

John Mize and Allie Reynolds Make Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Big Johnny Mize has reiterated his intention to end his active career in baseball, and Allie Reynolds may join him in retirement.

Reynolds, New York Yankees' great righthander, told newspaper men after yesterday's final world series game that he will quit if his back fails to improve during the winter.

"My back has been bothering me ever since I hurt it last July," he said. "I've had muscular spasms on and off, ever since. For a time, I couldn't even run, let alone pitch."

"My back improved somewhat in the hot weather but I re-injured it again pitching the world series opener. I was greatly upset then because the muscular spasms returned. However, it wasn't as bad as I thought and I was able to pitch again although I knew I'd never be able to start another series game."

Allie, a wealthy oil man, said he plans to rest all winter. Mize, who will be 41 in January, left no doubt about his intention.

"I know I can still help the club, especially as a pinch-hitter," he said, "but I don't think it will be worth it. I've got two offers now, both of which will pay me more than I'd make playing with the Yankees next year. One is an all-year-round job, the other for five months."

Mize, who appeared only as a pinch hitter during the series and failed to land a safety, declined to identify the offers, but said they would be in baseball.

REESE (left) of the Dodgers and Phil Rizzuto of the Yankees have come a long way from sandlots where they choose sides with a bat. During World Series, which Yanks won four games to two, both veterans turned in top notch performances. Reese and Rizzuto were only veterans of the series between the two teams away back in 1941.

Billy Martin, Stengel's Favorite Puts Series on Ice For Yanks

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—It was Billy Martin, the player Casey Stengel loves above all his other Yankees, who emerged the hero of the deciding game of the world series this year.

Martin, the hard-bitten little scrapper Stengel managed at Oakland, gladdened his mentor's heart with a ninth inning single to centrefield that gave the Bombers a 4-3 sixth game victory and the series 4-2 over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

While the National Leaguers went down in six games this time instead of the seven they normally insist upon, they were by no means outclassed. Their lack of pitching depth finally told on them, but they proved themselves the stout hitters that their averages promised and they never quit punching.

HEART-STOPPER
Few who saw it will forget the heart-stopping home run by Carl Furillo with one down in the top of the ninth that scored Duke Snider ahead of him and tied the score at 3-3.

The Yanks had been leading, apparently by a safe margin, from the game's opening minutes. They were in front by 3-0 after two innings, and the Dodgers finally had scored a lone off young Whitey Ford in the sixth only because Jackie Robinson took charge with a double, stole third without drawing a throw and raced in on an infield out.

The Dodgers' chances looked even slimmer after Stengel, playing a hunch, brought Allie Reynolds in to relieve Ford to start the eighth.

Gil Hodges fled out to short centre to start the ninth. Then Snider worked Reynolds for a pass, which was hotly disputed by Yahoo's battery mate, Yogi Berra. That brought up Furillo, who previously had hit Ford for a double and a single.

Furillo first brought the crowd up yelling with a punch down the right line which barely blew foul, and then, with the count

3 and 2, he socked the next one in there.

When the din finally died down and the Dodgers quit hugging one another, Reynolds struck out Billy Cox and Labine in fast succession to close the inning.

YANK RALLY
Labine walked Bauer, the first man to face him in the Yankee half, Berra lined one into Furillo's hands close to the right barrier. Mickey Mantle barely got his bat on a pitch and popped a dribbler to the left side of the diamond which Billy Cox got his glove on but couldn't handle, Bauer racing to second.

And there was Martin, the brat. The first pitch he let go past for a called strike. The next one he belted squarely just to the left of second base into centrefield. Snider came tearing in to take it on the hop, but didn't even bother to try a throw to the plate.

Bauer, one of the fastest base runners in the game, couldn't have been tagged with a rocket gun. Reynolds, having permitted the tying run on Furillo's blast, gained credit for his seventh world series victory when Billy took him off the hook.

The sad figure of the contest was Carl Erskine, the Dodger righthander who fanned a record 14 Yankees in the third game. He didn't have the same stuff after two days' rest, and the Bombers got to him in a hurry.

Quakers Trim Stampede 3-1

By The Canadian Press
The 1953-54 Western Hockey League season is only one day old, but already Saskatoon Quakers have served notice they're going to be as tough as ever to beat at home.

Quakers christened the WHL's sixth season as a professional loop with a snappy 3-1 win Monday night over Calgary Stampede.

A crack new forward line of Eddie Kibussen, Chuck McCulloch and George Senick proved more than Stampede could handle. They combined for all three Quaker goals on smooth passing plays.

Kobussen shared two while Senick got the other and McCulloch drew three assists. Archie Scott was the only Stampeder to blink the red light, beating former New York Ranger netminder Chuck Rayner.

Tonight, the season opens at Vancouver and Edmonton, Canucks entertaining Victoria Cougars and Flyers taking on the Stampede.

How long does an oil well last?

The average well goes dry in 20 to 30 years. To keep your car rolling and your home warm, a new well must be found to take its place. That's why the search for oil never ends; why Imperial, for instance, spent almost $50 millions to find and develop new oil in western Canada last year.

Oil has become one of Canada's important industries. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

Which of the following contain petroleum lipstick? binder twine?
printing ink? insect spray?

In 1946 Canada produced less than 10% of the oil she used. How much of her needs does she produce now 18%? 40%? 55%?

How many service stations would you say Imperial operates across Canada 19,500? 10,000? 0?

In oil field language, a "roughneck" is one of the crew of a drilling rig. What is a "toolpusher" tool salesman? drilling foreman?
motor mechanic?

Opinion surveys show that most Canadians believe a business is entitled to a profit of 15¢ on a dollar of revenue. Last year Imperial earned 7 1/2¢? 11¢? 19¢?

Oil is a part of all the products named and of hundreds of others which contribute to our everyday living.

About 40%—and we use twice as much as in 1946. Today's production would meet 80% of the demand at that time.

None. Approximately 10,000 stations carry the Imperial Esso sign, but they are operated by independent dealers, each in business for himself.

Drilling foreman. Oil field slang is colorful. A "Christmas tree," for instance, is a combination of pipes and valves to regulate the flow of oil from a well.

In 1952 Imperial earned a profit of 7 1/2¢ of each dollar received. Of this, 4¢ was paid to shareholders; the remaining 3 1/2¢ was used to replace worn-out equipment and to make sure we can supply your future oil needs.

Calgary Edges Roughriders

REGINA (CP)—Calgary Stampede, unwilling to play humpty-dumpty, beat Saskatchewan Roughriders 9-8 Monday night to move within a game of Riders' third-place spot in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

It was Calgary's third win in 11 starts. Had Stampede lost, all the king's horses and men couldn't put them in playoff contention again in the four-team loop.

Now, with only five of the schedule's 16 games left, Roughriders could wind up as they did last year—in the cellar.

Saskatchewan coach Frankie Flitchock, quarterbacking for the injured Glenn Dobbs, was left to the long chances in passing Monday and with them netted 160 yards, 59 more than Calgary. But Riders gave way 125-91 in yards rushing.

Calgary made good on 11 of 19 attempted passes, compared with Riders' 12 of 24, and one of them was taken for the lone Calgary major by import end Al Endriss. Glenn Christian made the convert and later kicked from 32 yards out for a field goal.
