Strike Looms For Two Top BC Hotels

VANCOUVER (CP)—Employees demanding a 40-hour work week and pay increases are threatening to replace welcome signs with picket lines Tuesday midnight at the two major hotels serving Vancouver and Victoria.

They have agreed on a co-ordinated strike plan which would close Hotel Vancouver and the Empress Hotel in Victoria, just as the early-summer tourist rush is beginning.

Negotiations aimed at averting the strike are continuing, with a meeting of government, management and union officials set for Friday at Victoria. This session concerns only the Empress Hotel.

But so far neither the employees nor the railways which operate British Columbia's biggest hotels have budged on what they consider reasonable terms of settlement.

Efforts of separate conciliation boards have been to no avail. In Vancouver, hotel workers say they will accept board recommendations but management has rejected them. In Victoria, workers rejected recommendations while management accepted them in part.

The 560-room Hotel Vancouver is operated jointly by Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Empress Hotel is owned by the C.P.R. Most employees—about 500 in Vancouver and 350 in Victoria—are represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL).

The most recent arguments were given by management in Victoria and an employees' representative in Vancouver.

T. E. Chester, Empress manager, said in a statement yesterday an additional $108,000 a cost an additional year.

"For the last six years the average annual operating loss of the Empress Hotel has been $15,540," he said, "and the loss in 1951 was $105,097."

In Vancouver, Hugh Allison, CBRE representative, said at a labor meeting that hotel employees are being discriminated against in respect to shorter working hours.

All other railway employees have the 40-hour week, he said, and "the hotel employees see no reason why they can't get it." Then he added: "But, we feel we will only get it by strike action."

The Vancouver conciliation board recommended the 40-hour week and a 5.51 per cent wage increase. In Victoria, a five per cent increase was recommended with a 44-hour week in either 5½ day weeks or alternative five and six-day weeks.

Management in Victoria says it will agree to conciliation board hours-of-work recommendations but not to the across-the-board increase, on the grounds that greater increases are justified for some positions than others.

At present Hotel Vancouver employees work a 44-hour week, the majority working seven hours and 20 minutes a day six days a week.

Vancouver had an 11-day sample of a hotel strike during the general rail walkout in 1950. Only permanent guests remained at Hotel Vancouver and they were without most services. The beer parlor, cigar stand, and shoeshine booth were about the only departments operating. Empress Hotel was not affected.

Mr. Muzzy Sabotages His Partner's Bid

Mr. Champion doesn't usually like to try for a slam when Mr. Muzzy is his partner. But this hand, he felt, was an exception.

He had solid hearts, second round control of both spades and diamonds. And surely Mr. Muzzy had at least one ace and one of the two top honors in the club suit.

The main question seemed to be, exactly how many aces did Mr. Muzzy have? If he had two or more, Mr. Champion was willing to bid the slam. If he had only one, five hearts should be a safe spot.

So, Mr. Champion bid four no trump and learned his partner had just one ace. He then bid five hearts and sat back with a feeling of confidence and contentment to await the opening lead.

"Is it my lead?" asked Mr. Dale.

"Wait just a minute," said Mr. Muzzy. "The bidding isn't over yet."

His tone was so cocky and his manner so professional that a kibitzer, seeing him for the first time, might have thought he knew what he was doing.

Only the ethics of the game kept Mr. Champion from saying, "The bidding had BETTER be over, you clunk-head." But of course the opponents would have objected to that remark. So the great man just sat there, fuming inside, his mouth a hard, straight line.

Mr. Muzzy fidgeted, squirmed, looked at the ceiling, pulled at his lower lip and finally bid six clubs.

Mrs. Keen cashed the ace of diamonds, took a look at dummy and shifted to a spade. Curtains.

"But I had no hearts at all," Mr. Muzzy said. "I was afraid to let you play hearts."

"What kind of a heart suit did you think I had, stupid, four to the queen-ten?" stormed Mr. Champion. "Did you think your club suit, missing the queen and jack, was better than a heart suit which I bid all the way to five with no support from you?"

Mr. Muzzy had forgot the rule of 26. He had looked only at his own hand, without trying to visualize his partner's cards and his own as one unit.

Korean Reds Well Equipped

SEOUL (CP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today Communist armies in Korea outnumber United Nations forces 2½ to 1 and "suffer for nothing in combat" but he does not expect an immediate Red offensive.

In saying Reds "suffer for nothing in combat," the general meant they have all equipment they need.

Baffled Badger

WINNIPEG (CP)—A sharp-clawed badger weighing 40 pounds led employees a hot chase in and out of buses in the Winnipeg Electric Company garages. It was finally captured after being trapped in a steel pipe and was sent to the Winnipeg zoo.
