Justice Francois Caron had no authority to conduct the investigation. The Supreme Court refused to consider litigation over that injunction and the inquiry was due to resume again June 9.

However, a new injunction was obtained from Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau of the Quebec Superior Court. It ordered a halt to all proceedings on the grounds the inquiry was unconstitutional. The Quebec Court of Appeals ruled the injunction invalid and an effort was made to appeal that decision to the Supreme Court.

In applying for permission to bring the case before the Supreme Court, Mr. Patenaude questioned the validity of Quebec legislation giving Mr. Justice Caron, conducting the inquiry, the right to conduct it. (Continued on Page 8)

Horror Hand Makes Muzzy Misread the Bidding

This horror hand occurred when Mr. Muzzy, as usual, misread his partner's choice bid of two spades as a raise. Here we have another illustration of the importance of being able to realize how weak partner's hand MAY be.

There was no excuse for Mr. Muzzy trying for game on this hand. His partner's passout of the original spade bid should have been warning enough. A less important point was that the king of clubs, which added to the "big" look of the South hand should have been discounted entirely after Mr. Master's overcall in the suit.

Mr. Abel's two spade bid was, of course, not a raise, but simply an indication that his hand was better for spades than for hearts. While it was technically correct, from the Humanics standpoint, I think a pass of the two-heart would have been justified in this particular case. In other words, playing with Muzzy, who never can differentiate between a choice and a raise, it would have been better to pass any bid that was not yet doubled.

Mr. Dale opened his singleton club which was won by the ace. Mr. Masters returned his lone spade and Mr. Muzzy's ten lost to the jack. Mr. Dales returned a low spade and Mr. Muzzy was in.

As Mr. Masters had shown out on the second spade lead, discarding the deuce of clubs, further trump leads were out of the question. In fact any lead was hopeless. Mr. Muzzy finally led a low heart. Mr. Masters won with the ten and led back a diamond. Mr. Muzzy ducked and the king won. He took the diamond return and played another low heart.

Mr. Dale won with the eight, led the queen of hearts to Mr. Masters ace. On the high club return, Mr. Muzzy ruffed, was overruled by Mr. Dale. The ten of diamonds return was taken by dummy's queen and Mr. Muzzy discarded the jack of hearts. He led dummy's good diamond and threw the king of hearts which Mr. Dale ruffed for the fourth undertrick. Down 1100 points.

"I don't see how you can raise me on that trash," said Mr. Muzzy, unreasonably. Mr. Abel could not find his voice to make a reply.
