

British Trade Union to Keep Affiliation With Labor Party

MARGATE, Eng. (AP)—Trade union leader Arthur Deakin today killed a suggestion that Britain's organized workers divorce themselves from the machinery of the Labor party.

Deakin, head of the massive Transport and General Workers Union, implied that the suggestion was inspired by the Conservatives.

He attacked Tom O'Brien, a fellow trade union leader, for sending up "this mischievous" trial balloon, and promised an investigation by the General Council of the Trade Union Congress, the giant union federation in Britain.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

Muzzy Pushes Luck and Goes Down Two

When you are in a fine contract and get a favorable opening lead, surely that's all the good luck you could ask for on one hand.

You should now forget all about making an extra trick and take every possible precaution to make your contract.

This advice is so simple and logical, it may seem unnecessary to mention it. Yet the kind of play Mr. Muzzy was guilty of in today's deal is not unknown to most of you.

Mr. Dale gave much thought to his opening lead and finally decided on his lone spade. Mr. Muzzy crowed with delight as he won with dummy's ace. "You could have got one trick," he said, referring of course to the heart.

He now set out to win all the tricks. His plan was to lead to his ace of diamonds, then return a diamond to dummy's queen. That would undoubtedly pick up all the trumps and the spade suit would then give him all the discards he needed.

But on the first diamond lead Mr. Champion showed out, discarding the nine of hearts. Frowning, Mr. Muzzy led a diamond to the queen and played the king of spades, discarding his four of hearts. Mr. Dale ruffed and returned a heart. Mr. Muzzy trumped this and ran his diamonds. But at the end he had to lose two more tricks for down two.

tricks for down two.

"Such luck," complained Mr. Muzzy. "All the trumps in one hand."

"Your partner is the only unlucky one in this deal," remarked Mr. Champion. "She had to sit there and watch you louse up a laydown slam."

"How could I make it with Dale having a singleton spade?" Mr. Muzzy asked.

"For a little insurance policy costing a mere 20 points, you could have guaranteed the whole thing," Mr. Champion replied.

"At trick two just lead another high spade off the board and pitch your heart."

"If it gets ruffed you can win any return and now, unless it's a faulty deck, there would be only two trumps out against you."

"You could take two rounds of diamonds ending with dummy's queen and discard your two losing clubs on the queen and jack of spades."

Alcoholics' Home Set up In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—First home for alcoholics to be set up by the Salvation Army in Canada was opened here on Thursday by Commissioner W. R. Dalziel of Toronto.

The home, to be known as "Harbor Light," is located on Skid Road near Vancouver's waterfront.

"We did not choose Vancouver first because we thought it had the biggest alcoholic problem in Canada," said Commissioner Dalziel. "But the problem here is a big one. Few people know much about the sordid side of life in our big cities."

He said the home, which will sleep about 20 men, had been renovated and decorated almost exclusively by reformed habitual drunkards.

Britain Denies Peiping Charge

LONDON (AP)—Britain has denied Red Chinese charges that British bombers and a motor launch attacked a Peiping gunboat near Hong Kong 21 days ago. The Chinese charges were set forth in a note delivered Tuesday which rejected Britain's protest that the launch was the victim of a "wanton" attack. Seven Britons were killed when Communists pounded several rounds of heavy shells at the launch.

Terror Reigns After Texas Sex Murder

DALLAS (AP)—Public clamor for an end to this Texas city's reign of sex terror rose today as gun sales boomed and talk of vigilante action increased.

A Negro rapist who Wednesday night killed a pretty dime-store clerk, Mrs. H. C. Parker, 29, remained at large. Police reported no progress in efforts to nab a nude prowler whose bedroom raids left Dallas women terrified.

Police reported a flurry of minor sex crimes. Three women and four children reported sex offenders had accosted them. Police blamed the flurry on emotional excitement over the Parker slaying Wednesday.

Gun stores, locksmiths, dog pounds and kennels were doing a landslide business. Two "neighborhood vigilante patrols" were organized.

"It looks like open warfare for sure," a gun dealer said grimly.

Before she died, Mrs. Parker was able to gasp out to police that a "Negro man pulled me under the bridge and stabbed me." The deed climaxed an 18-month-long series of reports of a nude prowler who appeared in the dead of night in women's bedrooms, who fought off vengeful husbands and often raped women after telling them he knew their husbands were not at home.

Meanwhile, the harried Dallas police department told angry citizens to "let the police handle the situation."

An editorial on the front page of the Dallas Morning News called for calm in what it termed "a dangerous situation."
