

Outdoor stuff ... with Marty

Some times I wonder if we fish water anglers make enough use of the highly diversified fishing which Prince Rupert harbor affords. A lot of people I know, spend plenty of money for really good fishing outfits, then use them only on the yearly vacation or on long week-ends, miles and miles inland from here.

Why not use your fly fishing outfit after supper on these long summer evenings?

Early this week I saw a very capable fly rod man working from one of the floats at the east end of Fairview Co-op plant. He was rigged precisely as for trout, except for the fly, which was merely a red bead on the end of the leader, held in place by a number two hook. The whole stunt was to flick the lure out about thirty feet (that is quite easy when you have unlimited back-cast space), then allow it to sink a couple of feet or so, and retrieve in short sharp jerks.

He got a scrappy Dolly Varden as reward for each eight or ten casts. Just bear in mind that Dollys are lots of fun when taken out of the salt chuck, and they are even more fun when taken out of the frying pan! If you can't have a red bead handy, then a piece of the shank of a pin "Tee" will do as well.

The whole idea is to imitate a salmon egg as closely as possible.

By the way, next time you get a jar of single salmon eggs, open it up and pour away the liquid, then load the jar with all the table salt it will hold; leave it a while and the eggs get plenty hard so they will withstand a whole lot of casting. Just remember to wipe your rod and reel when you get home, there is no need to encourage rust.

BACK UP YOUR GAME WARDEN HE IS WORKING FOR YOU MORE THAN YOU REALIZE!

I know a guy and a gal just back from a honeymoon this month. They saw lots of weather and lots of country too, but they didn't bother to use the nice new tent and flea bags they took with them. Oh! No! They stayed at all the Motels they could find, they fished Pinkut and Babine and Francois and Tchesnut and many others of the interior lakes, and they honeymooned too - and by the way, they caught a trout, just one trout at the east end of Francois Lake; so if honeymooners can catch trout, I reckon that is a good tipoff where the rest of us anglers should go! Good luck Dave and Jean, and good fishing!

Now about this column, which will come at you once a week, it belongs entirely to the Hunting and Fishing Fraternity, so it is up to my readers to build it. Send your questions along and we will dig for the answers; do not get unnecessarily technical and we shall all gain by discussing things concerning our chosen sport.

We would also like to hear anecdotes from brother outdoorsmen throughout the interior and northern British Columbia.

The Smithers Rod and Gun Club is to be congratulated on the way its efforts at raising pheasants are progressing, and we note with much pleasure that the government is to render some financial assistance toward building a road to the trout hatchery near Lake Kathryn. This hatchery enterprise is a purely local endeavor and has resulted in several successful plantings of rainbows and cut-throats in adjacent lakes, during the past few years.

JOIN THE PRINCE RUPERT ROD AND GUN ASSOCIATION.

Working in conjunction with Corporal Ed Martin of the Game Commission, your columnist has made a collection of undersized trout from nearby Oliver Lake. These trout are now in the hands of Professor Larkin of UBC who will subject them to exhaustive examination in an effort to find the reason for their small size at maturity. More about this later.

There has been no meeting of the Prince Rupert Rod and Gun Association lately, but I believe Secretary George Rorvik is in correspondence with Field and Stream Magazine of New York City, with a view to obtaining one or more of that magazine's moving pictures to be shown

Hotelmen Take Second Place by Unearned Runs

Scoring only unearned runs, Commercial Hotel chalked up another victory Sunday in their uphill stride by defeating Abel & Odowes 7-5.

The Clothiers—dumped to last place in the league—chalked up a season record of 11 errors which gave them all the trouble, and even with two three-base hits by Dahl and Abel in the fifth, could not catch up with the gifts they gave the enemy.

A tie score entered the ninth inning which saw two more runs added to Commercial's tally. Fitcher Reynolds singled, Catcher Morgan singled and Arney sacrificed. Williamson struck out, Lewis grounded to Windle who threw wide to first and two runs scored on the error.

A short rally in the same inning by A&O in which Abel singled and Lindsay walked scored off.

Fraser started on the mound for Commercial and had given up only two hits and one run until the fifth inning when with one out, the Clothiers tagged him for four hits, including two triples, which sent the Commercial hurler to the showers.

Reynolds pitched the balance of the game, giving up two hits and one run.

For A&O, Letourneau started, giving up four hits but was pulled in the fourth to save him for the Ketchikan series which opens here tonight. Dahl pitched three innings and Lindsay finished, between them giving up five hits.

An analysis of the stomachs of several millions of trout, taken from waters all over the world, shows that 53 per cent of this stomach content is aquatic and terrestrial insects. This is the reason why I prefer to stick to straight fly fishing when after trout; the spinner is a very good lure but is NOT my first choice.

The beaver are doing a major engineering job by damming and raising the level of Oliver Lake. You may get a glimpse of these busy workers, if you make a quiet and patient evening approach, but please be particularly careful not to interfere with them.

It's good to know that the lady folks are becoming more interested in sharing fishing expeditions with their men folks. I notice Ione and David Stone spend a lot of time at various waters along the highway, besides the short jaunts they make to Seal Cove and Fairview. They are getting lots of fish, too!

Who is the new young lady in town who is catching all the big codfish. She works at the courthouse, I believe?

There is a little talk going around about starting a Coho Salmon Derby. Will any interested potential participants kindly send along their names and any comments or suggestions. Thanks a lot and I'll see you next week. Good fishin'.

Yanks Knock Out Senators In Twin Bill

NEW YORK © — New York Yankees followed their time proven pennant formula—knock off your nearest rivals—again on Sunday as they whipped Washington Senators twice, 5-0 and 3-1.

Washington entered the Yankee Stadium in second place, three games behind the Yanks and boasted a five-game winning streak but when Allie Reynolds and Rookie Bill Miller finished their day's work the Nats had slid to fifth place, five games astern.

Reynolds recorded his third two-hitter in the opener as he coasted to his tenth triumph and 14th complete game of the season. Yogi Berra wrapped it up for the Big Chief with a three-run homer off former Yank Bob Porterfield in the first inning.

Miller held Washington scoreless until the ninth inning of the second game. Berra doubled and scored on Bobby Brown's single in the second and Yanks tucked it away with two more in the fifth.

Boston Red Sox climbed from fourth to second place, 4½ games off pace, without swinging a bat. Their doubleheader with Philadelphia was rained out but they moved up as Cleveland dropped from third to fourth-place tie with Chicago White Sox.

White Sox downed the Indians 4-2 in the opener of a doubleheader. The teams battled to a 7-7 tie-inning tie in the second game.

Olympic Torch Kindled in Historic Rite

OLYMPIA, Greece (Reuters)—The Olympic torch, symbol of the world games, was kindled by the rays of the sun here in rites as old as history.

The ceremony was held in the grey ruins of the Temple of Zeus, ancient home of the games.

Glinting from a curved mirror, the sun's rays ignited an olive branch.

Then a Greek girl in national costume used the branch to light an ancient cup-shaped lamp dating back to the Greek Olympiads, which were held every four years for 1000 years until 394 A.D.

The Olympic torch was kindled from this lamp and will be carried to the Olympic stadium at Helsinki, Finland, by relays of athletes—and airlines.

It symbolizes the demand of the ancient Greeks that all states taking part should keep a sacred truce during the games, and the modern idea of Baron Pierre de Coubertin—who revived the games in 1896 and whose heart is buried at Olympia—that the peoples of the world might be drawn together on the sports field.

The lighted torch was placed on a plane which left Friday for Dusseldorf, Germany.

From Dusseldorf the torch was flown to Aalborg, Northern Jutland, the same day. Then runners in relays will take it to Helsinki for the Olympic Games which start July 19.

Sports Day Set by TLC

Arrangements for the annual Labor Day sports program of the Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council were discussed at a special meeting this week.

G. W. Watmough was appointed chairman of the soap box derby committee after it was decided to stage the event.

Other committee chairmen appointed were: Fred Faulkner, sports; Ken Laird, dance, and E. A. Evans, who is secretary of the TLC, is chairman of the finance committee.

The sports day, held annually on Labor Day, will take place September 1—the first Monday in September—at Roosevelt Park.

It is not known yet how many will enter the soap box derby, but interested parties should contact Mr. Watmough.

High Scoring Runner

LOS ANGELES.—High scorer among track men in the 1948 Olympics in London was Mal Whitfield of the United States. He won the 800, was third in the 400, and anchored the winning 1600-metre relay team.

High scorer in the 1952 Helsinki games will probably also be Whitfield. Now he wants three gold medals.

"I'm more serious this time," he says. "I'm more experienced, too. I'm in the best shape of my life."

Whitfield, 27, stands a little more than six feet tall, weighs 165, is a sergeant in the United States Air Force on leave (after having seen action in Korea) and is a tough competitor.

Whitfield showed his class in the A.A.U. championships last week when he trounced George Rhoden, the world record holder, in the 400 meters. The track was not very fast, either.

"Are you afraid of Rhoden or Ralph Wint?"

"Who me—afraid? I like competition."

Wint is a Jamaican like Rhoden, and phenomenally tall. He won the 400 meters at London, was second in the 800. Until Whitfield showed up in such superb shape, American experts were willing to concede the 400 to Rhoden, and held little hope in the 800 against Wint. Now the picture is different.

MOST STYLISH
Whitfield is probably the most stylish of modern middle distance runners. His stride of over nine feet is smooth, his arm action is regular. Even in as fast a race as the 400, he has a way of suddenly putting on more speed that looks like a great 16-cylinder car moving ahead of a jalopy.

The Most Powerful Gasoline Your Car Can Use!

SHELL PREMIUM GASOLINE

Today's more powerful engines require a highly complex gasoline to deliver their full power. There can be as many as 1500 different chemical compounds in a gallon of gasoline.

To select the best of these chemicals, and to arrange them properly to fulfill the needs of your car calls for the last word in refinery equipment and scientific skill.

It is Shell's manufacturing policy to make "The most powerful gasoline your car can use." Shell activates gasoline by splitting and rearranging petroleum molecules.

The result—Shell Premium—the most powerful gasoline your car can use. See the Shell Dealer in your neighborhood.
