AIRCRAFTMAN REG JOHNSTONE, a Chippewan Indian from Cape Croker near Owen Sound, Ont., killed enough game with this crossbow to keep nine men in food for 16 days during an RCAF winter bush survival course 160 miles west of Edmonton. Using only an axe, hunting knife, cord and steel from a parachute pack, and green wood, Johnstone, 25, made the crossbow and a set of skeel-tipped arrows. At left is a tent of the type in which airmen live during winter survival courses.
