Community Spirit Tops

A LESSON in progressive community spirit was provided at Terrace last week when the village and district Board of Trade held its annual meeting.

As I See It

German Flashback

IN 1949 my wife and I travelled to and fro in western Germany with other foreigners. One of our companions was an American, whom we mistook for a British ex-colonel.

BY the last day we were together I knew our American friend well enough to be sure he would not get mad when I said: "You Yanks are so dumb it is not even funny."

MEMBERS OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce present a brief on fiscal policy to Finance Minister Abbott and Revenue Minister McCann.

LETTERBOX WANTS WELL-PLANNED DAM

Editor, The Daily News: I respectfully send you the following notes for the simple reason that we must patiently state our point of view over and over again even at the risk of repetition of the main issue, as follows:

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Those Petawawa horses that figured in the celebrated Currie report already have had a direct effect upon the coming Federal general election campaign.

Parliament Hill

By Edward T. Appellewhite, M.P., Skeena

In asking the government to take the sales tax out of books, the Canadian Library Association asserts that it can speak with one voice for the reading public.

MILESTONES

- 40 Years Ago Today: Rev. F. W. Kerr, speaking before a large congregation at the Empress Theatre last night...

Scripture Passage for Today

"He spake boldly in the name of the Lord."—Acts 9:29.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

This isn't the first time the Mounties have served in Prince Rupert, besides having the city constables as well. The former lived on Third Avenue, just across from the junction of Second Street.

HELMETS AND STICKS

Prince Rupert's policemen forty years ago, did not in the slightest resemble those of today. Each man wore a long blue coat, helmet, belt and stick.

NERVOUS ATTACK

Perhaps there were more differences in the long past, contrasted with the present, where charges were read. Once, a man facing a minor offence, asked Magistrate Cars if he would jail him for a month.

Chief of Capilano Tribe Threatens To Pitch Teepee in Middle of Road

NORTH VANCOUVER—Chief Joe Mathias has threatened to pitch a teepee in the middle of the main road leading to the plush British Properties subdivision here.

Government Can Cancel Liquor Licence Any Time

VANCOUVER (CP)—Investors whose money is tied up in cabarets, clubs or other establishments which might lose liquor licences under legislation suggested by the Stevens report would be unable to sue the government for losses.
