All the let

Congratulations go out to the cafe eleven on winning the league. There is no doubt that the tricky-footed new Canadians have added not only strength to the loop but a lot of color besides. The games the Gondolas played through the league have, at times been hectic, but their wins have been decisive enough. However they never had a tougher time than last Wednesday in gaining a decision.

A doff of the homburg definitely goes to the Pulpmillers who played the final contest two men short of the regulation quota. However, they played with that indefinable "heart" and determination that is characteristically sportsman-like and which shows up best when the chips are down.

Tops in this department was the pulpmen's goalie, Hank Van Tankerin. Apart from the penalty shot, on which he had no chance, Hank covered the 708 goal like a curtain, stopping drives that should have scored on at least half a dozen occasions.

The game produced two puzzling thoughts. One-Adrian Tambourini who can usually boot a football into a paper cup at fifty paces missed scoring on a penalty shot in the first half by three yards. This is an accident? Two-Did Ed Nordio, after this penalty shot missed, need to walk all the way to the Gondola dressing room to tie a lace?

Most baseball games will produce a few errors. This week saw the greatest bunch of errors connected with any one game committed off the field. We refer to the disputed forfeiture which Commissioner Stan Moran awarded to Gordon and Anderson Monday when Commercial Hotel did not have a full team for the first game of the semi-finals. Biggest error was made by Commercial's Miner Simundson for agreeing with Rusty Ford to playing the contest in the first place. Miner had only just finished working night shift when he made the decision, prompted no doubt by the fact that in Prince Rupert you play 'em when you can. But he will be the first to agree that he missed the boat sadly when he agreed to having G & A pilot Rusty Ford notify the Commercial players that there was a game slated for that evening.

Rusty says all the players were notified-Miner says no. This can only lead to one of those "I did-You didn't" arguments which never prove very satisfactory. In this particular case whoever is right doesn't really matter. Any one of the Commercial Hotel aggregation should have been detailed to make the round-up of players. This would remove any stigma of doubt as to the thoroughness with which Mr. Ford did the job, of which

Miner says, "you did your best, but it wasn't good enough."

In the baseball-players are amazing department, comes the memory of this same Miner Simundson. His recollection of players, games and highlights is nothing short of phenomenal. Miner can recall incidents of games he has played or seen going back to the 30's. He'll tell you not only who made a win possible, but who was on base at the time, how far the ball was hit, and, we wouldn't doubt, what the count on the batter was at the time.

While on the subject of baseball, and also passing out credits, a tip of the hat is in order for Boh Morris who so conscientiously covered Little League games for this paper throughout their heavy and successful season. Thanks, Bob.

There's no doubt that Little League is over for this year. A work party was slated for this afternoon to dismantle the bleachers and back-stop down at Algoma Park.

In the having-trouble department are the Prince Rupert unofficial Pony Leaguers, plagued by rain-outs and holidays. They're still strying to get Moose and Elks together to finish up the league. The public is reminded that the Pony loop is slated to host Terrace at Roosevelt Park August 29 for an exhibition double-header.

Gone from the scene for this season are senior baseballers Gord Mundle, Gerry Blitch and Vie Carolei. Slated to depart September 3 are G & A players Bob Squires, Fred Christensen, Bill Morrison, Darrel Young and Ross Noel.

LAVAL-SUR-LE-LAC, Que. (P) -A youthful Australian team of Kelvin Nagle and Peter Thomson carried a four-stroke lead linto the second round of Canada Cup matches today while better-known golf stars like Sam Snead struggled to keep up to their sub-par pace.

Nagle was an example of consistency Friday as he methodically toured the Laval-sur-le-Lac course in 68, four under par. A surprise choice for the Australian team, he backed his selectors' judgment with four bir- | G & A manager Rusty Ford and die putts and was never over par on any of the holes.
