

Andy Marshall Robbed At Olympic Trials

Prince Rupert Fighter Makes Unpopular Decision

By LARRY STANWOOD

VANCOUVER.—Prince Rupert's 1952 Golden Boy lightweight champion, Andy Marshall, lost a lopsided decision to Alberta's 178-pound Wayne in last night's eliminations of the opening of Dominion amateur boxing championships and Olympic trials.

Other Rupert contenders, Maurice Morrison and Tiny drew byes.

Marshall meets Jim Miller, pride of the University, in heavy-division in the last bout of 19. Four others are entered in this division.

Morrison does not step into the ring until Saturday, meeting as his first opponent in finals the winner of two only other entries from eastern Canada.

Marshall-Scheer bout, the last of the first night bouts, was slow, but, in fairness, Marshall was the leader.

Marshall threw a lot of leather and landed on arms, gloves and head, but not once hurting the opponent.

Opening crowd of less than 100 fans gasped a little, as the decision of the judges was announced.

Reporter gave two of three to Marshall. Judging was the point system.

Marshall did little punching, but was looking for an opening.

When Ball Lights Out

New Problems Raised in National Pastime

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a plot ready-made for some bright young baseball novelist in the latest set of instructions sent out to National League umpires on how to conduct themselves in certain crises which might arise now that lights are an integral part of the pastime.

"In the event of a temporary failure of lights while a ball is in flight or a play in progress," stipulated the bulletin from Cincinnati, "the umpire will immediately call time and when the lights are turned on again and play is resumed, the batsman and all runners shall return to the last base touched by them at the time of suspension."

"Should the batsman be compelled to return to the batter's box, he shall assume the count of balls and strikes, if any, that prevailed at the time of suspension."

Get the idea? Score tied, last of the ninth, and a visiting blue-greener connects with a mighty swiper. Obviously it's a home run, but just before the sphere clangs into the distant stands our hero, who has mortgaged the old homestead on the locals, throws the master switch and saves the light.

Possibly there would be a bit of an argument, but the head umpire would have no choice once the bulbs were relit. In other words, given the right set of circumstances, that famous swat of Bobby Thomson's last fall could have escaped the record books entirely. Now they tell Charlie Dressen!

Our second favorite instruction, probably is the one which cautions National League arbiters that "if two games are scheduled for one admission, the first game of the doubleheader shall be completed before the second game is started." Any umpire who gets mixed up on that one should be severely reprimanded.

The question of whether the lights should be snapped on to complete Sunday afternoon games has the two Major Leagues split down the middle. The National League instruction sheet flatly forbids it, and says that any Sabbath contest which runs into darkness shall be suspended and played off the next time the two clubs meet. The American League is leaving the decisions to its individual clubs, though play must cease at 7 p.m. in any case.

Remember when?

Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove of the Red Sox fanned six Detroit Tigers to pass the 2,000 mark in strike-outs in an American Baseball League game 14 years ago today. Grove chalked up his 260th victory in 15 years of baseball, and on the 2,000 strike-out roll joined such immortals as Walter Johnson, Cy Young and Christy Mathewson.

Tail Enders Win Now

NEW YORK (AP)—The upstart St. Louis Browns and Chicago Cubs, major baseball league tail-enders in 1951, knocked off league leaders Thursday as they continued their headlong gallop.

The Browns got five-hit pitching from Duane Pillette to whip Boston Red Sox 6-1, moving within a game of the American League lead.

Minus Ted Williams, the Red Sox were kept shut out until the eighth. Hank Sauer unloaded with a first inning double as the Cubs smothered Brooklyn 7-2 behind Johnny Klippstein.

The win actually put the Cubs half a game ahead of the Dodgers in the National League won and lost records but they still trail by 13 percentage points, 727 to 714.

Jim Hearn found the revamped Pittsburgh Pirates his same old cousins as he pitched the New York Giants to a 13-5 win. The Giant right-hander won 14 to 2—a lifetime record against the Pirates.

Frank Smith came to the rescue in the ninth inning to save the Cincinnati Reds by 7-6 edge over the Boston Braves.

Joe Dobson, Chicago White Sox veteran right-hander, held Philadelphia Athletics hitless for 7½ innings. Then he went on to turn in two-hit 3-0 victory.

Gil Coan's double and Frank Campo's single in the thirteenth inning broke up a pitchers' duel between Bob Lemon and Sid Hudson and gave Washington a 2-1 victory over Cleveland.

Dizzy Trout stifled a New York Yankee rally with a spectacular ninth inning relief job as Detroit had a 5-4 victory for Art Houtteman.

Successive home runs by Nippy Jones and Connie Ryan in the sixth inning wiped out the St. Louis lead and sent the Philadelphia Phillies on to a 6-3 victory.
