BLACKWOOD on Bridge
 By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
 Sharpe Tries a Fast One; Gets What He Deserves

Mr. Abel led the ace of clubs, wondering if he should have lead something else. He shifted to a diamond at the second trick and Mr. Dale won in his hand with the king.

It was obvious that the only problem was to locate the queen of spades. Mr. Dale paused to think about this question.

An ace is not often the best lead against a slam and, when it is led, the declarer usually suspects the leader of having at least a prospective trump winner. In other words, the leader wants to make sure of winning with his ace before declarer gets a chance to discard possible losers in the suit.

From a purely mathematical standpoint, the odds were in favor of playing the ace and king of trumps. However, these odds were so close that Mr. Dale was willing to follow any slight tip as to the spade situation in this particular deal.

The distribution of his hand and the dummy suggested that the opposing spades might be

DRAW VS. THE RUNNING GAME

An age-old controversy still flares up when the proponents of the draw game open their fire on the disciples of the knock-out style of play. As is usual in such arguments, both sides come out of it more convinced than ever that their cause is vindicated.

Naturally, there are exceptions to every rule. On frosty or alkali ice, or when the ice on the outside of a sheet is much heavier than the centre strip, a rink is courting disaster if it plays the quiet chap and lie game because there is too much danger of guarding the opponent's rock when attempting to remove it quietly. But in most curling clubs in Canada, the ice is reasonably keen, and under such conditions it is my humble opinion that draw weight is the basis of strong offensive curling. If you know what draw weight is you need very little mental calisthenic to figure out from ring weight, guard weight, back ring weight and bumper weight.

The western provinces have been unjustifiably referred to as exponents of the running game. This is an overstatement. Witness the fact that Manitoba, where the chap and lie game is predominant, has won the Dominion title in Brier Championships on fourteen out of twenty-three attempts, and Alberta, where the same style is prevalent, has won four times, compared with Saskatchewan, (no offence intended) which has yet to produce a winner, but which is no doubt the most curling-conscious province, with more than four hundred curling clubs. Saskatchewan is the home of the knock-out game by virtue of necessity rather than by choice. Its alkali water makes for heavy ice, its sub-zero temperatures provide ample hoar frost to discourage the quiet draw game, and when its champions emerge to the Canadian finals where keen ice is prevalent, their free-thriving style is at a disadvantage.

The record books give the nod to the draw or chap and lie game under normal conditions. Only the stones in the ring count when the score is racked up.

Fire Guard Doubled
 SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP)—The fire guard has been doubled on the liner Queen Elizabeth, being groomed for Coronation runs. The move was prompted by three mysterious fires earlier aboard the sister ship Queen Mary, before the Canadian liner Empress of Canada burned at Liverpool.
