WAEN THE ST. LAWRENCE seaway-power project is completed, a 40-mile stretch of the river between Cornwall and Iroquois, Ont., will form a giant international hydro pool and an Island water-way which will carry ocean shipping into the heart of North America. This is an artist's conception of the great power pool upon comple ion. Looking upstream from a point three miles west of Cornwall, it shows the Canadian shore on the right and the United States shore on the left. Stretching from Barnhart island, which lies on the U.S. side, to the Canadian side are power installations whose output of 2,200,000 hor sepower will be split evenly between Canada and the U.S. Main shipping channels with locks are on the U.S. side. At top of picture is Iroquois where work on Canada's 14,000,000 shipping channel is being rushed. (CP Photo)
