Memorial For King At Terrace

TERRACE—The auditorium of the Civic Centre was filled Friday for the civic memorial service for the late King George VI.

Meeting at the Legion quarters, members of the Canadian Legion and the Women's Auxiliary, supported by the Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies, paraded to the Civic Centre where the service started at 2 p.m.

Red-coated Mounties and standard bearers of each group took their places on each side of the stage.

On the stage were a combined choir of churches, the stringed symphony orchestra (Peter van Stock, cello; Pem van Heek, violin, and Mr. Havaloor, flute); Mrs. L. Newhouser, soloist, and Miss Elliot Head, pianist.

D. G. Little, leader of ceremony, presented Captain J. A. Wilson, who gave an interesting talk on the resume of the late King's life.

Rev. F. H. Mallett of United Church led in prayer.

Rev. A. C. Shindel of the Pentecostal Church read a passage for the Bible, followed by a solo, "Crossing the Bar," by Mrs. L. Newhouser, accompanied by Miss Elliot Head.

Venerable Archdeacon E. S. Hodson of St. Matthew's Church gave a touching address on the "mortality of the late King George VI."

Hymns sung were "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me."

The service ended with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

What to Do at Terrace Bridge

TERRACE—Will Robinson pointed out to the Terrace and District Board of Trade that the district will be faced with a major traffic problem this year, during the "transition period," as the present Skeena River bridge will possibly have to come down to give way to a double-decker bridge for the highway above and the railway below. It is a problem which is under serious consideration of the department, Mr. Robinson said.

Million Dollar Ore Cargo Here—Nitinat Now Manned By Rupert Crew

A million-dollar cargo of ore from a famous Yukon mine was here at the week-end aboard a coasting freighter. It was 1600 tons of gold, silver, lead and zinc ore from the United Keno Mines which the Frank Waterhouse steamer Cassiar, Capt. William Gleeson, had picked up at Skagway and was delivering to Vancouver. The Cassiar arrived at 9:45 Saturday morning from a regular voyage to Alaska points—Skagway, Juneau, Wrangell and Ketchikan—and sailed at 1 p.m. for Vancouver direct after picking up a ten-ton parcel of fish here.

A second Frank Waterhouse freighter, the Chilliwack, Capt. Gar Pengelly, was in port Saturday. The vessel arrived at 8 a.m. from Vancouver via Kemano, where she had spent four days unloading a full cargo of freight, and sailed at 3 p.m. for Stewart and Alice Arm. She will pick up ore cargo at both of the northern mining ports and is due back here about Wednesday southbound.

Union steamer Camosun, Capt. James Hunter, arrived in port at 10:30 last night from Vancouver via Kemano and other coast points and sailed this morning for Alice Arm and Stewart.

whence she is due back here tomorrow to sail at noon on her return south.

Union steamer Chilcotin, Capt. William McCombe, arrived at 5:30 last evening from north Queen Charlotte Island points and sailed at 8 p.m. for Vancouver.

The Greek-owned and Panamanian-registered freighter George Embricos, bringing a cargo of sulphur from Galveston, Texas, for delivery to British Columbia pulp and paper mills, is now expected here about Thursday of this week. Watson Island will be the first port of call on this coast for the vessel. She will proceed from here to Ocean Falls, Port Alice and Powell River.

Prince Rupert is well represented on the motor vessel Nitinat plying between here and Kemano and Kitimat. Art Johnson, former logging contractor and log buyer, is skipper; Johnny Strand, local fisherman, mate; Harold Comer, formerly with the fishery patrol, chief engineer; Jock McConville, formerly with the Army Transport here, second engineer; Gil Auriol, local fisherman, seaman, and Bill Antill, chef de luxe around Northern B.C. and the seven seas, cook. Only southerner aboard is Point Five Lutz, seaman, who calls Vancouver his home.

Demand for Ships Piles Up Backlog

LONDON (C)—With an unprecedented inflow of orders during 1951, British shipbuilding yards are stocked up with work on 1,100 merchant ships, either in the process of construction or still to be laid down. The full program comes to more than 6,500,000 gross tons and represent an estimated outlay of about £1,000,000,000 at current prices. Nearly one-third of the tonnage is earmarked for export.

Returns compiled by Lloyd's register show that at the beginning of the year merchant shipping under construction in the major countries of the western world, amounted to nearly 5,500,000 tons. Of this total, more than 2,200,000 tons, or 40.2 per cent was being built in British yards, 167,000 tons more than in 1950.

The return discloses that during the last quarter of 1951 work was started on 69 new ships in the United Kingdom, bringing the total tonnage begun during the year to 1,480,000 or 36.3 per cent of the world's total.

But with new orders piling in a backlog of more than 4,000,000 gross tons was placed on the order books, equivalent to about 2½ years normal production at the present rate of output. Spokesmen for the industry have made it clear, however, that orders placed for new ships will not of necessity pile up at the end of a long queue. If ample supplies of the right type of steel are available, they say annual production could be stepped up to about 1,750,000 gross tons, compared with the present average of 1,340,000 for the last three years.

A particularly heavy demand continues for oil tankers. In British yards alone, 105 ships or 56 per cent of the aggregate tonnage under construction, is represented by this class of vessel. Oil tankers also represent 33.4 per cent of the total merchant shipping under construction in other western alliance countries. Output figures were not available for Russia, China, Poland and other "Iron Curtain" countries.

The film heralds the arrival of two new young stars, Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie, in the story of action and romance against the colorful setting of Thirteenth Century Tangiers.

Curtis, in his dashing portrayal, brings back memories of Douglas Fairbanks and Rudolph Valentino. Piper Laurie combines youthful beauty and charming pixie quality. Plot centres around an assassination plan which is a kidnapping of a famous gem which has a happy ending many exciting sequences.

Terrace Worried Over Post Office

TERRACE—Concern was voiced at the February meeting of the Terrace and District Board of Trade at continued silence in regard to the erection of a new Federal building in Terrace and a landing wharf at Lakelse Lake. Several months have passed since correspondence was opened but nothing appears to have been done. Now with construction work on bridge, road and railway to the Kitimat about to take place, with the consequent influx of workers and their families, the Board felt that work cannot be started too early on the new postoffice. The Federal member, E. T. Applewhite, will therefore be written again and his reply taken up at the next meeting.

Terrace Snow Fight Costly

TERRACE—Fighting snow costs money and the village commissioners of Terrace say some time the amount of cash is substantial. At a recent meeting they reviewed the bills for bulldozing which reached a total of $998. And that, say the commissioners, may not be the total, when everything is in.
