

World Series Notes

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Mize has reiterated his decision to retire after the world series. "Guess I've played my last game in Ebbets Field," he said Sunday, "and I hope there'll be only one more in Yankee Stadium."

Billy Loes, who whipped the Yankees Saturday, was stopped for speeding while driving to the ball park before Sunday's game. "I'm Billy Loes of the Dodgers," he told the police officer. "Look, buddy," came the sharp reply, "I'm a Yankee fan — here's your ticket."

Early arrivals Sunday were wondering whether Chuck Dressen came up with a sleeper when they saw a big pitcher firing "bullets" to the Brooklyn Yankees. It turned out to be Don Newcombe, who had a 9-3 record this year with the Fort Sam Houston army team. He won't be able to pitch for the Dodgers until 1954, however.

Happiest guy in the Yankee dressing room after the game was Allie Reynolds. "I didn't figure I was going in, but it sure turned out all right," he said. "That was a low fast ball I threw Robinson to get him to hit into the game-ending double play."

Steve Kraly, young Yankee lefty who hasn't seen any action in the series, has more to worry about than the Dodgers. A fire in his home in Whiting, Ind., Saturday night destroyed the kitchen and back porch.

Billy Martin is the leading hitter in the series with a .526 batting average with 10 hits in 19 times at bat. Gil Hodges paces the Brooks with a .444 mark on eight hits in 18 trips.

Two Yankees, coach Frank Crosetti and outfielder Bill Renna, celebrated birthdays along with the club's victory Sunday. Frankie was 43 and Renna, 27.

Yanks Take Series Lead With 11-7 Win As Champs, Dodgers Turn in Sloppy Game

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — It's almost a sure thing these days that the two world series teams will play themselves one awful game along the way, the shortage of really good pitchers being what it is. The Yankees and Dodgers turned theirs in Sunday.

The final score was 11-7 in favor of the Yankees, which means that the American League went into today's sixth and possibly final game leading by three victories to two in the annual baseball circus.

The four-time straight world champions went back to their own park in the Bronx, full of beans and with their crack young lefthander, Whitey Ford, on the mound. The Dodgers called on their new world series knockout king, Carl Erskine.

Considering his brilliant exploit of only three days ago, when he fanned 14 Yankees and beat them 3-2 on Roy Campanella's eighth-inning homer, Erskine seemed a good bet to knot the playoff at 3-3 and send it into its seventh and deciding game Tuesday. But Charlie Dressen, the Brooklyn manager, was ready to shoot the works.

"If he's needed, Preacher Roe will be ready to relieve," he said last night. "I would like to save him to start the seventh game, but I won't be saving anybody when these games are playing out the way they are now. I worked him with only three days rest not long ago, thinking about this, and the Preach looked all right."

YANKS WORRIED

There was much opinion that the Yanks had more to worry about today than the Dodgers. Ford lasted only one inning when he started for the fourth game at Ebbets Field. The Dodgers' right-handed batters climbed aboard him for three runs.

Dressen had his right-handed explosive planted again today, with Jackie Robinson hitting third and Roy Campanella

Canadiens Trimmed 3-1 By All-Stars

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League all-stars, capitalizing swiftly on manpower advantage in the first period, defeated Montreal Canadiens Stanley Cup champions, 3-1, Saturday night in the NHL's seventh annual all-star game.

Little Wally Hergesheimer of New York Rangers fired two goals in the opening period, enough to win for the All-Stars who were out-shot 31-20 but were given magnificent support in the nets by the brilliant Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored for Canadiens in the last period, rapping in the rebound of a smacking shot by Jean Beliveau. Canadiens' rookie sensation who signed his contract earlier in the day.

fourth. Duke Snider, left-handed hitting jewel, was down in the sixth slot, below Gil Hodges. Charlie was confident that his right-hand array would knock Ford loose.

Six home runs were hit in all yesterday—the early ones pretty exciting—but there is some doubt that any one of them would have been a home run in the larger Yankee Stadium. Mickey Mantle's grand-slammer in the third inning probably would have been a triple over Robinson's head at the stadium. It was a sloppy contest. Each club made six earned runs. The Yankees scored five times in the third inning after they should have been out and Johnny Podres, the juvenile who started pitting for the Dodgers, should have been out of trouble.

ERROR COSTLY

With the Yanks away, Podres got Joe Collins to slap a ball sharply down the right line. Gil Hodges muffed it, letting a run across. The Dodger pitcher then proceeded to hit the next batter, and then walk the bases full.

That brought out Dressen, who turned the ball over to temperamental Russ Meyer. The bases were loaded. There stood Meyer and there stood Mantle, the latter not having been able to hit a baseball with a bass fiddle in his most recent attempts.

Meyer came in overhand with his first pitch. Mantle, who had been hit on this throwing hand and sorely hurt in pre-game batting practice, knocked it far and away into the upper deck in left field. That made the score 5-1, and whatever happened after that was pretty much lost in the shuffle.

By the end of the seventh inning the Yanks were leading 9-2, partly on the strength of Bill Martin's two-run homer in that chapter. They were 10-2 by the time the Dodgers finally laid into Jim McDonald for four runs in the last of the eighth, mainly Billy Cox's three-run line-drive homer just over the left barrier.

There was drama in the last of the ninth. Junior Gilliam led it off with another punch over the left railing, leaving the Dodgers only four runs in arrears. Pee Wee Reese fled out, but Snider punched a single to right.

That brought Casey Stengel bow-legging it out from the bench and waving toward the Yankee bullpen. In came Allie Reynolds to pitch to Robinson, and two more Yank pitchers promptly began warming up. Nobody knew whether Allie's back, badly bent in the first game, had recovered sufficiently for him to pitch.

Turned out it had. The Chief came in with one that Robby smashed viciously toward Martin at second. Billy got right down on the ground to take it, tossed to Phil Rizzuto to start a double play, and the game was over.

Bronks Capture Junior Grid Tilt
CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Bronks blanked Calgary Mustangs 23-0 before 3,000 fans Sunday in the Alberta Junior Football League's sudden-death semi-final. Bronks now meet the defending champion Edmonton Wildcats in a best-of-three final opening next Sunday in the Alberta capital.

Favorite's Win Hits Bookies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Carioca, Australia's champion race horse, won the $6,000 Metropolitan Handicap at Randwick race course today, forcing a heavy payoff by bookmakers who handled Sydney's spring racing double.

Many bettors had coupled Carioca with Silver Phantom, long-shot winner of Saturday's Epsom Handicap, for a payoff of close to $600,000.

Bill Ezinicki Ends Well Down

OSTERVILLE, Mass. — Hockey player Bill Ezinicki, who went into the closing rounds of the Cape Cod Indian Summer pro-amateur golf tournament in a three-way tie for the lead, faded in the stretch and ended up well down in the list as the tournament closed Sunday.

Professional Charley Shappard and his amateur partner Ken Corcoran carded a best ball of 67 in the final round to win the tournament.

Ezinicki, formerly of Winnipeg and now pro at the Lynnfield, Mass. Colonial Country Club, teamed with amateur Mel Demarais of Portsmouth, N.H.

Ottawa Rough Riders Trounce Tiger Cats Saskatchewan Mauls Edmonton Eskimos

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's senior football leagues are straightening out to the point where fans from Montreal to Edmonton may look for tight down-to-the-wire finishes before the November Grey Cup hysteria sets in. Leading clubs in three groups took weekend beatings.

In the Big Four, Hamilton Tiger-Cats went to Ottawa holding a two-point margin at the top of the standings and left with a stinging 31-6 defeat and a leadership tie with the Rough Riders. That left the clubs two points in front of the idle Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes.

In the Western Conference, the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos went to Regina and lost 19-13 to Saskatchewan Roughriders after a 19-0 first-quarter mauling. At Winnipeg, the second-place Blue Bombers gained ground with a 24-17 victory over the bottom-place Calgary Stampeders.

BALMY BEACH WINS

And to complete the picture, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, surprise pacemakers in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, had their five-straight victory march halted at home by Toronto Balmy Beach who made a third-quarter two-touchdown spurt for a 13-9 triumph.

The Intercollegiate Union hit its stride with University of Western Ontario Mustangs rolling up a 40-13 count over McMaster Marauders at Hamilton, and University of Toronto Blues opened the season at home with a 16-7 victory over Quebec's Golden Gaels.

Great personal satisfaction was gained by two players in Western Conference games. Frankie Albert of the Stampeders, who showed signs of falling apart in his first season of Canadian football after a brilliant seven-year career with San Francisco Bears, sparked in a losing cause. Coach Frank Filchock of the Roughriders, who led Eskimos to the 1952 Grey Cup final and failed to reach an agreement for 1953, helped his new club snip Eskimos' win skein at eight games.

Albert tossed a 62-yard touchdown pass and later, on a fake hand-off, tucked the ball out of sight behind his legs and "bootlegged" around the short end for a 15-yard touchdown run.

His performance was close to the brilliance shown by Bombers' India Jack Jacobs who passed for two touchdowns, kicked well and had his backs running at top form.

DOBBS FORCED OUT

Filchock got into the game at Regina when Glenn Dobbs, his first-string quarterback, was out in the first half with a bruised knee. He was replaced by Glenn Dobbs, who had a record of eight touchdowns in 1952.
