"We'd like to see a change so that AHL clubs can pick up players in either the QHL or WHL who are not of NIIL calibre but who would fit into our league," said Jim Henry, general manager of Cleveland Barons. The NHL now has first call on players in the QHL and WHL.

The B.C. Telephone Company Reports:

A YEAR OF PROGRESS NTHEFORMER

GOVERNMENT TELEPHONE SYSTEM

A little more than a year ago—on April 1, 1954—the British Columbia Telephone Company took over the operation of 28 telephone exchanges and other facilities formerly operated by the Federal Government.

Here are some of the highlights of our company's first year of operation in this system:

$225,000 SPENT ON EXPANSION AND IMPROVEMENTS

Improvements of one kind or another have been made in every one of the exchanges acquired in the transfer. These include switchboard additions or replacements in many offices, renovation of buildings, rehabilitation of outside plant, as well as expansion of long distance facilities. in many areas and installation of outdoor and other telephone paystations.

21% INCREASE IN NUMBER OF TELEPHONES

The B.C. Telephone Company has made a 21% gain in the number of telephones in service in the former government system. This is more than double the percentage gain for our company as a whole during the past year.

CHANGES IN ADMINISTRATION AND OPERATION

Immediately after acquiring this system, the telephone company made an extensive survey to determine service requirements-both present and future. At the same time, a number of key personnel changes were made to bring about more efficient administration of the territory.

FOR FUTURE, DEVELOPMENT

As part of its continuing program of development in this portion of its system, during the next twelve months the B.C. Telephone Company proposes to spend another $500,000 on expansion. Projects will include additions to switchboard and associated equipment, as well as the placing of more cable, wire, crossarms and poles. Also, long distance facilities will be expanded to provide new circuits between various points and to improve existing service.
