Ken Cross' Extension Course Handle Larger Numbers Great Variety of Projects To Be Offered in March at Civic Centre

Ken Cross, who comes to the Civic Centre for his beginning March 17, is this year planning to accommodate many more people than in the past. This is being done by using the roomy small hall for the courses, by having dressmaking and rejuvenating on alternate days and by segregating, if possible, the beginners from the experienced dressmakers.

Segregation is possible in the extension courses. The beginner will make a simpler dress, a housecoat and receive the essentials of sewing. The experienced will be able to tackle intricate dresses, floor suits or coats. On the day in either course each woman brings their pattern and (preferably preshrunk) fabric. The patterns have been made to fit each figure, and may begin to lay it on the table ready for the cutting. Those who are taking the home sewing course may tackle a variety of projects. If they wish to cover or upholstering, it will be well to order the material at once. Delay will be caused during the course. Chairs, tables, lampshades, button boxes are brought down to the Civic Centre the first day of the course. Each person may undertake only one subject, but those who have taken the course know that to get the most of it they do several things. Slip covers are cut and made at home. The rest of the afternoon or evening, a coat or dress may be put on a table and a lamp shade cover cut and made. A butter box foot stool, Miss Cross usually has a lamp shade covering her in case it is available in the city, and she has all the paint brushes, remover, shellac, stain and polish for the furniture refinishing.

These things mentioned are only jobs that may be tackled. Last year Muriel Vance had tailored drapes and the spring for a bedroom chair. Joe Scott refinished and upholstered a large footstool. Hubert Ward put an attractive flowered cover on an antique chair. Mrs. Doumont finished a cedar chest. Mrs. Johnson a buffet. Mrs. McMeas, with her husband's help, built a double bed for a trailer. Bob cut the arms off an old armchair, rebuilt it as an armless chair and then covered it in a wide fringe of the bottom.

Part of the fun of the course is to see who can bring down the most objects and turn out the most unrecognizable result.

Program of Art Varied

At the Art Club meeting last week the program for the remainder of the winter was planned. Every Thursday evening there will be a workshop period with Mrs. John Stijn as instructor. High School students and those who like to draw or paint are being welcomed. Any medium referred may be used—pencil, charcoal, pastels, watercolor or oils.

On the last Thursday of each month some other features will be included. Slides from the Extension Art Appreciation Course will be shown, the subjects this month being "Introduction to the History of Art" and "Early Paint-

Investigators of Credit Due Here

Investigators of the federal credit control administration may be expected to descend upon Prince Rupert soon to find out if the regulations are being observed here, the Prince Rupert Retail Credit Grantors' Association has heard, members being warned accordingly at last night's meeting.

Prosecutions are to be instituted across the country against those who are not adhering to the regulations in granting credits and maintaining accounts in accordance therewith. There are heavy penalties of $500 to $1000 for violators.

Clothing stores, particularly, should see that their revolving credit and budget accounts are kept in order, it was suggested.

To Organize Credit Women

Credit Women's Breakfast Club is now in process of organization as an adjunct to the Prince Rupert Retail Credit Grantors' Association. Mrs. Jack Laurie, secretary, explained benefits at the Association's monthly meeting last night. Not the least of these was the information and education in business made available for members, also the inculcating of women and girls with a sense of responsibility and greater interest in the affairs of the business in which they were employed.

The Association endorsed the idea of the women's organization. Members are being asked to encourage key women personnel of their firms to join.

The plan is that breakfast meetings should be held once a month, probably from 8 to 9 a.m.

Lining Up Paying Habits Important To Credit Bureau

Greater co-operation of members in returning credit rating cards—little blank slips which disclose the paying habits of customers—to the credit bureau for filing was appealed for by P. H. Linzey, manager of the Prince Rupert Credit Bureau, at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Retail Credit Grantors' Association last night.

SNOW SCULPTURE—A 15-foot statue in snow of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, now visiting Canada, was built by J. A. Gause, former Czechoslovakian sculptor, outside his home at Burlington, Ont., near Hamilton. He built the figure to amuse his children, confined to the house through sickness but the life-like statue, complete with cigar and fingers raised in the familiar V-for Victory aroused considerable attention. Drifting Snow Holds Trains

Drifting snow around Kwinitsa has been causing the Canadian National Railway trouble.

Sunday night an engine and caboose, heading for Pacific, was due here that night, and it took two bulldozers until Monday afternoon to dig it out.

On Saturday the drifts held up the train from the East, which was due here that night, and it did not get through until 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon. The train which left here for the East Saturday night was delayed at Kwinitsa until about noon Sunday.

With snow still drifting before a brisk wind, the railway situation became further obscured today when a new slide came down four miles east of Kwinitsa. It was supposed that the train which left for the East last night got through although a total wire failure beyond Kwinitsa prevented railway offices here from getting normal communications. Preparations were being made to dispatch tonight's train on time. There was no word as to the progress of the train from the East due at 10:05 p.m.

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at drug stores everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

"Headache?..take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives relief without delay.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.
