Cambrai IODE Church Parade

Annual church parade of Cambrai Chapter, IODE, will be held tomorrow at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Details for the parade were completed at the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. W. Gormley, 401 Fourth Avenue West, Mrs. Mary Lyons, regent, was in the chair.

Mrs. M. L. Pettenuzzo was welcomed in as a new member.

The delegate to the recent provincial convention in Vancouver—Mrs. Ann Parker—gave an interesting report.

Members also discussed plans for Empire Day celebrations on May 23. On May 24, the chapter will enter a float in the parade.

June meeting of the club will be preceded by a dinner at Club 27.

Red Truce Negotiators Blast Allies

MUNSAN (CP)—For the ninth straight day Red truce negotiators blasted the Allies and again virtually dared them to formally break off the armistice talks.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior Allied delegate, spoke for only two minutes of the 30-minute session to "reject finally and formally" the Red prisoner-exchange proposal and to suggest a recess until the Reds have something new to offer.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il replied: "Unless you formally declare termination of these armistice negotiations, you have no reason to object to the normal holding of conferences."

Nam Il said a letter written by Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, former commander of the Allies' Koje Island prison, has disclosed the utter bankruptcy of your position.

Colson wrote a note to obtain the release of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, who was seized by the prisoners. The letter, since repudiated by the top Allied command, admitted guards had killed prisoners (in Red riots) and promised "humane treatment."

Joy said he told the Reds "they were cloaking their fears of the truth and dodging our screening program."

Board Awards Wage Increase To Road Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wage increases ranging from 16 to 35 cents an hour for employees in British Columbia road construction have been recommended in the conciliation board's unanimous report. The board also recommended Saturday afternoon and Sunday be treated as overtime, but it made no recommendation on union demand for a 40-hour week.

The recommendation was made in the dispute between Emil Anderson Construction Company and the International Union of Operating Engineers, local 115 (AFL), but any settlement will affect 400 men employed by 13 major B.C. road construction firms.

Union business agent Al Scott said a poll will be taken of union members.

Operators will meet Tuesday to vote on the award.

Scott said the recommendations would wipe out the coast and interior wage differentials for equipment of operators.

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me."

UBC Expedition To Hunt For Indian Relics

VANCOUVER — Racing with water, an expedition headed by Dr. Charles E. Borden, UBC archaeologist, will head for Tweedsmuir Park June 1. Object of the venture is to uncover and collect as many ancient Indian relics as possible from sites discovered in the area last summer before Acan's Nechako dam floods them.

Scientists believe the sites of villages running north to south indicate the route through the park was one used by early Indians in their migration to North America from Asia.

Divided into two parts, the expedition in June will work around Tweedsmuir Park, particularly the abandoned Indian village of Chinlac and some likely spots around Cheslatta Lake. With Dr. Borden for the phase will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tolstoy, UBC, and three graduate students—Maureen Kelly and Helen Piddington, UBC, and Natalie Burch, University of Washington.

In July, operations will switch to the eastern portion of the park surveyed last year. With Dr. Borden will be Mr. and Mrs. Tolstoy, Miss Burch and Robert Theodoratus and Joy Carlson, University of Washington, Jack Darling, UBC, and two graduate students of the University of Toronto. They will explore Nalakuz and Suchu Lakes, where two abandoned villages are located.

The two villages and the artifacts found near them appear to be from two entirely different Indian cultures.

As the last structure of the dam nears completion, the time element is vital, as the dammed-up water will cover forever the villages, which may feature in the population of North and South America.

Bey of Tunis Put Under House Arrest

TUNIS — France has put 70-year-old Bey of Tunis under virtual house arrest for balking at the French martial law decree. French troops, carrying bayonets, moved in and replaced the colorful blue uniformed Arab soldiers, Mohammed Al-Amin's own honor guard at his summer palace.

Bey, nominal ruler of the country since May, 1943, refused the French demand that he countersign the decree declaring martial law in the country. In another blow, the French issued orders that two of the Bey's nine children would have to obtain French passes to get in and out of his palace.

They were Prince Chadley, 47, and Princess Zakia, 30. The prince has long been sympathetic to the Tunisia Nationalists.

Paint Contract Awarded For McClymont Park

Roy Rahmer has been awarded the contract to paint the swimming pools and other necessary buildings at McClymont Park and the bleachers at Gyo Park.

In disclosing this information Friday, Pat Forman, Parks Board chairman, said that while the board's request for $13,000 from council was not approved, "we are satisfied with the amount of money allotted to operate our parks this year."

Lila Endstrom, former well-known swimming star in North Vancouver, has been appointed instructor at the pools and Mr. Forman said "it is the intention of the Civic Centre to officially open the pools next Saturday."

While Mr. Forman said he could not disclose the figure bid by Rahmer Company to do the painting job, "that company was the lowest bidder out of four which sought the contract."

Painters began working at McClymont Park on Thursday.

Post Office Calls Clerks

With the eligible list at zero, Prince Rupert post office is calling for postal clerks.

Postmaster W. G. Burgess said today that it was customary for the department to call for applications for Civil Service openings. Applicants would be required to write examinations and those who passed in excess of requirements would be placed on an "eligible list." They might be called upon when vacancies occurred later.

Mr. Burgess said there were two openings in the staff with no persons on the eligible list.

CLASSICAL RESEARCH

COPPELLA BALLET MUSIC By the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, Fabien Sevitzky conducting

Coppella takes place in a picturesque little town on the borders of Galicia in Hungary. The chief settings for its bustling activity are the public square and the workshop of Coppellius, master toymaker and magician. The tale centers about a lively young girl, Swanilda and her sweetheart, Frantz, an easily led fellow who has fallen prey to the charms of another, said to be Coppellius' daughter.

The "daughter" Coppella (who turns out to be nothing more than a mechanical doll), sits reading day after day in the window of the toymaker's abode, and is responsible for some of the most charming confusion that ever graced a stage.

Various and intriguing episodes that all seem to boil down to Frantz' trying to watch Coppella; Swanilda's trying to watch Frantz; and the poor, harassed Coppellius, the toy maker, trying to chase everybody out of his workshop, take place against a colorful backdrop of folk festival and gaiety.

The climax of the ballet occurs with Swanilda slyly taking the place of Coppella in the window, and responding to the tricks of Coppellius and his book of magic. Like the victim of some sorcerer's too-eager apprentice, she refuses to be stopped. She waltzes, does a Spanish pas, a Scotch dance, sets immobile toys in motion and drives the old man almost to distraction. Indeed, it is too much for him.

Coppella (after some rather fast action on Swanilda's part) suddenly becomes her old stiff self, and as the poor bewildered Coppellius observes Swanilda and Frantz stealing away arm in arm, he faints dead away in the midst of his toys!

This confusion takes place to music of piquant beauty, gay in its orchestral coloring. The music in this album reveals the best-loved portion of the ballet such as Theme Slave varié; Danse fete, the popular Waltz of the Hours; a Nocturne, the spirited Danse des automates (dance of the Toys) et Valse, and the Czardas. It was in Coppella that the Hungarian folk dance was used for the first time. Thereafter, national and folk dances were freely employed in ballets.

Platter Parade

by DICK WESCH

Hollywood will play an important part in determining our favorite record hits in the very near future. For instance, we're hearing "Singin' in the Rain" from the movie of the same name, on recordings by Ray Anthony on Capitol; Ralph Flanagan on Victor; Eddy Howard on Mercury, and Tony Martin on Victor.

From the picture, "Belle of New York," Gordon MacRae for Capitol, and Doris Day for Columbia, have recorded "Baby Doll."

But the one to really watch is from the big new Technicolor musical story of Jane Froman, "With a Song in My Heart."

The song, of course, is "I'll Walk Alone," which is once again headed for the top. For the music lovers who like their numbers played—or sung—as they are in the films, most big musicals have albums done on all three speeds, recorded directly from the soundtrack.

Two in a row for Louis! Following right after his release of "Indian Love Call" and "Jeannine," with Gordon Jenkins Orchestra, Louis Armstrong and his own orchestra come up with two of the top hits of the day, "Kiss of Fire" and "I'll Walk Alone." Louis on the vocals is good but not as good as some of his earlier releases.

Good trumpet work on both sides with the "Kiss of Fire" ended by one of the typical Armstrong tags. Three of the current top recording artists are about to fight it out as to who will have the top version of the new favorite "I'm Yours." The three arrangements are by Don Cornell (Coral), Eddie Fisher (Victor) and the Four Aces (Decca).

Cornell's version is leading in the best selling "pop" singles and the records most played by Side. With a recommendation in his pocket—in addition to 40 dollars—he went off to New York to crash the big time. The recommendation proved worthless, and the 40 dollars vanished to four cents, enough to buy four penny candy bars, which carried him through four days, sleeping in Central Park.

The fourth day, a friend loaned him enough to carry him through until he landed a spot singing on a radio station for five dollars weekly. To keep himself going, he sang for his supper in a spaghetti house.

In 1941 he decided to give up trying to make the grade for a while, and went out to work in a defense plant. He spent his spare time studying and writing music, and during the next 2½ years composed over 12 songs. He was transferred to Hollywood, where he managed to get one of his songs recorded. Finally in 1946 his luck took an unexpected turn, this time for the better. He started singing again at a night club in Hollywood where Mercury Record executives heard him and he was signed to a contract. He began to record, and his second recording, "That's My Desire," caught like wildfire. He followed through with a long line of similar hits, establishing himself as a top recording star.

HONOR ROLL OF HITS (As tabulated by Billboard Magazine)
1—Wheel of Fortune—Kay Starr.
2—Blue Tango—Leroy Anderson.
3—Blacksmith Blues—Ella Mae Morse.
4—Guy Is a Guy—Doris Day.
5—Kiss of Fire—Georgia Gibbs.
6—Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania—Guy Mitchell.
7—I'll Walk Alone—Don Cornell.
8—Any Time—Eddie Fisher.
9—Be Anything (But Be Mine)—Eddy Howard.
10—Forgive Me—Eddie Fisher.

THIS WEEK'S ARTIST

FRANKIE LAINE — Frankie Laine was born in Chicago March 30, 1913, in the heart of "Little Italy." While attending Lane Tech High, he began hanging around the Merry Garden Ballroom, and once in a while got to sing with the orchestra playing here. Out of all this came an engagement singing eight months with a band that played for a marathon dance contest.

That settled Frankie's natural urge to sing, and he started out as a single on Cleveland's East

Children Act Well In Junior Theatre

CALGARY (CP)—Pint-sized Barrymores and tiny Bernharts have found a place in the limelight in Calgary drama circles.

They are members of the Coste House Junior Theatre, a group of actors ranging in age from nine to 17. Organized little more than six months ago, the group has already completed two productions, one of them an excerpt from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Between 40 and 50 young actors, junior members of the Calgary Allied Arts Centre, took part in the plans. The mothers of the children co-operated, with the producers, making the costumes, while Calgary's senior acting group, Workshop 14, supplied all the scenery.

The junior drama group is only one illustration of the interest in the arts being shown in Calgary. Summer courses are being offered in music and the arts by the Calgary Allied Arts Council, and the Coste House is starting a 16-lecture course in writing for radio. In the latter course the works of the students will be recorded and re-played for criticism.
