LONDON (CP)— Farthings, British coins worth a quarter of a penny, are regarded rather contemptuously by the public. But the Royal Mint says they have to be kept in circulation because many food prices are expressed in farthings.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

Don't Use Power Cards for Signalling

"Listen, Muzzy," yelled Mr. Champion, "before you signal to show strength in a suit, you've got to be sure you can spare the card you signal with."

Mr. Champion was both right and wrong. He was right in what he said about signalling. He was wrong to think it did any good to tell Mr. Muzzy.

This is what brought on the discussion. Mr. Champion opened the king of hearts against Mrs. Keen's three no trump contract. Mr. Muzzy, who currently has a craze on the subject of signals, showed proper enthusiasm by playing his eight spot. Correct so far.

The bidding:

Mrs. Keen ducked the first trick but had to win the heart continuation. She had only eight winners and the club suit was the only possible place to try to develop a ninth one.

Before starting on the clubs, however, she decided to run her four diamond tricks to give the enemy a chance to err in discarding. An excellent decision.

Mr. Champion had to make two discards. He chose the nine and seven of spades, cards he could well afford to let go. Mr. Muzzy had to make just one discard, but he made it count—for the opposition. On the fourth diamond lead he played the eight of clubs.

This accomplished two things. It told Mr. Champion he could safely lead a club—and it gave Mrs. Keen her contract.

All Mrs. Keen had to do now was to lay down the ace, king and another club. Mr. Muzzy won the third round with the queen and the defenders then collected two more heart tricks. But after that they were through.

If Mr. Muzzy had held all his clubs, the contract would have been hopeless. Signals are valuable, but they're no good when they lose a trick.

Murder Charge Laid Against Engineer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Atex Viatkin, a 24-year-old engineer, was charged with murder Sunday night in the death Saturday of a 40-year-old janitor who apparently was bludgeoned to death with a whisky bottle.

Body of the janitor, Joseph Hyland, was found in a washroom of an east-end Vancouver cafe.

Detectives disclosed they arrested Viatkin Saturday night after locating and questioning a "woman in black" who was seen in the cafe the night of Hyland's death. She was later released.

Police said Viatkin was charged after he appeared in a lineup Sunday and was identified by three persons as one of two men they had seen with Hyland shortly before his body was found.

Police didn't say if they are still searching for another man in connection with the death or whether they believe only one person was involved in the killing.

Alberta Holds Great Oil Reserves—Mines Minister

Special to The Daily News

JASPER, Alta. — Spectacular though the development of oil production has been in the province of Alberta in the five years since the discovery of the rich Leduc field, its future promises still further increase because of new reserves continually being discovered.

N. E. Tanner, minister of mines and minerals for Alberta, told Monday's session of the 49th annual meeting of the poster advertising association of Canada held for four days at Jasper Park Lodge.

At the end of last year 48 million acres were under reservation for exploration in addition to nine million acres under lease for drilling, he said.

In the year eight new fields had been discovered in the province to add to the 17 already in production.

Fourteen thousand individual oil companies are participating in the development of oil production and spent $200,000,000 last year for exploration and development under the provincial government's policy of promoting individual enterprise and preventing monopoly, Mr. Tanner declared.

"If the reserves in the sedimentary basin should be exhausted at any time in the future, there is an additional reserve in the Athabasca oil sands on the border of Alberta and northwest Territory which should produce at least 100 billion barrels, according to government estimates," the minister said.

Prior to Mr. Tanner's address, the association re-elected H. D. Cleveland, of Neon Products of Western Canada, Ltd., Vancouver, as president.

Directors elected for the year include: K. A. Murray, president, Gould-Murray, Ltd., Montreal; Watson Hook, of Hook Signs, Ltd., Calgary; W. H. Williamson, managing director, Claude Neon General Advertising Ltd., Montreal; G. M. Mair, general manager, Poster Advertising Association of Canada, Toronto; A. J. Tilton, secretary-treasurer, Poster Advertising Association of Canada, Toronto; H. F. Gould, president, Gould-Leslie, Ltd., Kitchener, Ont.; B. Bracegirdle, general manager, Claude Neon Ruddy-Kester, Ltd., Winnipeg; W. E. Seeley, plant superintendent, Williams-Thomas Ltd., Montreal; F. I. Ritchie, Brockville Poster Co., Brockville, Ont.; J. C. Latchford, E. L. Ruddy Co. Ltd., Toronto; George White, general manager, Tthe C. E. Marley Ltd., London; Mrs. G. C. Rundle, president, the C. E. Marley Ltd., London; and C. R. Brenchley, president, Williams-Thomas Ltd., Montreal.

Watson Hook is general chairman of the convention organization, and W. Muir, of Hook Signs Ltd., Edmonton, is in charge of arrangements.

Earl's Zooty Tie Appalls Fashion World

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Earl Alexander in a zooty, multi-colored Canadian tie . . . Saville Row, say it isn't so!

That was the shocked comment as cravat fanciers studied a photograph of Britain's defence minister wearing—gad, sir!—a full-blown, flashy sports tie as magnificently exhuberant as any seen on Briadway.

Lord Alexander was shown wearing the—ugh—creation at Tokyo airport, and the Daily Mail said even President Truman couldn't have chosen a more exotic number.

"That tie!" said the newspaper. "Another reputation has tumbled."

Editors of the Tailor and Cutter, weekly trade publication noted for forthwright views on fashion, took one horrified look and declared:

". . . The most startling tie news since William Ewart Gladstone arrived by rowing boat at Wapping Stairs, wearing a choker."

"Lord Alexander is regarded as one of England's most conservative and best-dressed gentlemen," said an expert on men's fashions. "To put it mildly, this seems to be quite a departure."

Grudgingly, some apologists said Alexander's service in Canada was "bound to leave its mark."

In Chobhom, Surrey, Countess Alexander confessed her husband has, in fact, "quite a few" sporty ties. Yes, she said, he had bought them in Canada, and he had a genuine fondness for them.

Over to you, Saville Row.
