Eddie Dawes Leaves by Air to Join Canadian Navy's Coronation Contingent

Leading Seaman Eddie Dawes left by air for Halifax enroute to the Coronation, HMCS Chatham's representative.

The Canadian contingent consists of 130 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Naval (Reserve). The contingent represents 22,000 officers and men of the RCN and RCN (R). Every rank is included.

Commanding Officer of the Naval Coronation contingent is Commander R. P. Welland, RCN, of Vancouver.

The naval marching contingent consists of 84 officers and men who are required to march 13 miles in the Coronation parade and on the following day the whole RCN contingent will march to Buckingham Palace, nine miles, each to receive the Coronation medal from Queen Elizabeth.

LINE STREETS

Street lining party of the RCN contingent will number 45 and will be under arms for 16 hours. All members of the contingent have been asked to get into top physical shape before sailing.

All officers and men arrived in Stadacona last Monday. Training lasts until May 6. It consists of arms drill, route marches, physical training, kit inspection and other necessary activities.

On May 7 the RCN Coronation marching contingent will embark on HMCS Quebec and the street lining contingent will embark on other ships of the fleet for passage to the United Kingdom.

The Royal Canadian Navy fleet of ships for the Coronation sails from Halifax May 7 and arrives at Portsmouth on the 15th.

The Coronation contingent will then disembark and proceed to Purbright Camp near London. Training again will be carried out until June 1.

Three or four days before the Coronation the marching contingent will proceed to Earl's Court and the street lining contingent to Kensington Gardens.

NEW ARRIVAL

A new arrival on the permanent RCN staff at Chatham is Petty Officer First Class Hodges, a gunner by trade. Since his arrival the smartness of the squad drill in the drill hall on Monday evenings is improving.

Nearly all the new naval band, consisting of approximately 20, have been sworn in and kitted up and are now going through their paces in naval squad drill to marching.

From the drill hall on Monday evenings these days come sounds of marching feet, clatter of rifle butts and power of command being exercised.

The foreign naval vessels that will be visiting Prince Rupert for the Coronation parade on June 2 will be the U.S. naval vessels Rombac and PTC 1254 and the U.S. Coastguard cutter Kimball and one Coastguard PBY aircraft.
