TWO DETECTIVES ADDED TO VANCOUVER DRUG SQUAD

VANCOUVER (- Addition of two detectives to the police drug squad was announced today by criminal investigation branch superintendent Jack Horton as the latest move in the city's war on narcotics addicts and traffickers.

Meanwhile, police maintained their pressure on known addlets and suspected drug wholesalers and pushers.

Six detectives now are assigned to full time duty on the drug squad, but every member of the 700-man police force are involved in the nurassing of addicts and traffickers.
