 with only its tall and wings above water was towed to the drydock, Ray Montgomery operating the crane and Henry Hanson and Max Sievert, tugboat skippers.
 Meanwhile, passengers' baggage—some of it ripped—loose bundles of letters and several mailbags were fished from the sea by volunteers in small boats.
 George Dawes, coroner, said an inquest into the death of Miss Langen was scheduled for 2 p.m. today.
 Besides Mr. McConnachie, the following CPA officials arrived by special plane to probe the mishap: R. B. Phillips, manager of domestic lines; C. N. McNeal, chief pilot; R. A. Rawson, director of flight operations; Ken Razzell, superintendent of the B.C. district; R. A. Keith, assistant to the president; Rex Terpening, district chief mechanic; E. R. Field, assistant to the vice-president; D. H. Kent and W. C. Sylinder, of the claims department.
 Desmond Murphy, district superintendent of the department of transport of Vancouver, and Norman Terry also of the DOT, were the others aboard.

 Sometimes a Safety Play Is So Simple It's Missed
 When you speak of a safety play, most players think of playing out a certain suit in such a way as to guard against unfavorable distribution of the suit in the opponents' hands.
 There are other and simpler forms of the safety play. In other words, any play you make which is calculated to give you a better chance for your contract falls, broadly, into the safety play classification.
 There was such a play in today's deal but Mr. Muzzy overlooked it—possibly because of its very simplicity.
 Mrs. Keen opened the eight of spades in response to her partner's opening bid in that suit. This card didn't particularly look a singleton. Mr. Meek had bid spades but he had never rebid them. There were only three spades in dummy and two in Mr. Muzzy's hand—a total of five. If the eight were a singleton, then Mr. Meek had a seven-card suit. Very unlikely.
 But however unlikely, there was a play Mr. Muzzy could have made which would have practically guaranteed his contract.
 What he actually did was to win the first trick in his own hand with the ace of spades and lay down the king of diamonds. Mr. Meek took the second trick and returned the 10 of spades, which Mrs. Keen ruffed. Now a club lead to Mr. Meek's ace defeated the hand.
 "I tried to get trumps out as fast as I could," wailed Mr. Muzzy.

Warships Lit Up
 HALIFAX (CP)—Each night at least two of the half-dozen Canadian naval units assembled here to sail for the Coronation naval review in England are being illuminated by strings of lights. The vessels, including the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the cruiser Ontario, depart May 7.

Too fast, commented Mr. Abel wryly. "You should have done something else first. Win the first trick with dummy's king of spades. Lead the ace of hearts and discard your last spade. Then when Meek got in with the ace of trumps and returned a spade you could ruff high and pick up the remaining trump."
 Mr. Abel was so right. It was not too unlikely that Mrs. Keen had a lone spade. But the odds were overwhelming that she had at least one heart in her hand.

Outdoors with Marty
 rights itself when the total of lost tackle and lost fish is considered, now the value of a bent rod and tight line becomes apparent, and out tyro finds much of the joy of fishing.
 A correspondent having failed to purchase Monel wire, seeks an alternative. (Monel is out due to defence requirements.) A stout rod, good fiberglass are available in town about 6 1/2 feet, a Penreel No. 149 or No. 249, and 300 to 500 feet of 20- to 23-gauge soft copper wire makes a good setup. Be sure to insert a dozen feet of 48-pound Cuttyhunk at the 150-foot mark, and at say 60-foot intervals a couple more places; this is so that the depth will be known and preclude having wire at the rod tip during trolling, for the wire will quickly break the rod vibration created by the working lure. No lead will be necessary, and Marty has been lucky in the Fairview tiderip with 150 feet out. The depth attained by a normal non-rising metal spoon, is about one foot in five of length with copper wire. Monel is slightly deeper working, since its density is somewhat greater; wooden plugs tend to rise, but bending down on the frontal plate will prevent this—build one on if needs be. Be careful not to put a kink in copper wire, treat it carefully and it will serve you well.

Teacher Strike Threatened
VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike which might close schools used by more than 5,000 students was threatened in neighboring Richmond municipality by non-teaching employees.
 In a government-supervised ballot, maintenance workers at 11 elementary, senior and junior high schools voted in favor of strike action.
 Result of the vote—30 in favor to six against—was reported by Ben Morley, business agent for Local 244 of the Building Service Employees Union (AFL). He said no work-out date has yet been set.
