GRAIN WORTH ABOUT $300,000 lies on the ground near the elevators at Makepeace, about 20 miles northwest of Bassano, Alta. The huge pile of grain, for which there is no room in the biggest elevator, belongs to Wilbur Griffith of Calgary. This situation, though generally on a smaller scale, is repeated in many other sections of Alberta due to the heavy crop this year.

Transfer of Roosevelt Park Ground Won't Increase Tax Rate

This is the last in a series of planning referendums before the city at Thursday's civic election.

By DICK AYRES

The most controversial of four referendums on which voters are asked to express an opinion today is one which doesn't raise the tax rate one iota, concerns only the disposition of a large sum of money and park commissioners have decided over the past five years.

The question is: "Do you favor the transfer of the Roosevelt Park trust fund to a reserve fund to be expended solely for the development of the Algoma Park area?"

Parks board commissioners claim that (a) Roosevelt Park is "out" as a recreational centre and (b) that the Algoma Park area has unlimited possibilities as a park and the $25,000 left in the Roosevelt Park reserve fund could do more good at the McBride Street site.

In answer to criticism as to why the parks board hadn't spent the $25,000 on Roosevelt

Case Based on Ancient Treaty Still Unsettled Says Calder

The question of whether Canadian Indians may purchase land in the United States duty-free is still unsettled, Frank Calder, CCF MLA for Atlin, said today.

Calder, who last month defended the Indian International Convention in Ottawa said the Exchequer court hearing on the case based on the Jay Treaty, reserved judgment on the case after the evidence had been heard.

The Jay Treaty between Britain and the United States stated that Indians on the border could trade goods duty free in either country. The case arose when a Mohawk Indian, Louis Riel, of the St. Regis, Quebec reservation bought an oil heater, refrigerator and washing machine in the United States. When he refused to pay the $123.66 duty, a test case was set up by both Canadian and American delegates assembled near the outcome.

Clarification

Francis Henderson, Francis' lawyer, urged that the court be clear that all of Canada's 130,000 Indians have the right under the Jay Treaty to bring personal goods into Canada without payment of duty.

His counsel, D. Henry, said Indians, like other citizens, must obey Canada's tax laws as enacted in 1949. He claimed that the American revolution nullified the treaty between Britain and the United States, and wasn't legally enforceable in Canada. It hadn't been placed in Canadian law.

Henderson said the Jay Treaty had been revised by the Treaty of Ghent which followed the war of 1812.

Calder in attending the big convention of Canadian and United States Indians said he was very interested with the interest shown at all his public meetings which he spoke on the full question of the provincial vote franchise to all Canadian Indians.

He spoke at Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton. Mr. Calder said that his speech in Toronto was most timely. The latter he spoke, the Toronto Post and Mail ran a story saying that Ontario is considering changing the vote to the 23,000 Indians in Ontario. Only B.C. Indians have extended the

ON ST. BERNARD PASS at the Italo-Swiss frontier, Augustine monk Gratien Volluz breaks the news gently to sad-eyed Barry IV, that St. Bernards are no longer needed for their traditional errands of mercy. With present-day methods of communication and transportation, the Augustine's have decided there is no longer a need for continuing the 300-year custom of training the dogs to search for stranded travellers, furnish them brandy, and lead them back to the hospice to be cared for. The remaining 19 dogs are being offered for sale by the nine monks.

Eisenhower To Issue Challenge To Russia On Atomic Control

Troops Fire On Student 'Rioters'

TEHRAN. — Iranian troops fired into a crowd of anti-British demonstrators at Tehran University today, killing two persons and wounding another.

It was the first public violence in Iran's heavily patrolled capital since Premier Fazollah Zahedi announced Saturday that his government had resumed diplomatic relations with Britain.

Thirty demonstrators were arrested.

Following his announcement, the powerful Moslem leader, Ayatullah Kashani, threatened to order a campaign of "national mourning," the wearing of black armbands, displaying of black flags and shouting of anti-British slogans, to protest the action.

Gen. Farhad Dadsetan, Tehran's military governor, said most of the demonstrators at the university were Communists who refused to attend classes today and then tried to "demonstrate against government policies."

He said "attempts were made by the soldiers to disperse them. When the students attempted to disarm the soldiers, the troops fired on them."

Down at Algoma Park, he said, spectators would be sheltered from the wind and it would make an ideal, centrally-located outdoor sports centre. "People don't like to climb hills to get to a baseball or football game, he said.

Outspoken opponent of the fund transfer is Ald. George Casey, self-named "watchdog of the council." The electors, he said, agreed that one mill a year should be set aside for the development of Roosevelt Park, and he believes their wishes should have been acceded to.

At various times he has described the Roosevelt Park site as the most beautiful spot in British Columbia, a view second to none.

When the Roosevelt Park referendum passed, he said, the original scheme called for an engineer's plan of the whole surrounding area which was to include landscaping, lawns, planting of shrubbery and a baseball diamond and football field.

However, he agreed from the outset that the people shall have the last word on the matter, although he personally opposes the transfer of the fund.

What the electors are asked to do is say where they think the $25,000 will do the most good.

Situation Said Critical In Korea

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The Chinese prime minister, Chou Enlai, has sent a message to the United Nations General Assembly warning it that the situation in Korea now has reached a "critical stage," Peiping radio announced today.

The Communist broadcast said a seven-point letter had been sent to the UN Secretary-General, Dag Hammarskjold, and Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, president of the United Nations Assembly.

The letter said explanations to unrepatriated war prisoners by the North Korean and Chinese side were carried out only for seven days.

Since the explanations were forced to come to a halt for the fifth time, 20 days had elapsed and there has been no resumption.

Therefore the agreement on repatriation of war prisoners in the Korean armistice agreement had already been seriously violated.

Meanwhile, a report from Panmunjom said the chief United States delegates unexpectedly skipped today's negotiations with the Reds on a Korean peace conference and instead met with South Korean president Syngman Rhee at Seoul.

As ambassador Arthur Dean talked with Rhee, aide Kenneth Young sat in for him at Panmunjom in a meeting he termed "a move forward."

UDINE, Italy (AP)—Yugoslav and Italian troops pulled back today from their emergency positions along the Yugoslav-Italian border in a new move to ease tension over Trieste.

This came 48 hours after the two nations agreed to "normalize" their frontiers as the first peaceful step toward resolving their lengthy feud over possession of the Trieste free territory.

Italy was the first to announce withdrawal and Italian roads leading away from the border were filled with troops, tanks and other military vehicles.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, announced the pull-back.

Premier Giuseppe Pella and Pavel Gregorik, Yugoslav minister to Rome, reached agreement on the withdrawal in a Rome meeting Saturday.

Gen. Carlo Baglino, commander of Italy's 5th Army corps with headquarters in this north Italian city, announced the start of the Italian withdrawal.

Gen. Vandenberg 'Seriously Ill'

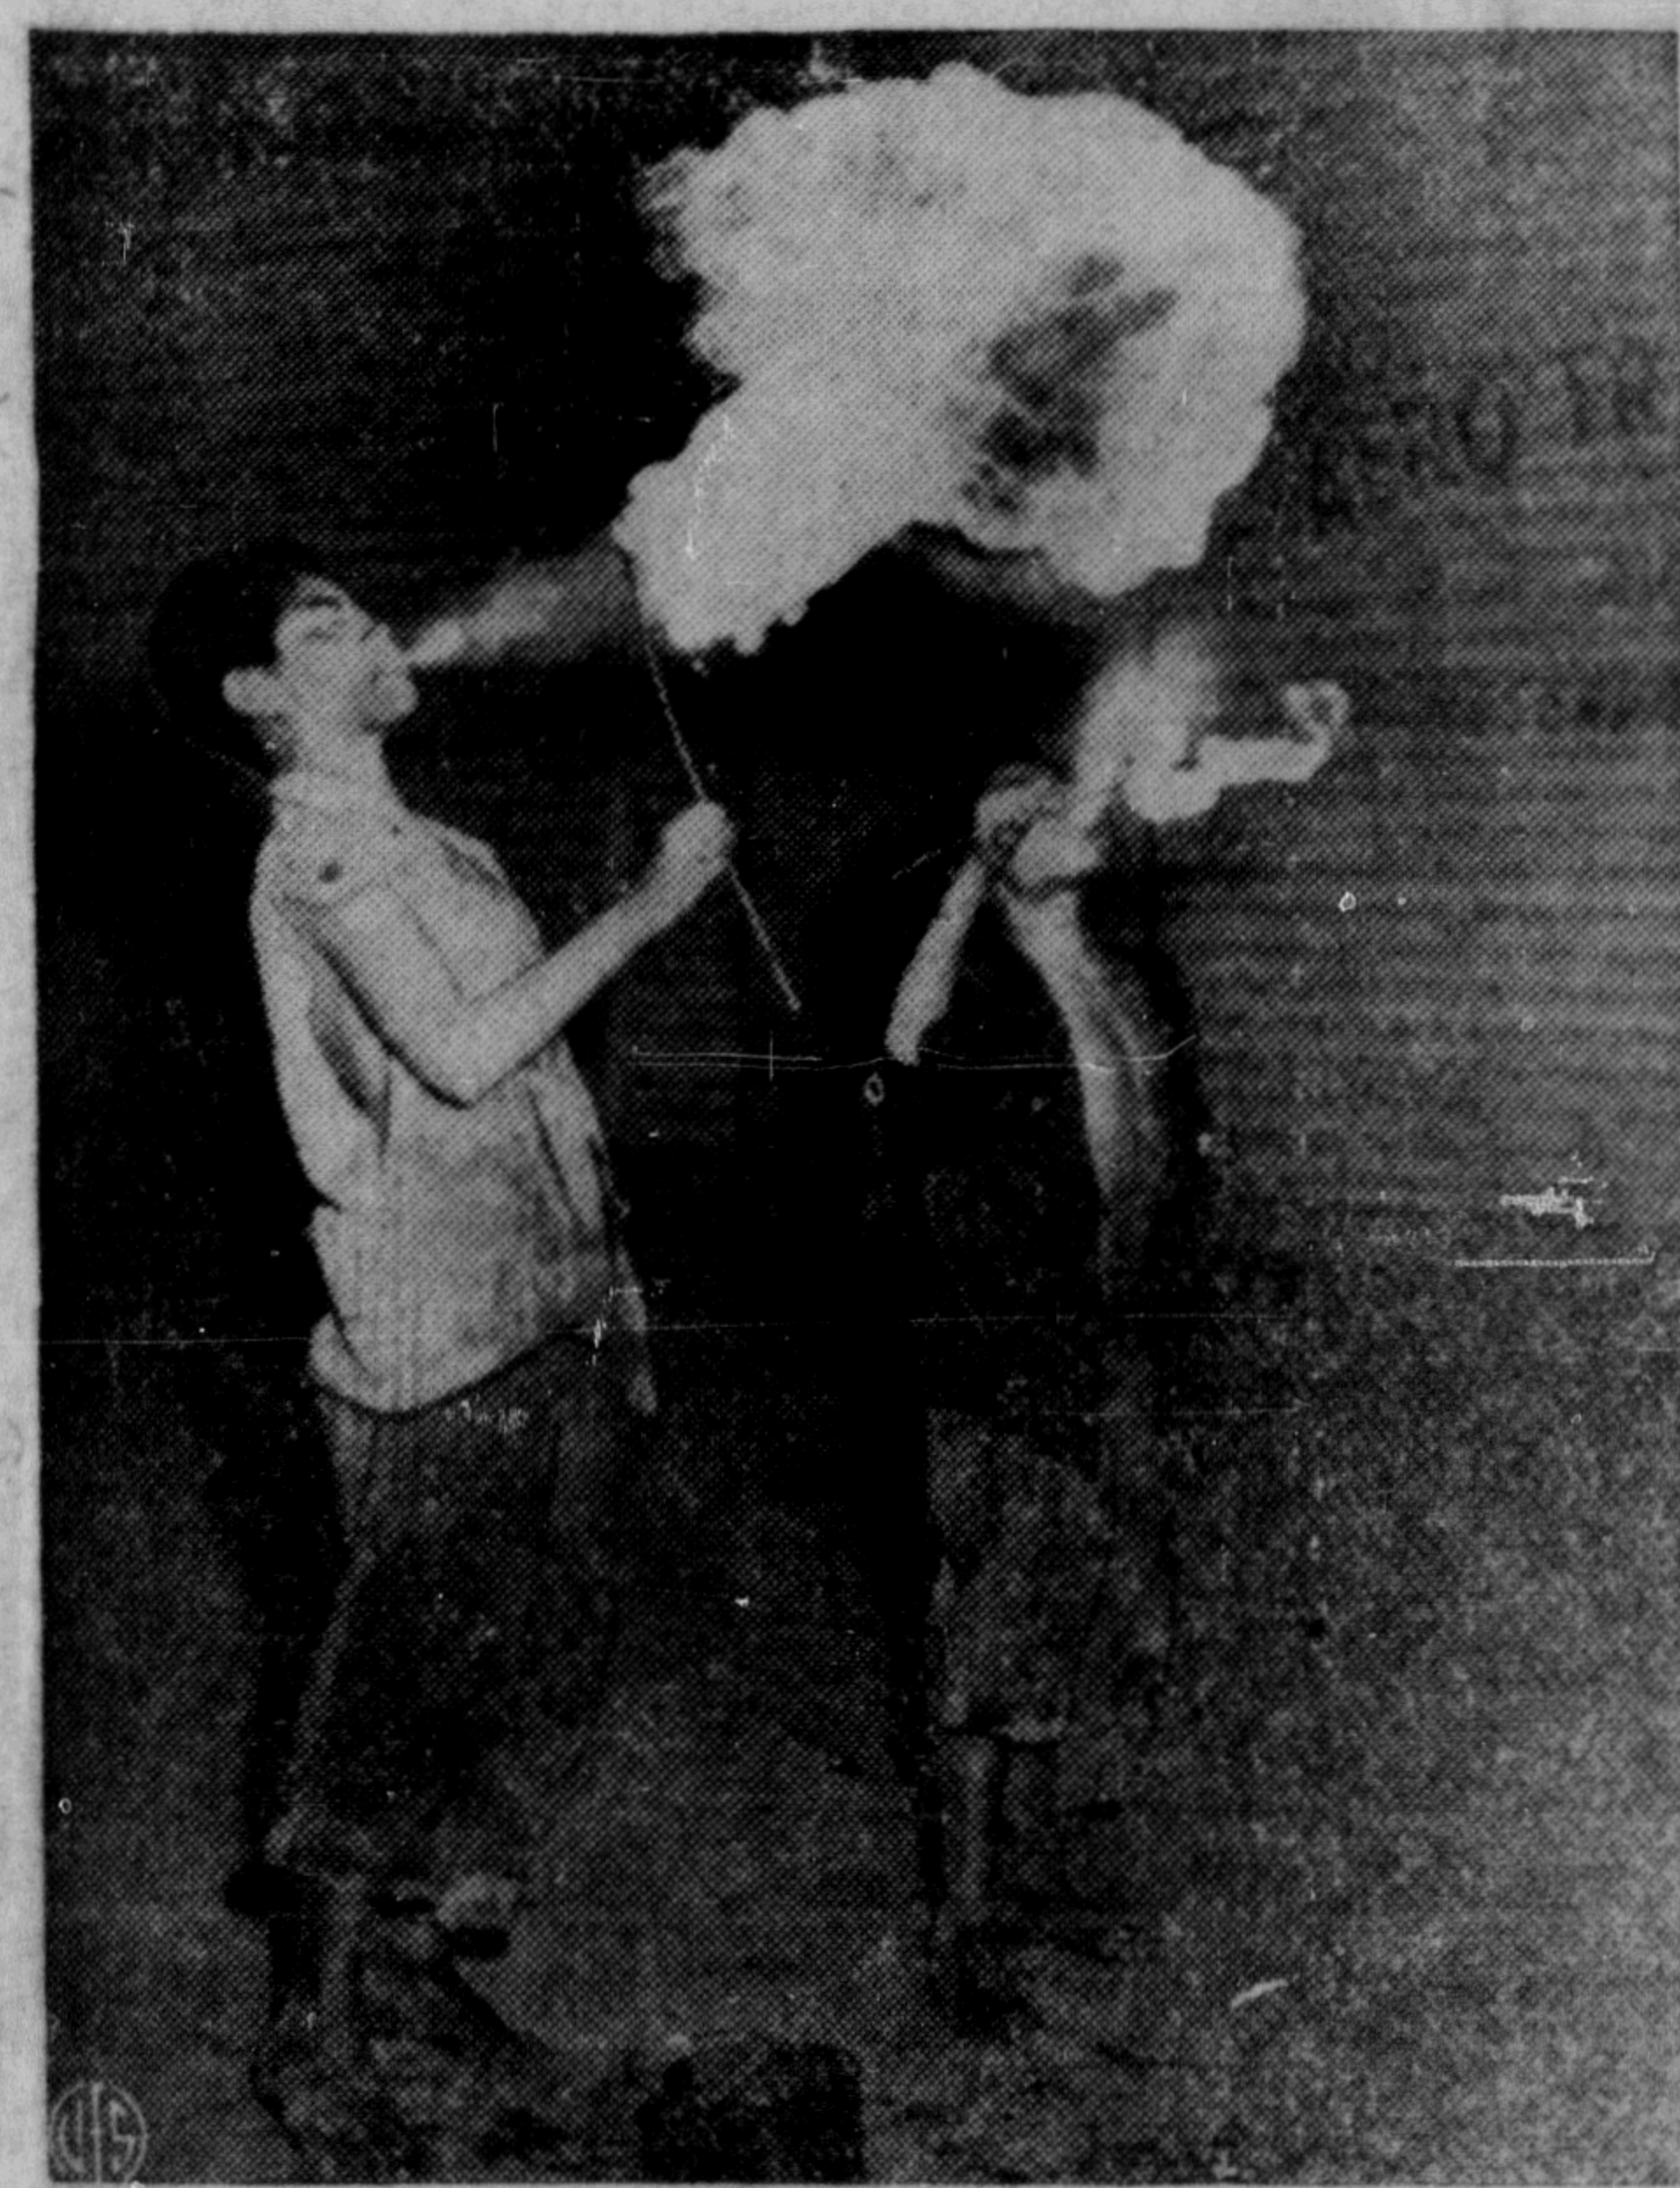

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg has been placed on the "seriously ill" list at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Hospital officials said the retired air force chief of staff took a slight turn for the worse two days ago. In 1952 he underwent a serious abdominal operation for causes which were never officially stated.

In company with R. G. Moore, Mr. Magor visited Cassiar and other northern points last summer during distribution of ballot boxes for the federal elections. Tonight's talk will be the second in a series of three on the north country.

The program starts at 7:30 p.m.

Jaycees Deck Christmas Tree To Open Light-Up Competition

Many of Prince Rupert's businesses have responded to the Junior Chamber of Commerce drive for entrants in the business category of its annual light-up contest.

While the residential contest has not actually started, entry blanks will appear in The Daily News very shortly.

Decoration and lighting is an original, friendly way of expressing one's greeting to friends and neighbors according to members of the Jaycee light-up committee.

"A few strings of colored Christmas lights over the entrance to your home, a decorated or lighted window, or a decorated tree in the yard can transform your home into a welcoming sight at this time of the year."

Other contest officials predict that this year's Christmas decorations here will surpass previous years. They expect difficult decisions on the part of the judges.

The Jaycee Christmas tree at the Post Office is expected to be lighted today to mark the official opening of the contest.

Date of closure of the contest entries is expected to be December 20. Contest officials are hoping there will be more entries this year than last. It costs home owners and residents nothing to enter. The prize list will be announced later.

Broadcast Scheduled For Speech to UN

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

TUCKERS TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York Tuesday to deliver a new Western challenge to Russia to join in working out a plan of disarmament and atomic control.

With the backing of Prime Minister Churchill and the French leaders here for the Big Three conference, Eisenhower, in a major address to the United Nations General Assembly, is expected to suggest a fresh approach to the international atomic problem which has been caught in a Soviet-Western deadlock for seven years.

The announced subject for the speech, to be made at 4 p.m. EST, is "Perils That Confront the World in This Atomic Age."

President Eisenhower's address to UN will be broadcast by the CBC on its Trans-Canada network between 1 p.m. and 1:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The announcement Sunday night that Eisenhower would address the UN caused a sensation dominating the closing rounds of his meetings here with Churchill and French premier Joseph Laniel.

The development overshadowed the shift of the talks today to Far Eastern problems, including France's war in Indo-China and negotiations for a Korean peace conference, and continuing British-U.S. efforts to press the French for early approval of the rearmament of West Germany.

The Big Three talks closed today with a communique summing up their work.

Eisenhower will fly directly to New York's Idlewild airport. The ailing Laniel, still confined to bed with a lung infection, also will fly home tomorrow if he is able.

Churchill, the conference host, will leave for London late Wednesday.

Eisenhower and Churchill, along with U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault, at their sessions Sunday drafted a note to Russia, believed to contain acceptance of a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin, possibly in early January.

The draft was sent to Bonn for West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer's approval.

(A report from Bonn says Adenauer has approved the Western reply to the latest Soviet note on Germany.)

In their examination of European problems, Eisenhower and Churchill are reported to have heard a plea Sunday from Bidault for new assurances they will maintain their military strength in Europe and will back France's demands for continued close economic union with the strategic border Saar basin, which Germany wants "Europeanized."
