

Leaders of Three Major Parties Well Received at Campaign Meets

By The Canadian Press

Canada's tax rates are lower than those of the United States, says Prime Minister, answering Progressive Conservative charges that Canada's taxes are too single person, earning $10,000 a year, is taxed $269 in Canada, $332 in Britain, but $300 in the U.S., the Liberal leader told French-speakers at St. Johns, Quebec, and at nearby Granby on Monday.

The rates for married persons with two children are slightly higher in Canada than in the U.S., he said, but when family allowances are taken into consideration, the Canadian rate is the lowest of the three nations.

The crowd broke into his speech repeatedly with applause.

Similar enthusiasm for the prime minister was displayed at other meetings as he made a 100-mile motorcade drive from Sherbrooke to St. Johns.

The two-day sweep marked the end of the hectic campaigning in the rural areas of Ontario and Quebec.

BACK TO DESK

Today he returns to Ottawa to pitch into a pile-up of government work before resuming his campaign Wednesday.

George Drew today moves into Quebec in a final attempt to dent the Liberals' overpowering Commons majority from that province.

Backed by only three Quebec members at dissolution, the Progressive Conservative leader will devote two of his last five campaigning days to trying to gather in more of Quebec's 85 seats. The other three days will be in Ontario.

After a week-end rest from southwestern Ontario campaigning last week, Mr. Drew gave over Monday to personal campaigning in his own riding of Carleton.

SPEAKS FROM WAGON

He attended a community athletic meet, a garden party and a square dance-ple social, speaking by turns from a hay wagon, a lawn and the back of a truck used as a hillbilly orchestra platform.

A main theme of his speeches was the development of Canada's natural resources, and he promised that a Progressive Conservative government would take steps to see that these are developed further for the benefit of Canada.

"One of the decisions to be made Aug. 10 is whether you want a national policy to develop our resources, or to have them exported to the United States to build up that country."

At Victoria, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said Monday night that beneath Social Credit is a plan for the regimentation of the Canadian people.

"It marks," he said, "the rise of a North American form of fascism here and in Alberta that is an aggregation of anti-social elements assisted by the credulous to put in for office groups of unscrupulous opportunists."

CROWDED HALL

The statement was applauded by an audience of 500 which crowded a dance hall.

"I find it difficult to understand how sensible and intelligent people could vote for exactly the same kind of philosophy—if I can call it a philosophy—as our boys in Germany and Italy defeated in the Second World War."

Social Credit, Mr. Coldwell said, was one of the biggest pieces of hypocrisy Canada had ever seen.

A CCF government would introduce a comprehensive social security system to replace the present "piecemeal and inadequate" system.

"If we can raise money for destruction—necessary, though defence is—surely we can raise money for the alleviation of human suffering and the serving of human need."

Archaeologist Starts Search For Treasure

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—United States archeologist Henry Whitehead of Chicago is making a one-man expedition to search for Spanish treasure hidden in northern Guatemala since 1541.

Before leaving Guatemala City, Whitehead said his ultimate destination was near the Piedras Negras Mayan ruins in a virtually unexplored section of the State of Peten, near the border of Mexico. The area consists largely of thick jungle hiding the remains of the late Mayan empire.

The archeologist, after several months' study of ancient documents in Guatemala's San Carlos University, said he had detailed information about the treasure and estimated its value at "several million dollars in gold and silver." This followed several years' study of old Spanish maps and historical documents in Mexico City.

Whitehead said considerable treasure destined for Spain from Mexico was packed by mule from Mexico City to Guatemala where it was regularly placed on Spanish ships at the Guatemalan Pacific port of Izapa, south of the present port of San Jose.

The Mexico-Guatemala trail led through the area near the Piedras Negras, he said, and that route was abandoned by the Spanish conquerors because of continual attacks by Indians.

Whitehead said he was confident he knew the location of the treasure taken from one of the pack trains by the Indians and placed in hiding in one of their temples.

Interesting Program Given Mrs. Phoebe MacKellar

A noted Canadian actress, Mrs. Phoebe Erskine MacKellar, last night entertained a small but appreciative audience in St. Andrew's Parish Hall.

Mrs. MacKellar, who presented her "One Woman Theatre" under the auspices of the wardens of the cathedral on behalf of the building fund, began her program with two of Pauline Johnson's poems, one of which was the famous "Song My Paddle Sings."

When Mrs. MacKellar was in Victoria recently she was introduced to Miss Agnew who, when she knew that Mrs. MacKellar was coming to Prince Rupert to do a show of dramatic items about Canada, recalled that over 40 years ago Pauline Johnson had put on a reading of her own poetry in St. Andrew's Church Hall here.

So, in salute to this former event, Mrs. MacKellar began her program with the two Pauline Johnson poems.

Educated in Montreal and New Brunswick, Mrs. MacKellar spent a year in London finishing her education. She attended McGill University and played leading roles in McGill Players Club productions for two seasons.

At the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, she was awarded the certificate of merit. She followed this with work in British films and teaching dramatics in London. For five summers Mrs. MacKellar returned to Canada to give outdoor productions of Shakespeare's plays with casts of all ages.

During the war she continued her work in Canada with summer productions, adding plays on North American Indian legends.

Her husband is Capt. Andrew MacKellar of Cunard Steamship Line.

While here Mrs. MacKellar is the guest of Cmdr. and Mrs. N. A. Beketov.

'I'd like to say this to all Canadians...'

UNDER a Liberal government, Canadians have added every year to the national strength and national unity of Canada;

We have had the greatest expansion of social welfare in our history;

We have increased our employment, our production and our national income every year;

We have had the greatest expansion of our primary and secondary industries—truly an industrial revolution;

Because of the outstanding contribution of the members of our Navy, Army and Air Force, we have been able to do our full share to prevent and to stop Communist aggression;

We have reduced the national debt every year, and, in the last two years, reaped the reward in lower tax rates.

Do we want all that to be continued?

Do you really think it's time for a change?

For a change to a Parliament of regional groups—a handful of Social Crediters from the Far West, a few Socialists from the Prairies, a few more Conservatives from Ontario or the Maritimes and some so-called Independents from Quebec?

In such a Parliament without the leadership and responsibility of a united national party, how could the government help being weak and insecure?

Do we want a weak and divided government to deal with the formidable problems of the next few years? I ask you, IS it really time for a change?

We believe most Canadians want a government which encourages enterprise, promotes trade and fosters the exploration and development of our resources; and you know it as well as we do, that requires balanced budgets, paying off debts in prosperous times and a tax structure which, while fair to all, is adequate to meet these demands.
