Canadian General Electric Dickers With De Havilland For Big Jet Plant

AWA — The Canadian Electric Co. Ltd. is re-organizing its operator-manager of the government's big jet engine repair and overhaul plant in suburban Toronto and the government is negotiating with De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. to take over the plant Jan. 1.

The defence production department today announced Canadian General Electric's decision arising from government policy to concentrate on production of the all-Canadian Orenda jet engine and use them to power jet aircraft.

Canadian General Electric was principally interested in the J-47 jet power unit, produced by its parent company, General Electric, in the United States.

This was the engine that Canada imported at the start of its post-war defence build-up to power the Sabre jet fighter built at the Canadian Ltd. plant at Montreal.

With the decision, however, to power the Sabre jet with the Orenda engine made by A. V. Roe of Canada Ltd., and as a result of the government's gift of a large number of J-47 powered Sabres to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the number of J-47's in the RCAF service will diminish rapidly, the department said.

Wage Offer by Pulp Firms May Avert Strike in East

ONTO (CP)—A wage offer by pulp and paper industry has averted hopes of a strike of 15,000 Ontario workers.

At about 10 a.m. Floyd Smith of 740 Fulton Street suffered a heart attack and shortly after 11 a.m. the ambulance called to the corner of Thompson Street and Seventh Avenue where Fred Buckle, cable splicer for the municipal phone system collapsed while at work.

Talks were scheduled to continue today between representatives of 11 companies and nine unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They started Tuesday.

The offer of an increase of three cents an hour was announced late Wednesday, along with proposals of concessions on overtime and welfare provisions. Present basic rate is $1.41 an hour and the union has been seeking a general increase of five per cent, along with other benefits.

Earlier this week the unions said they planned to stand pat on their demands. They have already voted in favor of a strike if they consider one necessary.

Paralyze Economy

Such a strike would further paralyze the economy of Northern Ontario, already hard hit by gold-mine strikes. Upward of 6,000 men have been made idle by the strikes called by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) to enforce demands for wage increases and the check-off of union dues.

Some woods operations in the north have already been curtailed as a result of the mining dispute.

Developments in the pulp and paper negotiations in Ontario are expected to set a pattern for discussions between the industry and unions in Quebec and in Western Canada.

In British Columbia's pulp and paper industry, more than 4,000 workers have voted in favor of a strike to back demands for pay increases. They are awaiting further instructions from their union leaders.

Overweight Grizzly Loses Battle With Veteran Guide

ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A British Columbia big game hunter survived a hand-to-hand battle with a giant grizzly bear, but only because his opponent was overweight.

Callison told his story after being treated in hospital at Dawson Creek, B.C., for more than 20 wounds inflicted by the grizzly's teeth.

He said he was spying out for a group of millionaire men from the United States when he encountered a grizzly and one cub, far from his base camp.

Unarmed, the guide attempted to frighten the bear by shouting. The animal continued to advance toward him and he hit it with a rock.

Callison and the bear slid down the steep side of the mountain, with the cub rolling behind. The grizzly could not get footing, but chewed Callison's hand and bit him on his legs.

Finally the combatants tumbled over a cliff and landed together. The fall winded the grizzly and she gave up the fight.

Ex-Consul Problem For Canada

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA.—The case of Michael Krycun, former Polish consul in Winnipeg, who renounced communism and asked for permission to remain in Canada, is bothering government officials here.

A report from Winnipeg Wednesday said Krycun and his family would go on a hunger strike to emphasize their request for "political asylum" in Canada.

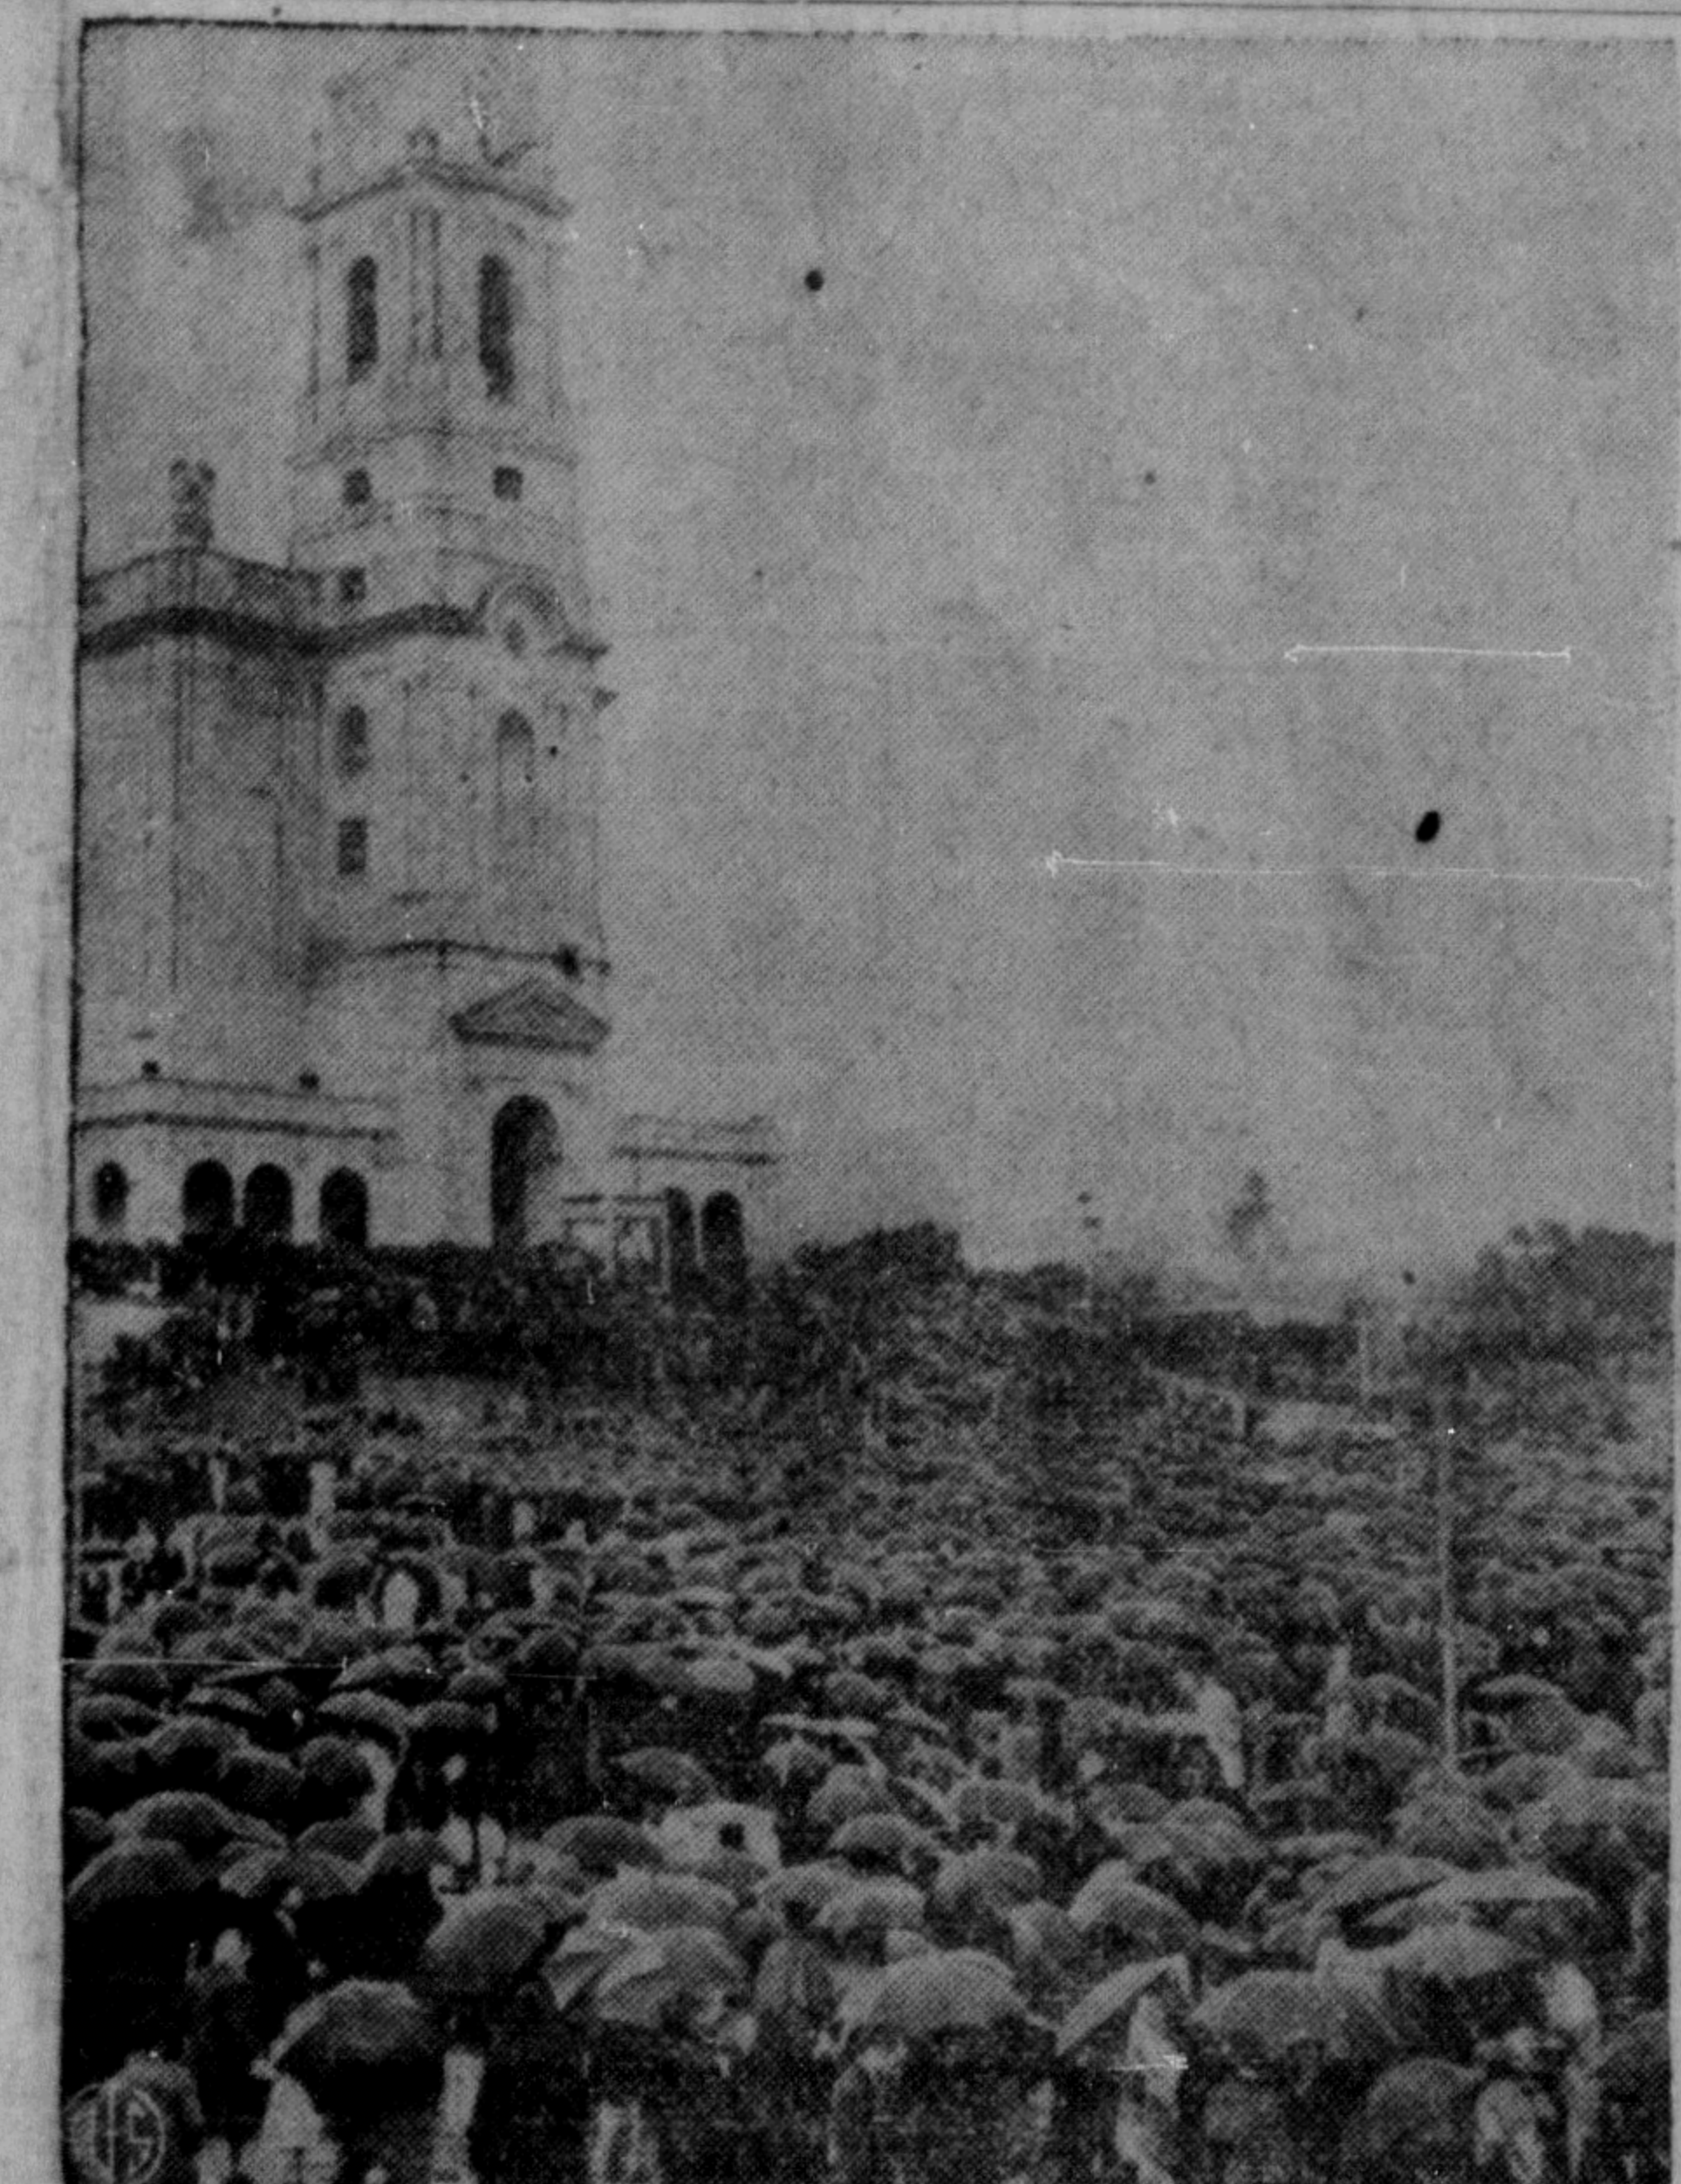

He was told some time ago that he would be given a six-month permit to remain in Canada while his status was being studied.

The term "political asylum" is an expression used in describing permission given a political refugee to remain in the country without legal status. It is not covered in any immigration statute.

The procedure, an official said, is to give such refugees a permit to remain unmoored in Canada while officials make a study of their qualifications as immigrants.

So far Krycun has refused to deal with the immigration people and take up his temporary permit. What will happen to him if he persists in this refusal is not immediately clear.

Questioned on this point an external affairs official replied: "All I can say at the moment is that I hope he doesn't continue along that line."

Montreal College Challenges Federal Rights on Education

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal college today claimed before a Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems that the Quebec government "must oppose and resist any direct or indirect interference of the federal authority in matters of education and teaching."

In a brief, College Mont St. Louis said the provincial government should assist with grants all colleges which contribute to education in the province.

Founded in 1888 by the Christian Brothers, the college offers science, commerce and art courses.

The brief was one of six scheduled to be heard today by the commission, set up last March by the Quebec government.

Following adjournment today, the commission will travel to northwestern Quebec where it will begin a two-month tour of the province.

Mont St. Louis made no reference in its brief to federal grants to universities and institutions of higher learning, cut off from Quebec universities and colleges this year by the Quebec government.

The grants are a subject of controversy in Quebec where the government has claimed they constitute an encroachment on provincial autonomy as far as education is concerned.

The college brief said it believes the Canadian constitution accorded the provinces exclusive rights in matters of education and teaching.

The brief claimed the Quebec government should have the revenues needed to exercise its power, right and duty to assist those who contribute to education in the province.

Only Two Prisoners Choose Communism

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist efforts to coax home anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners ground almost to a halt today as stalling Red "persuaders" dragged out interviews and walked out during even minor disputes.

Only 136 prisoners were interviewed all day. And only two of the 136 elected to return to communism.

This was the smallest number of POWs to appear before Red explainers in any one day and was only a fraction of the 492 prisoners the Communists asked to see.

There was growing speculation here that the Reds might be preparing to call off explanations which have won back only a handful of balking prisoners.
