Sea Elephant Is Not Caddie

VICTORIA—The sea elephant, which has been captured at Ucluelet on the west coast of Vancouver Island, was not Victoria's famous Caddie, George I. Warren of the Vancouver Island Tourist Bureau declares. Caddie likes to bask in the warm waters around Victoria and would not be seen dead around Ucluelet, says Warren.

Million More Men Entering

WASHINGTON—About 1,200,000 more men will enter the armed services in the United States during the fiscal year starting July 1.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

This same hand was shown in yesterday's column. Against the spade slam, Mr. Champion opened the king of diamonds and shifted to the queen of hearts. Miss Brash then won the rest of the tricks on a squeeze play, squeezing Mr. Champion in hearts and diamonds.

This is a type of squeeze that comes up fairly frequently. Miss Brash was not surprised when the hand developed as it did. Mr. Champion's opening lead indicated he held the ace of diamonds. His heart overcall showed he was probably the only defender who could guard the heart suit.

Here is what must happen for a squeeze play to develop. One defender must find it necessary to guard two or more suits. He must have the only guards which his side has in those suits.

You, as declarer, must have some other suit (usually the trump suit) which you can lead until the "key" opponent has to throw away a guard in one of the suits he is protecting. It is also vital to have entries between your hand and dummy.

Here is a simple rule to determine how many cards your opponent must keep in each suit. If his card is the highest in a suit, he needs only one card. If he holds the second highest, he must keep two cards in the suit; if the third highest, three cards, and so on.

Applying this to the current deal, after Mr. Champion led the king of diamonds he still had the highest diamond. Therefore he needed to keep only one card to guard that suit. After Miss Brash won trick two with the king of hearts, he had the second highest heart (the jack). So he needed to keep two hearts. A total of three cards.

	South (Miss Brash)

	C—A K 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 S	2 H	3 S	Pass
4 C	Pass	4 H	Pass
6 S	All pass

Now, Miss Brash could win the next nine tricks with her black suits. That would make a total of 11 tricks played, leaving everybody with two cards.

But we have already seen that Mr. Champion had to hold a total of three cards to guard the red suits. Playing before the dummy at trick 11, he didn't have a chance.

Funeral of Mrs. Menzie

With members of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, of which deceased had long been a prominent member, attending in a body and many old friends gathering to pay final tributes of esteem and respect, funeral of the late Mrs. Jean Menzie, wife of Victor Menzie, took place this afternoon.

Rev. Fred Antrobus, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated at the chapel of B.C. Undertakers. Interment was made in the Orange section of Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. J. C. Gilker presided at the organ for the accompaniment of hymns at the chapel service. The hymns were "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Pallbearers were H. J. Young, Peter Gamula, Victor Dell, Sam Haudenschild, William Rothwell and Douglas Frizzell.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.
