Dale Makes Deceptive Lead That Puts Him in Hot Water

Although Mr. Dale made a very successful deceptive opening lead in this deal, it must be admitted, at the time, he had no idea how it would work out.

I don't want to go on record saying the lead he chose is always desirable. On the other hand, the defender who always leads fourth highest from his longest suit and who always leads the king from a king and the highest card from a worthless three card holding, is going to have a lot of contracts made against him which he could have defeated.

Deception is a part of every successful defender's game. But he is careful to use it only when the chance of deceiving his partner is practically nil.

In today's hand Mr. Dale felt that the lead of any plain suit was likely to present declarer with a trick. He therefore decided to open a trump. The usual lead from his trump holding would be the 10. However, for whatever value it might be in giving Mr. Abel a wrong idea of the trump distribution, he selected the nine spot.

The result was devastating. As you see, if Mr. Abel had been permitted to make the first trump lead himself, he could hardly have gone wrong. Undoubtedly his first trump lead would have been the trey from the board. Mr. Meek's play of the king would have clarified the situation immediately and no trump trick would have been lost.

As it was, the lead of the nine of hearts set Mr. Abel to thinking. Obviously (to him) Mr. Dale did not have the 10—else he would have led it. Almost certainly he didn't have the king either.

Mr. Abel placed the king and 10 on his right. Now, suppose Mr. Meek also had the deuce. In that case, if a small heart were played from the board, Mr. Meek would play the deuce and the nine would force the queen. Mr. Meek would then have left the king-10 for a sure heart winner.

To guard against that, Mr. Abel made the "safety" play of the jack from dummy. The king forced the ace and now Mr. Dale's guarded 10 spot represented the eventual setting trick.

In their early history, pairs were closely connected with the development of commerce and industry.

Paving Program Outlined

Depending on whether the city's board of works can obtain any gravel this year, the following paving program has been approved by city council:

On Fifth Avenue West from McBride Street to Agnew.

On Fulton Street from Fifth Avenue to Eighth Avenue.

On Eighth Avenue East from McBride to Hays Cove Circle.

This represents about 5,500 lineal feet of paving, about 30 per cent of last year's program. There is enough gravel on hand for a start, said Ald. Krueger, board of works chairman, but possibly not enough to complete the project.

Meanwhile, council decided it would not purchase the gravel crushing plant from Wood & McClay on Highway 16 as the plant is in poor condition. No other source of gravel has yet been found.
