Re-Valuing of Hand A Must For Good Bidding

My dynamic Point Count method involves an element for accurate and realistic bidding. It is the element of re-valuation. If you open the bidding with a 15-point hand it is by no means certain that your holdling will rate that valuation the next time the bidding comes around to you. In fact the odds are overwhelmling that your hand will be worth more or less than you had originally figured it. The exact re-valuation will depend on the action taken by the other players around the table.
