The formula will be presented to a meeting of union local representatives here tonight.

Shipping Subsidy Vetoed

By The Canadian Press
OTTAWA. — The cabinet has decided against subsidizing Canada's deep-sea shipping fleet to keep it operating under the Canadian flag, it was learned Wednesday.

However, a government source said, operators hard-pressed by ocean competition will be allowed to dispose of ships built in this country during the war and bought under a "covenant" after hostilities.

An announcement on the turn-down of representations from the Canadian Shipowners Association may be made today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

While information was lacking on just what the government will do for the 33-ship fleet, sources said the easing of the covenant means either:

1. Owners will be allowed to sell war-built ships to other countries, or
2. They will be allowed to transfer them to British registry, under which cheap operating costs will enable them to make a profit.

The shipowners had proposed to cabinet, in a submission Oct. 15, that the fleet be subsidized as a means of keeping a shipping "nucleus" under direct Canadian control, largely so that it could be in the hands of this country immediately in the event of an emergency.

The owners suggested that a $5,000,000-a-year subsidy would be enough to keep the fleet operating.

A report from an interdepartmental committee of the government studying the question, it was learned today, advanced the idea of a subsidy of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Reds Continue Stall on POW Interviews

PANMUNJOM — The Indian command worked today on detailed plans for screening Chinese and Korean war prisoners if the Communists abandon efforts to woo them home.

Red interviews with the prisoners who have refused repatriation were cancelled for the eighth straight day when the Communists repeated their demand to see 356 POWs who were skipped by stalling persuaders last Thursday.

Official quarters said the Red move appeared to be merely a manoeuvre while the Communist high command decides whether to go along with the new Indian rules for running the interviews or torpedo the explanation program.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, has told the Reds to interview entire compounds of 500 men each in a day or skip those who are not interviewed.

IN A BLINDING SNOWSTORM the 25,000-ton T. R. McLagan, believed the largest ship ever built inland for service on inland waters, splashes into the storm-tossed Georgian Bay at Midland, Ont. The 715-foot McLagan is 50 feet longer than any ship now using the Welland Canal. The $5,000,000 vessel will carry 800,000 bushels of wheat or 25,000 tons of iron ore. She was launched by Mrs. T. R. McLagan, wife of the president of the owners, Canada Steamship Lines.

School Trustees Ask Council For New Borden School Site

City council will be asked to set aside property in an area between Borden Street and Roosevelt park as a site for the proposed new Borden Street school.

Trustees of school district No. 52 Tuesday night planned to ask the city to hold the land for their use and to allow the board to survey the large area for the best site for the new school.

It has since been learned that the property the board is seeking is owned by the department of national defence, but city hall spokesman said this morning the city could make application to the department for the land.

Meanwhile, the board continued to press plans for the new building, necessity of which was outlined a month ago by district school inspector Wilfred Graham who said the present Borden Street school would be overcrowded within the year.

Information on the school needs will be sent to Victoria immediately, in hopes that the department of education will give the go-ahead on drawing up plans for the building.

PRESENT BYLAW

The board hopes to present a money bylaw to cover the school construction cost next December. In the meantime, if the department approves, architects must be appointed, plans drawn up and cost estimates made.

The board also took steps to launch the Conrad Street school addition proposal.

A local draftsman will be asked to design a two-room addition to Conrad school, for submission to the department of education.

The board hopes to be able to undertake the Conrad school project without a money bylaw. A one-mill city tax levy in the Public Schools Act, plus government grants, might cover the cost of the project.

The meeting also heard a progress report on the new Port Edward school, now under construction.

John Currie, formerly of Mitchell and Currie, who is supervising the Port Edward job, told the board that work on the school was slightly behind schedule due to poor weather, but that outside walls were in and most of the drainage completed.

War Lets Up While Veterans Honor Dead at Memorial Service Here

During Reveille the colors were raised. This was followed by the playing of The March by Jim Munro as representatives of all services and other organizations placed wreaths at the base of the Cenotaph. All told 17 wreaths were placed.

Members of the sea and air cadet corps lined the pathway from the court house to the Cenotaph, along which representatives strode to the war memorial.

After the navy band played God Save the Queen, units again paraded along Third Avenue, with senior units heading for the armories to disperse and the cadets to the navy drill hall.

Many of those who took part in the parade later attended the annual dinner in the Legion and the dance later, which climaxed the end of Legion week.
