Marriage at United Church

Miss Gibb Becomes Bride of Gordon Dixon.

The United Church was the scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon when Jean Gibb and Gordon Dixon exchanged marriage vows before Rev. C. Fisher, the bride wore a gown of ivory duchesse and Chantilly lace with a bodice and lily point sleeves. Full skirt of satin and lace fell away to a swirling train. Her French illusion veil was held by a halo coronet and she carried a bouquet of roses and gardenias.

The ceremony was attended by Miss Leaman, wearing a diamond crown of lilac net, with a strapless bodice, topped with a stole of primrose tulle and lace net and matching net hat. She carried blended roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Henry Dixon. A hymn provided wedding music on the pipe organ. A reception which followed at the hall, the happy couple received the congratulations of over 200 guests as they dined under a sweetheart arch, graced with a profusion of flowers interspersed with roses and carnations.

Receiving the guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Arne Eyclonson, dressed in a navy blue tailored suit with matching hat, and groom's sister, Mrs. Wm. McNeil, wearing a gold dressmaker and black hat and accessories.

Closest to the bride was provided by Ragnar Eyclonson who, in short witty address, traced the customs from prehistoric times to the modern ages. When in closing, presented with a magic crystal intended to foretell a bright happy future.

Music by Barney Eyclonson was followed by a supper which was much enjoyed by the guests.

A going-away costume, Mrs. McNeil donned an apple green ensemble with a dusty rose hat and accessories, and Mrs. Dixon will make her home in Prince Rupert.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Janet Brown, her uncle, R. Brown, both of Alberta.

Timely RECIPES

Remember last September when the wonderful smell of homemade pickles mingled with the air. Probably every housewife thought she was making an ample supply. However, because they are so good, in many homes the supply is beginning to run low. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have four wonderful recipes for pickles and relishes that can be made now. It may seem a bit out of season, but the recipes will be a boon to any housewife. The first one is for Chili sauce made with canned tomatoes which of course are available now. The Quick-Corn Relish can be made at a moment's notice to serve with any meal. It may be that in some homes there just was not time enough to make Beet Relish. It can be prepared now, too. The Plum sauce is wonderful with ham or pork and especially good with Chinese food.

- ### CHILI SAUCE
- (canned tomatoes)
- 2 28-ounce cans tomatoes (7 cups)
  - 1 large onion, 1/2 cup ground
  - 2 medium apples (1 cup ground)
  - 1 1/2 cups finely diced celery
  - 1 cup vinegar
  - 3/4 to 1 cup sugar (depending on tartness of apples and tomatoes)
  - 2 teaspoons salt
  - 1 teaspoon ground allspice
  - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
  - 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
  - 12 whole cloves (tied in cheesecloth bag)
- Place tomatoes in a kettle. Put onions and apples through food chopper, using the fine blade. Dice celery in small pieces. Add onion, apple, vinegar, celery, sugar and seasonings to tomatoes. Bring to boil and boil until thick about 1 1/2 hours, stirring frequently. Remove cloves, pour chili sauce into sterilized jars and seal. Store in a cool dark place. Yield: about 7 cups.

- ### QUICK CORN RELISH
- 1 14-ounce can (1 1/4 cups) whole kernel corn
  - 2/3 cup chili sauce
  - 2 tablespoons minced onion
  - 2 tablespoons butter
  - 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper (optional)
- Drain liquid off corn. Add chili sauce, onion, butter and green pepper to corn. Simmer, covered, about 5 minutes to blend flavors. Serve with ham, tongue or other meat. Yield: 2 1/4 cups.

- ### BEEF RELISH
- 4 cups cooked finely chopped beefs
  - 4 cups finely chopped cabbage
  - 1/2 cup grated horseradish
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/16 teaspoon pepper
  - 2 cups sugar
  - 1 cup vinegar
  - 1 cup water
- Combine beets, cabbage, horseradish, salt, pepper and sugar. Heat vinegar and water to boiling point. Add to first mixture and mix thoroughly. Pack into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield about 8 cups.

- ### PLUM SAUCE
- 1 20-ounce can greengage plums
  - 2 teaspoons sugar
  - 2 teaspoons chopped pimento
  - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
  - 2 teaspoons vinegar
  - 1/2 teaspoon chopped preserved ginger
- Minced garlic to taste (if desired)
- Drain and sieve plums. Add sugar, pimento, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, ginger and garlic, blending thoroughly. Allow to stand several hours. Yield: 1 cup.

Women over 40 Need Exercise, Not More Rest

LONDON (CP)—Women over 40, anxious to avoid that middle-age spread, should never surrender to the temptations of an afternoon's rest. Instead they should engage in greater activity and show a keener interest in life.

The advice was given by Dr. Ethel Dukes, vice-chairman of the Marriage Guidance Council, at a conference here of the Women Public Health Officers' Association.

Many women, said Mr. Dukes, had found as they progressed in middle life that they gained more energy, greater independence of outlook and more assurance of their own powers.

"The difficulty is that when we get to middle age so often become dissatisfied with what we have done and a sense of disappointment follows," she said.

Dr. Dukes declared that women's health had improved greatly compared with conditions 160 years ago. There was a great danger, however, that women who lived in cities did not get enough exercise and as a result many became anaemic.

To get the most out of middle age women should cultivate the habit of walking instead of riding in cars and buses. "Keep your mind alert and have a tremendous interest in your work," she advised.

Glamorous Bolero Is Featured

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The fashions of 1951 and early previews of 1952 spring styles have put paid to an untidy dress habit that reached its peak in wartime—the wearing of cardigans over dresses.

Fashion now decrees that stylish boleros replace the cardigans. The boleros, in fact, now are as important as gloves, bag and shoes. Except for sports outfits, cardigans are worn only with jumpers and even then, smart women pick cleverly-styled twin-sets. Unmatched two-pieces are a thing of the past.

When boleros made their first post-war appearances, they met much opposition from those who remembered the shapeless numbers that went with waistless dresses in the early 1920's. Now even the most skeptical have been won over by the stylish suitability of present designs.

Essentially a youthful garment, the bolero has been given a touch of glamor and sophistication. Take, for instance, a slim-skirted, high-necked black wool dress with long tight sleeves, add a cap-sleeve jade green bolero fitting tightly under the bust, fastened by double-buttoning finishing a deep-cut neckline, and the result is sophistication.

A baggy tweed bolero with round corners, the wide three-quarter sleeves cut in one with the bodice and finished with "deer" cuffs, gives a casual look to that black, brown or navy office dress that looks so drab in early spring days.

With present royal emphasis on velvet, many women prefer boleros of this material, set off by matching pieces on the dress. At the moment, this popular garment is not easily obtained unless bought with a dress, so women smart with a needle are making their own.

Velvet alone gives a wide choice of effect with varied sheens, such as dress velvet, heavy street velvet and cord velvet.

With a fashion emphasis also on the "shaggy look," a bolero of white sheared lamb, or a smooth fur fabric is a popular choice. Boxy bolero jackets combined with straight tweedy skirts are one of this year's suit numbers.
