

Brilliant British Statesman Passes

LONDON (AP)—Viscount Simon, who held leading cabinet posts 80, one of Britain's most brilliant barristers, and a statesman world wars, died Monday in Westminster Hospital.

Ill only the last two weeks, Lord Simon had remained extremely active and last spoke in debate in the House of Lords just before the Christmas recess.

As plain John Allsebrook Simon, only son of a Conservative minister, he gained phenomenal legal success as one of the greatest cross examiners at the British bar. He was knighted in 1910 when he was serving as solicitor-general, and from that time he held posts as attorney-general with a seat in the cabinet 1931-35, home secretary again and deputy leader of the House of Commons 1935-37, chancellor of the exchequer 1937-40.

Merchants in Red Capitol Have Round-The-Clock Job

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—In Moscow you can pay a telephone bill at 3 a.m., buy a pair of shoes on the way home from the movies, or watch brick-layers at work all through the night.

A walk down Gorki street at 10:30 p.m. reveals the extent to which Muscovites have turned night into day. Unlike the business districts of downtown Montreal, Toronto or Vancouver, Gorki street is densely populated and there is as much traffic as on Montreal's St. Catherine street on a week night.

A grocery store here is called a gastronomie or a magazine and handles most articles in the food and drink line.

SELL FOODS, LIQUOR

At 10:30 p.m. gastronomes were selling their full daytime range: cooked meats, sausages, ham, bacon, tea, coffee, bread, butter, margarine, cheese, preserves, biscuits, cakes, chocolate bars, soft drinks, beer, vodka, wines, champagnes.

They open at 8 a.m. and close at 11 p.m. or midnight. But there is one gastronomie a stone's throw from the Kremlin which is open from 6 a.m. to 4 a.m.

Also serving customers were the bakers, selling black, brown and white bread, and pretzel-like biscuits looped together on a string and sold by the kilo (2½ pounds).

Cheese shops, which also sell milk butter and meat, and fruit shops, where you can buy liquor too, were still open.

DRUG STORES OPEN

Drug stores, which dispense spectacles as well, were doing business, as was the central telegraph office where until 3 a.m. you can send a letter, pay a telephone bill, make a long-distance call or send a telegram or cable anywhere in the world.

Some clothing stores were open, especially those selling shoes. Other stores, such as the stationery and book shops with which Moscow abounds, close at 8 p.m.

Barber and beauty shops are open until 11 p.m. and some restaurants are full until 3 a.m.

Typical of the round-the-clock atmosphere was a large apartment house project just behind Gorki street. Two cranes searchlights studying their arms, were hauling bricks and mortar from ground crews to the bricklayers and masons nine and 10 storeys above.

SCREEN ★ ★ FLASHES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Howard Hughes' RKO studio was fined $25,000 by the movie code Friday, administrator for exhibition and advertising of Jane Russell's latest picture, French Line.

The movie was given a premiere at St. Louis last month without the production code administration's seal of approval. It has been banned by the Roman Catholic church's Legion of Decency and by the St. Louis Catholic arch-diocese.

Joseph Breen, production code administrator, termed it "offensive because of indecent exposure" during a dance number by Miss Russell. The studio took no appeal from Breen's ruling and failed to make the changes he suggested in the picture and its advertising.

Miss Russell said she agreed with Breen's criticism, and refused to go to St. Louis for the premiere.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Film star Jane Wyman sued for a divorce from her third husband, Frederick M. Karger, composer and musical director, Friday.

Her brief complaint accused him of "wrongfully inflicting grievous physical and mental suffering" upon her but gave no details.

It said they were married Nov. 1, 1952, at Santa Barbara, Calif., and separated Jan. 3.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand is making an effort to reform its chaotic Maori land laws. At present, land often descends to entire families, is again divided among their children and so on. In some cases there are so many owners that an individual receives as his share of the rent about one penny in 48 years.

Imagine switching indoor and outdoor lights "on and off" from your bedside

REMOTE CONTROL WIRING SYSTEM

provides master switches to control lights and appliances from several convenient locations

Few features of your home will create so much interest among friends as Remote Control Wiring... a new home-wiring system that allows you to control lights and appliances from conveniently-located master switches. This step-saving system was developed and perfected by G.E. to add to the comfort, convenience and safety of your every-day living.

A master switch at the bedside can not only turn off a forgotten cellar light, it can turn on downstairs, garage and outside lights, if you think you hear prowlers... even turn on your coffee in the morning. When you arrive home at night, another master switch at the front door or garage can light a pathway through the house. These master switches can be situated wherever you may need them.

Although this system is an outstanding improvement in home-wiring, it costs surprisingly little. A group of well-known Canadian architects have specified G-E Remote Control Wiring for the modern Trend Houses being built across Canada. Make certain your architect, contractor or builder includes this convenient wiring system in the plans for your new home, or discover from your electrical contractor how easy it is to install it in your present home.

Remote Control Wiring is another outstanding example of Canadian General Electric's continuing contributions to a better way of living.

Inadequate wiring is a bottleneck to better living...

Even in a new home you may be faced with inadequate wiring... with too few circuits and outlets to plug in lamps and appliances where they are most wanted. By arranging with your architect, builder or contractor to install adequate wiring at the time of building, you make low cost provision for the work-saving appliances you own or plan to own and greatly increase the re-sale value of your home. It costs much less to provide adequate outlets when building than to add them later.

Canadian General Electric has pioneered and improved wiring materials to bring you the full benefits of electrical living through a safe and convenient wiring system.
